GOP Lashes At Tydings Over Report On McCarthy

Jenner Virtually Calls Him Traitor; Lodge Admits No Reds Were Found

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

Yesterday was the Senate Republicans' turn to throw back the cry of "fraud and hoax" at the Democrats who, the day before, had so denominated the charges and campaign of Senator McCarthy.

The Republicans did throw the charge back and with ever-mounting intensity, up to the point when Senator Jenner (R., Ind.), in effect virtually accused Senator Tydings (D., Md.), of being a traitor and defender of a Communist conspiracy.

The day before, Tydings, chairman of the subcommittee which returned the scathing report on McCarthy's "deceitful" attempt to show that the State Department was ridden with Communists, had run up something of a record in this generation in personal denunciation of a colleague on the Senate floor. But the record lasted only 24 hours. It was broken to bits by Jenner's outburst yesterday.

So also was the Senate's Rule 19, which forbids the imputing by one Senator to another of unworthy or unbecoming conduct or motive.

In almost so many words, Jenner implied that Secretary of State Acheson and hosts of his top officials were Communist conspirators who deliberately sold the Orient and half of Europe into Communist slavery.

And in his report declaring McCarthy's charges "a fraud and a hoax" that "deceived" the Senate and the Nation, Tydings was simply covering up for State Department "termites and vermin," Jenner said.

Tydings' report, Jenner went on, is a "blasphemous perversion of the truth." Tydings himself, Jenner continued, has organized "a conspiracy within his own political family circle to help cover up such a hideous perversion and betrayal of the public trust."

Throughout Jenner's birthday speech—he was 42 yesterday—Tydings sat quietly at his desk nibbling at a pint-sized unlighted cigar.

When Jenner finished, Tydings was on his feet to offer two reports from the Armed Services Committee, of which he is chairman, for increasing American military mobilization. He asked immediate consideration of one bill, to extend present enlistments for one year. It passed the Senate quickly.

As a gallery historian observed, there had finally been a case of "Hayne's reply to Webster."

Yesterday's Republican counter-offensive to Tydings' report on McCarthy and to Tydings' floor speech was almost exclusively an attack on Tydings and his investigating subcommittee. Curiously, not one Republican Senator who spoke had a complimentary word for McCarthy himself, or attempted to say his charges were true or his methods acceptable.

Even the Republican lead-off man, Senator Ives, (N. Y.), intimated that perhaps he had some

U. S., Britain to Use Bahamas Jointly To Test Rockets

The United States and Britain yesterday signed a 25-year agreement for joint use of secret installations on the Bahama Islands for tracking and guiding American guided missiles.

The two countries will operate supporting installations in the Bahamas to control and check the giant missiles shot southeastward over the Atlantic Ocean.

German Reds Urge West To Revolt

Berlin, July 21 (AP).—While the Kremlin's Cominform emissary applauded, East Germany's Communist Chancellor today urged the people of Allied-occupied West Germany to resist openly the policies of the Western Powers.

The call to revolt was made by Otto Grotewohl in one of the most inflammatory anti-American speeches ever delivered in this four-power city.

Grotewohl addressed the second day's session of the convention of the Socialist Unity (Communist) Party, held in the Russian sector.

He charged that the United States, Britain and France had forfeited their right to remain in Germany because they "violated the Potsdam agreement and ended four-power government." (The official Western view is that Russia bears this responsibility.)

"Nobody in West Germany is legally obligated any longer to obey the orders of the occupying powers," Grotewohl said. "Therein lies the justice of the National Resistance (a Communist-front movement) because it is a resistance against an illegal situation in which the Western allies are exercising might instead of right."

He demanded withdrawal of the Western occupation armies, charging they are now "merely interventionist armies." Grotewohl, however, said nothing about the 20-division Russian occupation army here—which is larger than all the Western forces in Germany.

In the audience of 4000 delegates was Mikhail A. Suslov, secretary of the Central Committee of the Unit Favors Tax Increase Of 10 Pct. Now

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

An immediate increase in taxes all along the line, to finance the Korean war on a pay-as-you-go basis, yesterday was recommended by the Congressional Joint Economic Committee.

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) chairman of the bipartisan group, said this was the "unanimous sentiment" of Democratic and Republican members attending.

O'Mahoney said he personally believed "an immediate war profits tax would be notice to every price profiteer that he was only collecting money for Uncle Sam."

In addition to a prompt increase in individual and corporate taxes, the joint committee favored cuts in non-defense spending and consumer credit controls, O'Mahoney said, adding:

"The general opinion of the committee was that increased taxes now would greatly reduce the need for rigid and full scale controls."

Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) and four other Republicans sat in with four Democrats attending the meeting, and concurred in the "pay-as-you-go" idea, the Joint Committee chief said.

No Direct Legislative Power

The two-House group has no direct legislative powers, but later will issue a formal policy statement based on staff studies and memoranda to be submitted by its members, O'Mahoney said.

Whether the Administration will take the same view and push for immediate enactment of a tax bill, was the subject of renewed speculation last night.

President Truman in Wednesday's message to Congress recommended "substantial" tax increases to help finance rearmament, check inflation and curb profiteering.

But he set no timetable, saying only he will ask enactment "at an appropriate time." Some believed his midyear economic report next week will give Congress its first detailed hint. Capitol econo-

3 Area Men Die in Navy Plane Crash

Three men were killed, two instantly and the third died about 10 hours later, and two others were injured when a twin-engine plane from the Anacosta Naval Air Station crashed and burned yesterday at Willow Grove, Pa., a suburb of Philadelphia.

All the men were from the Washington area.

Comdr. Ernest A. Rust, 47, of 4602 Harling lane, Bethesda.

AM/2C Burry A. Hubbard, 27, of 114 Beyer rd. sw.

Pronounced dead hours later was:

AM/1C Ralph W. Henry, 30, of 5 Leeward Green sw.

The hospital said Henry suffered second and third degree burns over his entire body.

Lieut. Comdr. Stanley Chernack, 36, of 3724 Appleton stt nw.

Lieut. Ernest J. Lawton, 33, of 216 S. Courthouse rd., Arlington.

Lawton was in critical condition with second and third degree burns Chernack, who also received second and third degree burns, was reported in "fair" condition.

A sixth man, Joseph A. Wagner, 19, of 1810 Leslie ave., Alexandria, was fortunate. He flew in the plane to Willow Grove but left it there to continue on to Philadelphia.

Witnesses said the Beechcraft nosed over 50 feet from the ground after taking off from the Willow Grove Naval Air Station, ripped through telephone wires and crashed between two houses.

The plane burst into flames. Wreckage was scattered over a 100-yard radius.

The spokesman at Anacostia said the plane took off from here at 9:12 a. m. on a routine flight to pick up supplies at Willow Grove. The crash occurred at 12:24 p. m., after the plane had been cleared for the return flight to Anacostia.

It was believed that Chernack was at the controls of the plane when it crashed. However, Rust and Lawton also are pilots.

A plane carrying a Navy medical officer and the wives of the injured men took off from Anacostia early in the evening for Willow Grove.

Rust, who had been stationed in Washington for almost five years, was head of the Reserve Liaison Branch in the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Harriet Rust, and three daughters, Barbara and Jacqueline, of the Bethesda address, and Mrs. Nancy Anthony of Pensacola, Fla.

A reservist, Hubbard had been on stationkeeper duty at Anacostia. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Estelle Hubbard, and two sons, Wayne, 5, and Joe, 8 months.

Lawton, a senior lieutenant, flew a Grumman Avenger torpedo plane in the Pacific Theater during World War II. He holds the Navy Cross, Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal and the Silver Star. He is presently attached to the office

Vice Squad Nabs 16 and $3900 in Gambling Raid

Sixteen men were arrested last night when Lt. Roy Blick and his entire Vice Squad raided a "vacant house" at 610 F st. nw. and said they caught the group playing craps. Police seized $3900 in cash.

Ring leader of the group, Blick said, was Wallace Beach, 1321 M st. nw. Beach was charged at Precinct No. 1 with setting up a gaming table and permitting gambling.

The other 15 men were charged with disorderly conduct and released on $25 collateral each.

Ruhr Plants May Make Arms Parts

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

Hitler's former arsenal in the Ruhr may be put to work soon to make parts of weapons for the defense of western Europe.

The question of using factories in the Ruhr and elsewhere in western Germany will be discussed at next week's meeting of the North Atlantic Council deputies in London.

So far there is no thought of asking the Germans to turn out complete weapons, such as tanks or heavy artillery, or explosives.

But most authorities here believe there could be no possible harm, and probably a great deal of good, in letting German workmen turn out the components of defensive weapons which all of western Europe desperately needs.

Another subject for discussion at the London talks, which start

President Orders Cut In Civil Works

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday directed Federal departments and agencies to shelve, curtail or slow down civil public works "as far as practical" to help the Nation's arms-expansion program.

He also ordered them to tighten Federal credit programs and to cut down on the purchase of supplies such as motor vehicles and typewriters.

The directive, which went to the chiefs of 14 departments and agencies, was in line with Mr. Truman's historic message to Congress on Wednesday, when he said that he would order a review of Government programs so as to lessen the demand upon commodities, raw materials, manpower and facilities in competition with those needed for national defense.

He said in that message:

"The Government, as well as the public, must exercise great restraint in the use of goods and services which are needed for our increased defense efforts."

Under the heading of civil public works come rivers and harbors projects (called "pork" by the irreverent on Capitol Hill), dam construction, road-building, irrigation and reclamation, soil conservation, hospitals and other projects.

The President, in his letter to 14 department and agency heads yesterday, told them to re-examine their programs, and added:

"1. All civil public works, both direct Federal programs and grant-

Guard, Army Units Called Into Service

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

The Army last night began calling National Guard and Organized Reserve units and said some probably will be sent to Korea to help mount an American offensive.

All Guard forces now slated for mobilization are "supporting" combat and service forces not a part of the 27 militia divisions. The reserve groups undoubtedly will come solely from among the 886 "Class A" units, officals said.

These orders went out as Congress sped legislation to "freeze" in service some 372,000 enlisted men whose terms expire during the next year. Both the Senate and House Armed Services Committees approved the bill and later the Senate passed it by unanimous consent. The House plans action Tuesday.

Both groups also rushed legislation to the floor to remove the present 2,005,882 manpower ceiling on the armed forces. Pentagon officials indicated that plans call for putting another 600,000 and 700,000 men in uniform by next June 30—raising the total perhaps well above 2,100,000.

Port Safety Bill Passed

The Senate also passed legislation empowering President Truman to invoke wartime security measures along waterfronts — a move aimed particularly at preventing foreign freighters sneaking atomic bombs or biological weapons into American ports.

Senator Warren G. Magnuson (D., Wash.), who brought up the bill, said it would "help clean out subversive elements on the waterfront" as well as permit strict policing of ports and foreign vessels. The measure, which now goes to the House, would permit existing standby powers to be put into effect without declaring a national emergency.

An Army spokesman said the National Guard divisions are not being touched now, as only forces needed for the immediate situation are being called and it is desired to keep the divisional "fighting teams" intact. Some of the Guard's 20 separate regimental combat teams may be mobilized, however, it was said. There is one in Virginia.

Some 4100 District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia National Guardsmen are in "nondivisional" units and thus possibly subject to call under yesterday's decision. However, there were indications that not many of them will receive orders in the near future.

A total of 98 officers and 190 enlisted men are enrolled in four

Marines Want One Volunteer Who Can Blow a Loud Trumpet

The Washington Post

Drum Maj. Edmond M. DeMar proves there's life in "Old Trumpet"

Here's one about a trumpet that wants to go to war and doesn't have anybody to go with.

Known as Old Trumpet, this horn is looking for a trumpeter, and passage to Korea.

It was in the Far East 50 years ago, when the City of Tientsin was besieged during the Boxer Rebellion. The city's defenders heard taps sounded on Old Trumpet when it seemed apparent that Tientsin was to fall.

But the next morning, the Royal Welsh Fusiliers and the United States Marines marched to relieve the city, and Old Trumpet sounded again—on a happier note.

With things the way they are in Korea, the United States Marine Band now says Old Trumpet is ready to go out again. For the past 50 years it has been in retirement in the Marine Band Museum here.

The bandsmen are offering Old Trumpet to a member of any branch of the service so that it will get another chance to "herald approaching American forces."

180 Survivors Of Taejon Battle Trek 30 Miles

A U. S. Command Post in Korea, Saturday, July 22 (AP).—One hundred and eighty American survivors of the battle in Taejon have just reached this command post after trekking more than 30 miles through the mountains.

(This story was filed at 2:15 a. m.—11:15 a. m., Friday, EST.).

The group carried several of their wounded back with them.

The men were from the Nineteenth and Thirty-fourth Infantry Regiments, which participated in the savage all-day battle inside Taejon Thursday.

Taejon Called Worst Defeat Of Korea War

By Homer Bigart
NYHT News Service

With American Forces in Korea (Saturday) July 22.—American forces lost Taejon Thursday night in their most humiliating and costly defeat since their debut in the Korean war.

It was humiliating because, first, Taejon was a strategic prize and the now missing Gen. William F. Dean, United States Twenty-fourth Division commander, who was responsible for the defense of the city, was well aware of its importance. Second, the Americans were deployed in good defensive positions manned by the strongest American units yet committed to the fight.

Big Guns Lost

It was costly because the Americans took severe losses in relation to the time gained for the build-up for eventual victory. Casualties were believed heavy. The defending units lost all their heavy equipment, including a full battery of 155-mm. guns and most of their 105-mm. guns, besides heavy mortars and considerable stores and ammunition.

The battle was to have been the first real standing fight by the Americans. After a brief and pathetically brave stand, the Americans were compelled to yield the city in something like a rout.

There was only one thing wrong with the battle plan. It was the old story—lack of sufficient manpower to safeguard the flanks. The Communists simply waited until they found the open ends of the American line. It then took no particular skill to pour infantry

BULLETIN

Tokyo (Saturday), July 22 (AP). General MacArthur said today that American forces had made further withdrawals generally southeast of fallen Taejon.

A communique said South Korean troops on the American east flank also dropped back under attack from the Second North Korean Division.

MacArthur reported American and South Korean troops on the western front had completed a "planned withdrawal to better lines of natural defense."

Tokyo (Saturday), July 22 (AP).—Fresh United States troops in two separate assaults have seized two Communist-held communication centers on the Korean front, official announcements said today.

United States troops under cover of a fierce naval bombardment Friday captured the ruined east coast city of Yongdok, a naval communique said.

Yongdok is 25 miles north of where the United States First Cavalry Division landed earlier this week in the first amphibious operation of the war.

United States Negro troops of the Twenty-fifth Infantry Division, also undergoing a baptism of fire, seized the rail and highway city of Yechon on the same day, a field dispatch said. Yechon is 60 air miles northeast of the fallen bastion of Taejon.

Reported Destroyed

Yongdok, the east coast communication hub, was reported "destroyed" by fire from a British cruiser and a United States cruiser on Wednesday. It is located 60 miles north of the big United States supply port of Pusan.

A Navy communique said the important east coast town was taken after a ground attack by American and South Korean forces which began at 5:45 a. m., Korean Daylight Time.

Naval units which had destroyed Yongdok by gunfire the previous day maintained a steady and heavy barrage 1000 yards ahead of the advancing troops.

British Are Praised

The Navy communique, timed at 1:12 (10:12 p. m., EST Friday) did not identify the American troops in the action. It said, however, that during previous intense naval activity around the town fleet units had been in touch with artillery forces of the Twenty-fifth Division.

A British cruiser which joined in intensive naval gunfire on this vital target was praised for its work.

A combined British and American task force under Rear Admiral J. K. Higgins covered the attack.

Alexandria Man And Gen. Church To Get Medals

Tokyo (Saturday), July 22 (AP).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced today that medals have been awarded to nine general headquarters officers for "outstanding service in Korea."

Three officers still on duty in Korea will receive their awards later, according to Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, Headquarters Chief of Staff. All the officers helped set up the American headquarters in Korea.

The awards and those receiving them included:

Maj. Gen. John H. Church, Frederick, Md., Oak Leaf Cluster to the Legion of Merit; and Col. George C. Masters, 9903 8th st., Alexandria, Va., Legion of Merit.

Five Injured, One Seriously, As Racing Cars Smash Railing

Five persons were injured, one seriously, when two stock cars crashed through the outside railing at West Lanham Speedway about 11 o'clock last night before 6000 spectators.

Most seriously injured was a spectator, who was standing in the drivers pit, where one of the cars came to a stop.

Admitted to Prince Georges General Hospital in undetermined condition with a possible skull fracture and broken jaw, he was identified as Edwin M. Harden, 46, of Baileys Crossroads, Va.

Also admitted to Prince Georges General Hospital were Edwin S. Murphy, 32, of Rising Sun, Md., minor cuts and injured shoulder; Miles Znamenacek, 20, of 2310 16th st. s.e., face cuts and a possble dislocated shoulder; and George Ragan, 35, of Conowingo, Md., scalp lacerations and a possible dislocated shoulder. Their condition was reported as not serious.

Track officials said Ragan is secretary-treasurer of the Penn-Mar Racing Association. Both Murphy and Znamenacek are mechanics, they said.

A third mechanic, Joseph Sickinger, 22, of 6222 5th st. ne., was treated at the hospital for cuts and bruises and released.

Track officials said the accident happened during the 18th lap of the feature race, when one of the drivers, Frank Clapsaddle, pushed the other driver, Pete Marksley, through the rail while rounding the turn. Marksley's car ended up in the pit, while Clapsaddle's car stopped short of it, they said.

12 Troop Ships Among Craft Ordered Out of 'Mothballs'

The Maritime Commission reached into the mothball fleet yesterday for 32 ships, including 12 troop transports with a combined capacity of 35,000 servicemen.

Including those covered by yesterday's action, the Government now has assigned 64 merchant ships to military duty since the Korean war began. Forty-eight came from the mothball fleet and 16 were privately owned.

The 12 troop ships will be turned over to the military sea transport service by Monday. They will be reconditioned and put into use as soon as possible.

The other 20 vessels, all of the high-speed Victory cargo type, will be turned over to nine steamship lines for reconditioning. Hearings will be held Monday to determine what lines should operate them for military use.

Eleven of the 12 troop ships will be withdrawn from the reserve fleet at Suisun Bay, San Francisco, and one from Olympia, Wash.

Of the 20 Victory ships, one will be withdrawn from the mothball fleet at Astoria, Oreg.; three from Olympia; three from Beaumont, Tex.; four from Mobile, Ala.; five from the Hudson River at New York, and two each from Wilmington, N. C., and James River, Va.

Four of the troop ships are of the World War II P-2 type with a capacity of 5000 troops each.

They are the General John Pope, General M. M. Migs, General William Weigel, all from Suisun Bay, and the General Leroy Eltinge from Olympia.

Missing Gen. Dean Lauded for Daring

An American Command Post in Korea, July 21 (AP).—Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, missing commander of the U. S. Twenty-fourth Division, gave his soldiers inspiring frontline leadership in the final hours of fighting in Taejon.

The 50-year-old red-haired fighting general is still missing, hours after his men, at his orders, had pulled out of the flaming, battered city Thursday night.

(In Tokyo a public information officer at General MacArthur's headquarters said "we have no confirmation one way or another regarding General Dean."

(The headquarters spokesman, answering queries, said that under Army rules it can't be confirmed that Dean is missing until an investigation is completed. It was unlikely the Army would say anything until the investigation is finished.)

General Dean's GI's came out of Taejon with stories of their commander's daring.

One 18-year-old soldier, Pvt. Alfred Vessels, of Stanton, Tex.—said he saw Dean knock out a Communist automatic with his .45 pistol.

"I saw him do it and, brother, that's shooting," Vessels said.

The Texan told how Dean helped knock out a Communist tank with a 3.5 rocket launcher.

Vessels said Dean directed him in moving to a vantage point in a window in the second story of a building.

"From there we poured it on and the tank started smoking," Vessels said.

"We kept after it with our 3.5 and that was the end of that tank."

Vessels said he left only after General Dean said "he wanted all his boys to pull out."

Other solders told of seeing Dean take charge of a bazooka team that knocked out one of the Red tanks after a Communists' break into Taejon at dawn Thursday. They said they saw Dean passing ammunition to the men and directing the bazooka fire.

It was not the first time that Dean had left division headquarters for a go at frontline fighting.

Earlier in the Korean campaign he personally directed action covering the withdrawal of his Kum River outposts.

As commander of the Forty-fourth Infantry Division in Europe during World War II, the general also displayed frontline leadership which won him the Distinguished Service Cross for heroism. His division captured 30,000 Germans in its drive through Germany and Austria.

Dean, born at Carlyle, Ill., and a graduate of the high school there in 1917, served in the First World War. He was graduated from the University of California in 1922 and commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army.

His family home is at Berkeley, Calif. He was stationed in Japan prior to the outbreak of the Korean war.

General Dean was military governor of South Korea from October, 1947, until the last United States occupation forces left that country early in 1949.

cruiser at dawn signalled the start of the ground advance. Shore observers directed naval gunfire as it stepped up the coast in advance of the infantrymen.

Shore observers reported that machineguns and North Korean troops were "completely stopped by the naval gunfire," the communique said.

Naval units had maintained intense bombardment of the Yongdok area for a week preceding the ground assault.

The communique said headquarters of the Twenty-fifth Division Artillery had messaged Admiral Higgins that "naval activity along this coast is believed responsible for stopping full scale offensive."

American cruiser fire Thursday destroyed a radio station just north of Yongdok and "by actual count of a shore observer" killed 400 North Koreans. The cruiser fired 38 rounds.

The battered Twenty-fourth Division, which had been absorbing the overpowering shock of North Korean tanks and foot soldiers in great numbers since July 5, dug into hill positions southeast of Taejon.

Unreported since abandonment of Taejon was the Twenty-fourth's commander, Maj. Gen. William F. Dean.

The Twenty-fourth gave up the blazing rail city Thursday midnight after exacting a heavy price in enemy tanks with new 3.5-inch bazooka rocket launchers. At least a dozen tanks—some disguised with American markings for sneak attacks—were knocked out in the planned getaway to prepared positions four miles and more below Taejon on the rail and highway line of supply up from Pusan.

The Twenty-fourth expected the North Koreans to exploit their capture of Taejon with a quick followup down the railway and roads, but the enemy did not come on in force after harassing the American escape with roadblock crossfire.

Losses of tanks and the prospect of losing more may account for the North Korean delay.

Enemy patrols were reported trying to get behind the new United States hill positions and artillery, but the Army put out mysterious hints that it has new means of coping with infiltration tactics.

The Negroes' 16-hour battle ended after dawn Friday, United States' casualties were reported light. Enemy losses could not be estimated.

Yechon had changed hands several times in the Communist effort to drive through South Korean troops to cut the communications line behind the Twenty-fourth's shock-absorber forces around Taejon.

The pullback from Taejon and the deployment of the Twenty-fifth and the mechanized First Cavalry somewhere on the eastern end of the line apparently are establishing the pattern for the hold-on campaign in southeast Korea.

That will be the staging area for counter offensives and part of the aerial attrition campaign against the North Koreans while that counter offensive power is laboriously built up.

Yechon is cupped in a mountain pass. Two Negro companies used a flanking move—a favorite Red tactic—under cover of artillery and mortar fire while others legged it across rice paddies and stalked among the houses, firing as they went. The battle went on overnight.

The 24th Division southeast of Taejon was reported dug in on positions favorable to artillery defense in hills above the rice fields and blocking the way of the Red army advance. The North Koreans have shown reluctance to step ahead without their armor and now it is reduced under the new bazooka attacks.

Headquarters of the Eighth Army commander, Lieut. Gen. Walton H. Walker, said anti-infiltration tactics have been devised and they were working. Details were not disclosed.

Walker was reported to be "unable to conceal his pleasure with the results achieved."

Munitions Chiefs Of U. S., Canada To Discuss Output

Ottawa, July 21 (AP).—Top munitions experts from Canada and the United States will meet here August 8 to consider a joint economic effort to produce munitions and supplies in the event of a third world war, it was learned today.

These officials include Harry J. Carmichael and Sydney D. Pierce on the Canadian side and W. Stuart Symington and Hubert E. Howard on the American. They are expected to prepare recommendations to both countries on means of harnessing the economies of the two nations to produce war equipment.

Guard, Army Units Called

Organized Reserve "Class A" units under the Military District of Washington. But there was no word of any call of these forces.

During the Capitol Hill testimony on the manpower bill, Pentagon officials were asked about possible requests to changes in the draft law. Maj. Gen. Clovis Byers of the Army General Staff said there are no plans now to increase the induction or registration age limit of 26.

Col. Harland C. Parks, director of personnel planning for the Air Force, said the USAF may have to ask Congress for authority to draft some of its World War II veterans if enough qualified airmen cannot be obtained from volunteers and calling reserves.

May Change Service Limits

At present all former GIs who had 90 days service before VP-day or one year after the shooting war are exempt. Officials said that if a change here is asked, it will be simply changing these limits—not a blanket lifting of the exemption, under present plans.

Byers said legislation probably will be asked soon for some draft act changes, but indicated they would be minor. One proposal in view is elimination of the exemption of Guardsmen and Reservists who enlisted before they were 18½ years old.

An Army spokesman said the type of Guard and Reserve units now slated for call largely are supporting forces needed for a build-up in the rear areas of Korea so that an offensive can be launched and the special combat companies and battalions which are attached to divisions at the front.

They include tank battalions, anti-aircraft, so-called "corps artillery" (heavy units), combat engineers, railroad, port and warehouse units, laundry and "de-lousing" companies, etc.

He said all units will be given some additional training and "beefed" up to war-strength by transfers of either trained men or recruits before going overseas. All units called wil be given 30 days' notice before having to report.

Text of the Army announcement:

"The Department of the Army is in the process of progressively calling non-divisional elements of both National Guard and Reserves to active duty as the need arises and facilities for their reception and tratning can be provided. For the immediate present it is not contemplated that units the size of a division will be called. Units will be alerted approximately 30 days prior to movement so as to give members thereof time to arrange their personal affairs.

"In the meantime, the Army is asking for immediate voluntary active service of individual officers and men in certain grades and skills. These individuals will be given up to 30 days to report."

The bill "freezing" men now in service will permit the President to extend all enlistments expiring between now and July 9, 1951, for an additional year.

Vice Admiral John W. Roper, Chief of Naval Personnel, told the Senate committee it was necessary because about half—or some 193,000 men—whose hitches expire during the next 12 months, normally could be expected to leave the service.

No draftees will be available to take their places until nearly spring, Byers said, because it takes at least six months to get them ready for action.

One provision of the bill suspends a law granting Navy men held beyond their enlistments a 25 percent boost in pay. Men in all services who choose to reenlist, however, get the regular signing-over bonus.

Byers said a ban on officers' resigning also has been ordered. Resignations have to be accepted. "Hardship" exceptions will be permitted for both officers and men, it was indicated.

Brig. Gen. C. V. R. Schuyler of the Army General Staff told the House committee the present plan is to boost Army strength from 592,000 to "just short" of the present 837,000-man ceiling. Air Force probably will go considerably above its now authorized limit of 502,000 officers and men and the Navy and Marines likewise exceed their existing ceiling of 666,882, he said.

Current strength of the Air Force is about 409,000, while the Navy has some 381,000 and the Marines about 74,500.

Officials said the Leathernecks in particular will go above their present 108,800-man ceiling. A spokesman declared Marine Headquarters has frozen transfers from their organized to volunteer reserve. All organized ground units have been ordered into active service.

The Army said that if any Guard units now in summer training camps are called into Federal service, they definitely will return home first. Air Force spokesmen said they had no word on calling in the Air National Guard.

While there was no official word about plans for the District National Guard, observers felt it would not be called now. What is wanted immediately are units for overseas—and the local Guardsmen are believed earmarked for the defense of the Nation's Capital.

It was felt, also, that Virginia's separate regimental combat team would not be among the first calls, as it is only about 50 percent of current authorized strength, and many such units are 70 to 90 percent complete. Most Maryland and Virginia guardsmen are members of the 29th Division.

Officials said there are some 23,000 officers and men in "class A" or fully organized Reserve units. Of the four such local units, two are military government groups—not likely to be among the first calls. The other two are transport and criminal investigation units.

The House Armed Services Committee's vote on lifting military manpower ceilings and freezing enlistments, was 18 to 1. Representative Towe (R., N. J.) voted nay, saying the group should wait until Monday when the Pentagon promises to explain exactly what expansion it wants.

Chairman Vinson (D., Ga.) said his group will get the "full facts" at hearings next week. The Navy will be heard Monday, followed by the Air Force and Army. Some hearings will be public, others secret.

Vinson promised the committee would demand a full accounting of what the armed forces have done with the billions voted them during the past few years.

Chairman Tydings (D., Md.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee said his group would be "very busy" for some time considering the following questions:

1. Restoration of family allowances for National Guardsmen and enlisted reservists called to duty, and possibly all servicemen.
2. Finding enough doctors, dentists and nurses for the services.
3. Revision of Selective Service deferment rules and provision for GI benefits for men called.
4. Adjusting the complicated question of promotions for Reserves and Guardsmen called in now who may have gained precedence over those already on active duty.

Argentina Arrests Red Demonstrators

Santa Fe, Argentina, July 21 (U.P.)—Several persons were arrested today when Communist elements, mostly women, held a "lightning" anti-war demonstration to repudiate war in Korea.

Police promptly dissolved the marchers and took their leaders into custody.

Bombs Halt Seoul Rail Operations

Tokyo, July 21 (AP).—The Far East Air Force said today heavy bombing has already halted railroad traffic through Communist-held Seoul, South Korea's capital city.

The United States B-29 mass raid with 500 tons of bombs last Sunday will "prevent rail movements through Seoul to the southern battle lines and to the northwest coastal area for some time," an FEAF communique said.

Reconnaissance photographs showed severed rail lines and heavy damage to repair shops which, before the war were capable of manufacturing and repairing over 2500 locomotives and cars a year.

The raiding B-29s were units of the newly constituted Far Eastern bomber comand. Their job it is to blast Korean communications with Manchurian and Siberian railroads which supposedly bring Russian war supples to North Korean Communist forces.

The Communist radio at Pyongyang, heard here, claimed that North Korean planes shot down three American aircraft today. The Reds failed to mention the location of the fights or the types of planes.

(In Washington, the Air Force reported signs that North Korea was rebuilding its air force, hit hard by U. S. and Australan planes in the early days of the fighting.

(An Air Force officer said several Russian-made Yak-9 fighters gave a B-20 Superfortress "a pretty good scrap" yesterday, and that other B-29 pilots said they sighted two other fligh s of Yaks.)

American Mustang fighters destroyed a United States ammunion train at Taejon to keep it from falling into the hands of North Korean Reds who captured the city last night.

"The train blew sky high," said Capt. H. Moreland, of Mobile, Ala., leader of the Mustang unit.

The Navy reported the destruction of 30 Communist planes by American and British carrier aircraft in raids on North Korea Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Navy communique also said 10 other enemy planes were probably destroyed and 11 more damaged in a total of 227 sorties by the American and British fliers.

The communique confirmed earlier reports that the United States Navy's new Douglas divebombers carried one-ton bombs for the first time in the Wednesday raids.

Forced to Ditch Plane

One United States aircraft was lost in the carrier plane strikes, the communique said. Lieut. W. B. Muncie, San Diego, Calif., was fored to ditch his craft when it was hit by anti-aircraft fire from a Communist gunboat. He was rescued unhurt by a British amphibian plane.

Navy carrier plane pilots report there may be radar-controlled anti-aircraft guns at Wonsan, the big industrial port city on North Korea's east coast.

Wonsan was among the targets in the Navy carrier plane strikes Tuesday and Wednesday. Rockets and bombs sent smoke billowing 10,000 feet above a huge oil refinery there, the fliers said. Fourteen locomotives were destroyed and three damaged.

German Reds Urge Revolt

Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the Kremlin's chief delegate to the Cominform.

Also present were Cominform delegates from the Communist parties of other European countries and Red China. Their presence indicated that a Cominform meeting is in progress here, probably to discuss a joint proclamation on the Korean war and to hear the Kremlin's plans regarding any further Communist pressure points.

A hint that Cominform delegates are having at least informal discussions was seen today when they failed to appear in time for the afternoon session of the German Communists' convention. The opening was delayed a half hour.

Grotewohl, a former Socialist who went over to the Communists in 1946, outdid even old-line Communists in his attacks against the Western powers and the West German Government at Bonn.

He attacked also Bishop Otto Dibelius, the head of Germany's Evangelical (Protestant) Church, who has been fighting Communist coercion of the church in the Russan occupation zone.

Grotewohl denounced the Bishop as a "reactionary," a "friend of the warmongers," a "blind fanatic" and a "county fair barker."

This was accompanied with a direct threat that the church will have to yield to Communist control of education in the Russian zone and will not be allowed to prevent recruitment of its pastors for the Communist national front.

Grotewohl characterized as "traitors" West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, President Theodor Heuss, Socialist Leader Kurt Schmacher and West Berlin's Mayor Ernst Reuter.

don. The 500-odd officers and men in the unit will start taking their physicals Tuesday night, when they are due to report at their regular drill hour of 7 p.m.

As the Fifth Marines began to pack up their training rifles and machine guns — and their typewriters and office supplies—members of organized Naval Reserve units in the area were warned that they could expect to receive orders into active service next week.

Naval Air Reservists will be called by squadrons. There was still no word as to whether the 12 squadrons in the training unit at Anacostia Naval Air Station are among the "several units" to be activated, as announced by the Nvy.

District National Guardsmen, now in field training at Fort Miles, Del., have not yet been included in the call of "non-divisional elements" of both National Guard and Organized Reserves announced by the Army yesterday.

The Fifth Marine Reservists here—who will be joined at Camp Lejeune by a company from Cumberland, Md., and some 600 officers and men from Petersburg, Lynchburg and Charlottesville, Va.—have been receiving weekly training directed by Maj. Noel C. Gregory, USMC, inspector-instructor for the Fifth.

They were to have gone to Lejeune anyway in August—but only for two weeks, in the annual field maneuvers.

Their training here has included close-order drill, training films and local field training. While the drills have been held in the Armory, an old former Boys' Club building, inadequate space has forced the use of borrowed "classrooms" in the nearby Esso Center building, the Municipal Center, the District Court building, and the Securities & Exchange Commission building.

Recently a machine-gun platoon conducted a "compass march" at night in Rock Creek Park, and next week infantry "maneuvers" were to be held in the Mall.

Major Gordon, who moved up from his previous post as battalion executive officer, said the unit has "tried hard to keep in training," and added he believed "we'll be able to show them something."

The commanding officer, whose wife, Mrs. Mary Louise Condon, is a Marine Reservist major herself, has been in Washington since 1946 and is stepping into active duty from his post of legal assistant to Paul Herzog, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board.

The Naval Reservists in the area who are subject to next week's call number 2300 officers and men in seven organized divisions, a spokesman for the Potomac River Naval Command said yesterday. They are part of about 17,500 Reservists, both organized, volunteer and inactive, in the area. This figure does not include Air Reservists, of whom there are some 1150 men and 350 officers.

They include officers and men living in the District, the Maryland counties of Prince Georges, Montgomery, St. Marys, Calvert and Charles, as well as Virginia residents in Arlington, Fairfax, Alexandria, Stafford, King George, Prince William and Westmoreland counties.

Chinese Reds Seize All ECA Oil In Retaliation for Embargo

Hongkong (Saturday), July 22 (U.P.).—The Chinese Communists have seized all stocks of petroleum left in China by the Economic Cooperation Administration, Peking radio announced early today.

The seizure was in retaliation for British-American embargoes against oil and gasoline shipments to China. It was made July 17, shortly after the American firms halted their shipments.

Peking radio said the stocks would be used for "emergency relief."

It said four foreign oil firms in Shanghai—Texaco, Standard Vacuum, Shell and the Cathay Oil companies—were ordered to surrender all ECA stocks.

There was no indication of the amounts of oil involved.

around the exposed flanks and cut the Americans off from their supplies.

Was Worth the Gamble

Even with all its obvious faults, the defensive scheme personally approved by Dean seemed to be worth the gamble. For he knew that the Americans, if they lost Taejon, would be pushed southward into a mountainous area. And each additonal mile yielded to the enemy would mean an arduous and costly mountain campaign to regain this ground when the Americans became strong enough to take the offensive.

The fight was lost to an enemy who employed tanks cleverly to raise havoc and spread panic inside and behind the American lines. When the trapped American force succeeded momentarily in breaking through to the rear the Reds promptly nipped off the escape route by sending suicide squads of engineers to blow up a railroad overpass and choke a highway with debris.

Tried to Break Out

So quickly did the enemy strike that Communist forces had surrounded the Americans to a depth of three miles by the time the American commander gave the order to withdraw.

The battle then degenerated quickly into a frantic, chaotic attempt by the Americans to break the Red cordon. A tragic failure to relay an important message deepened the American defeat.

The commander of the units defending Taejon had asked the commander of the reserve units in the rear to help keep open the escape route. For some reason, this message never reached the reserve commander, although it was received at the rear area headquarters.

Consequently, the reserve unit commander was puzzled when an American patrol succeeded in breaking out of Taejon in the afternoon on Thursday with a map of the proposed escape route. Pending orders which never came, he did nothing.

The commander of a defending unit said he had been told a battalion was moving up from the rear to deal with enemy roadblocks and keep the escape route open. Under this mistaken impression, he delayed withdrawal orders until the column was forced by extreme pressure to attempt a breakthrough, and the escape route was found to be enfiladed by murderous fire. Only a few hundred men got out. Then Communist sappers slammed the escape door shut by blowing up an overpass. Debris crashed down on the American vehicles, producing a hopelessly jammed roadway.

Half Force Cut Off

Cut off in Taejon and in desperate straits were more than half of the defending force, including General Dean. He was last seen walking back to his command post, where he sat himself on a porch, a picture of dejection.

But, however bad the plight of the troops, it was not so bad as at first depicted. Under cover of darkness, many escaped later in small groups to the American lines.

When the communists were seen shooting down Americans who offered to surrender, the remnants of the defending force were driven to acts of desperation.

By a piece of incredible luck, Private Darey Brady succeeded in getting a jeepload of wounded men through the enemy lines. Unwilling to leave the 11 men to the mercy of the Communists, he piled them in the jeep and took off at top speed in the direction of the American lines.

Red machine-gunners, momentarily startled, swung into action a second too late. Brady, a boy from Gassaway, W. Va., drove safely across minefields in no-man's-land and through a tunnel minutes before the tunnel was blown up by the Americans.

"I saw some of our men throw up their hands and start walking up a hill to give themselves up," Brady said. "But the Reds just mowed them down."

Lieut. William McCarver, of Abilene, Tex., tried to cover the right flank of the withdrawal. He told how his men shot down a sniper and then found to their amazement that the sniper had a living two-year-old child tied to his back, Korean fashion.

"We thought we had a boy mascot," he said, "and it was not until we bathed the kid later that we found it was a girl."

Commodity Prices In New Advances

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Cocoa, soybeans and grains crashed upward yesterday, taking the limelight temporarily from meat, flour, coffee, wool and similar commodities, which remained relatively steady after a week of almost daily price jumps.

Yesterday was the biggest one-day advance on the Chicago Board of Trade and other commodity exchanges since the outbreak of fighting in Korea.

The day brought also renewed demands for rationing price controls. Representative Adolph Sabath (D., Ill.), dean of the House, called on President Truman to ask that full wartime controls be adopted.

Sabath said the President told him he was "going to see" if businessmen won't curb price increases voluntarily, and that if they don't, he will be "obliged" to ask Congress for ceilings.

And Senator Scott W. Lucas, Senate majority leader, warned the Government may have to take drastic steps to halt hoarding and profiteering.

The warning, which did not specify the possible steps, was in a radio address in which the Illinois senator spoke of possible controls, such as censorship, that might be necessary if the emergency becomes more critical.

The week's price rise in 28 sensitive commodities was reported at more than 3 percent by the Bureau of Labor Statistics last night. In other words, BLS reported, it now takes $103 to buy goods that would have cost only $100 a week ago.

All-Time High for Coffee

Average wholesale prices jumped 6/10 of 1 percent, BLS added. This was less than a week previous. This week's advance was only 0.6 percent, compared with 1.8 advance for the week ending July 11. Both advances were attributed to the Korean crisis.

BLS reported that two commodities set new postwar highs. They were wholesale wool tops at $2.15½ per pound and coffee at 56 cents a pound. It was an all-time high for coffee.

War-inflation psychology, fanned by the calling into service of thousands of specialized reserves, plus more bad news from the front, was given credit by traders for the wild advance in commodities.

New-crop soybean contracts yesterday jumped the full limit of 10 cents a bushel permitted by Commodity Exchange regulations. Wheat shot up 5⅜ to 7 cents a bushel; corn 1¾ to 2¾. Rye startled traders by jumping as much as 5½ cents. Oats were up and lard finished 50 to 60 cents a 100 pounds higher.

Tin Up 2 Cents a Pound

Cocoa again was a star performer. It went up the daily limit of a cent a pound. July contracts, on which there is no limit, were up more than a cent. Rubber went up six tenths to nine tenths of a cent a pound. Wool futures gained 1 to 3½ cents a pound. Tin gained 2 cents a pound.

In contrast, cotton failed to continue its wild upward gyrations of the past 10 days that started with the crop report of July 10 showing the prospective crop 31 percent under last year. Traders attributed this turnabout to the new policy adopted by the Government last Tuesday. Ralph Trigg, head of Commodity Credit Corporation, announced sales of 1948 crop cotton held by the Government would take place every other day, beginning next week. Traders unloaded in anticipation of hedging by merchants next week against purchases from the Government.

Indicative of the Nation-wide upward movement of prices was a dispatch from Toledo, Ohio. Barbers there voted to raise the cost of haircuts from $1 to $1.25 and shaves to 75 cents. The reason: higher prices for soap, towels, tonics and equipment.

Pig Iron Goes Up

The stampede to higher prices was taken up by a list of materials far removed from daily household budgets. Pigiron prices was raised $3 a ton by the Pittsburgh Coke & Chemical Co. Quicksilver jumped $3 to $7 a 76-pound flask as users scurried for supplies, remembering the acute shortage of the last war.

Knitting yarns were hiked about 10 percent, according to James Lees & Sons Co., makers of Columbia and Minerva brands.

An unusual highlight of the price news was announcement by R. S. Reynolds, jr., of the Reynolds Metals Co. that its 1-cent-a-pound price boost, announced earlier this week, had been canceled. Reynolds telegraphed President Truman that "in light of your message to the Congress yesterday and your radio address last evening, we are immediately rescinding increase in alumimum prices . . . which had been contemplated for some time."

Senate Confirms Fleming

The Senate yesterday confirmed Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, retired, as Undersecretary of Commerce for Transportation. Action was by voice vote.

Bolivians Ready

2000 British Troops May Be Offered

London, July 21 (NYHT).—After a week of discussion between Britain's military chiefs and the cabinet, it appears likely tonight that the British government will offer the United Nations additional aid in the Korean war.

It is expected, barring a last-minute shift in policy, that Britain will soon dispatch ground troops, in token strength, to the Korean theater. Speculation in London tonight indicates that the force may approximate 2000 men and may include a strengthened tank regiment at present stationed in Hong Kong.

Britain, it is understood, will send only a token force to Korea not because it is reluctant to participate more fully in the war, but because it has been agreed between London and Washington that the flank covered by the British at Hong Kong and Malaya must not be exposed to Communist attack.

There appears to be reason to believe that Britain will send a small force to Korea only for the sake of maintaining harmony in Anglo-American relations. The Labor government and the British people are extremely sensitive to critical reports from the United States which accuse Britain of sluffing off its military responsibilities in Korea. By sending a token force the British hope to put an end to at least part of this type of criticism.

Bolivia Offers Troops; Other Aid Is Proposed

Lake Success, July 21 (AP).—Bolivia has offered 30 officers and elements of its regular army to join Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces in Korea, the United Nations disclosed tonight. The size of the elements was not disclosed.

This was the first definite offer of soldiers from any of the 52 U. N. members who were asked last week to do all they could to help the U. N. war effort.

The Bolivian offer was made public after Secretary-General Trygve Lie had told reporters that official offers of planes, ships and hospital supplies had been received in response to his appeal.

At that time he said he knew of no offers of combat troops but added that several countries are in contact with Washington, either the Pentagon or the State Department.

Lie made it clear the U. N. is not recruiting a secret international force for service in Korea.

Asked what he could do to localize the Korean war, Lie said members of the U. N. should respect the decision of the Security Council. He said that is the only way to get peace.

4 Guerillas Borrow 'Gas' From Yanks

A U. S. Twenty-fourth Division Command Post, Korea, July 21 (AP). Four Korean Reds, posing as South Koreans, bummed 5 gallons of gasoline tonight from an American engineering detachment and then exchanged fire with the Americans.

Lieut. Ward Neville, 32, of San Francisco was setting a demolition charge when the four drove up in an American weapons carrier. Three spoke English, one quite well—"better than my interpreter," Neville said.

They amiably discussed Neville's bridge demolition job. One blew a whistle and about a dozen men in white came out from the enemy side of the bridge and helped put in the demolition charges. When the Korean blew the whistle again, the men in white left.

The Koreans then asked for 5 gallons of gasoline, which Neville provided. But then instead of driving across to the American side, the Koreans turned around and drove back toward the enemy.

Neville fired a warning shot over their heads. Answering shots came from the enemy. Neville's men pinned down the now unmasked guerillas and Neville blew the bridge.

Neville later complained his machine-gunner had been slow in opening fire. He then learned a sniper on a hillside had creased the machine-gunner's hand. The machine-gunner had grabbed an M-1 rifle to kill the sniper before putting the machine gun on the men in white.

"What a war!" grumbled Neville.

Army, Cadillac Hold Tank Production Talks

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

View inside Detroit arsenal where an average dozen 25-ton and 45-ton tanks are produced daily

Detroit, July 21 (AP).—A contract for mass production of tanks is being worked out by the Army and the Cadillac division of General Motors.

Types and numbers of the vehicles were not disclosed, but it was believed they likely would be the new 28-ton light tanks which the Army has described as "sensational."

Placement of a 25 million dolar order for 5241 Army tactical vehicles was announced today by the Dodge division of the Chrysler Corp., shortly before Col. David J. Crawford, Detroit arsenal commander, confirmed the Cadillac tank negotiations.

Both companies stressed that their current high production of automobiles would not be disrupted.

Charles E. Wilson, G.M. president, said the tanks will be produced in a plant not now dedicated to automobiles. Ordnance experts said production likely would be at the World War II Fisher bomber plant at Cleveland.

While not naming the site for actual manufacture of tanks, Wilson announced transmissions would be made by GM's Allison division at Indianapolis.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, described the new 28-ton light tank recently as "superior in maneuverability and operations to any type ever seen in warfare." He said it is equipped with a gun that will knock out any known tracked vehicle.

The Army reported recently that it has about 6000 combat-worthy medium and light tanks, most of them built for World War II but since modernized. It estimated Russia and its satellites have more than 40,000 medium and heavy tanks.

The Army has designs for a heavy tank, but said that in view of the improved guns and ammunition of its light and medium tanks it did not intend to build many heavies.

The Detroit arsenal now is turning out 25-ton M-24 light tanks and 45-ton General Pattons (M-46S) at the rate of about a dozen a day.

Italy to Rush Army's Size Up To 250,000

Rome, July 21 (NYHT).—Defense Minister Randolfo Pacciardi announced today that the Italian army will be increased to the maximum total of 250,000 men allowed by the peace treaty.

Usually well-informed sources said that the army is now at a level of 175,000. Italy, with its population of 46 million, will have no trouble finding the man power, according to officials, but extensive aid from the United States will be necessary if the new force is to be armed properly in a brief time, they add.

Pacciardi made his disclosure this evening after a long meeting of members of the government. Earlier, he had discussed with Prime Minister Alcide de Gasperi, the details of President Truman's Wednesday address asking members of the North Atlantic defense alliance to step up their military program.

Informed sources say that the Army now includes 10 divisions, several of which are still in skeleton form. The expansion will raise the Army to a total of 12 full divisions, a force large enough, if properly squipped, to defend the eastern Alpine frontiers, at least during an initial assault.

Belgium in Weak State, General Reports

Fort Knox, Ky., July 21 (U.P.)—Belgium's situation is "extremely dangerous," Maj. Gen. Georges L. S. G. Beernaerts, commandant of the military school at Brussels, said today.

"Belgium was left defenseless by World War II and is in danger of being overrun if the Soviets should commit aggression against western Europe," he said.

Ruhr Plants May Be Utilized To Make Parts for Weapons

Tuesday, will be the extent to which France, Italy, Belgium and other manufacturing countries can put their own factories to work to turn out weapons.

For most countries this would involve some diversion of manpower and machinery from the dollar-earning export drive, and to this extent it would cut into European economic recovery.

But officials here are convinced that the stepped-up manufacture of weapons is one of the biggest contributions western Europe can make to meet the danger of new aggressions.

Italy is believed to be especially well fitted for this, since it has a surplus of manpower, an unemployment total of more than two million, and abundant skill in making light weapons and motorized equipment.

Officials here have been wondering how to make up for the inevitable inroads of this rearmament effort into Europe's dollar earnings from civilian exports.

If Britain, for example, has to make tanks in her automobile factories instead of cars for export, Britain would have fewer dollars for buying essential food and clothing for her people.

One idea has been that the United States might buy the European-made armaments for dollars, on the theory that they would help the defense of the United States as well as of western Europe. But the more this idea is considered, the more impractical it appears on political grounds alone.

It would be hard to persuade Congress to pay dollars for weapons which, after all, will defend Europe at least as much as the United States.

At least three more feasible methods are now in sight, as follows:

1. Under the present military aid program, the United States could supply steel, copper and other raw materials needed for the new armaments, thus cutting down their dollar cost to the Europeans.

2. Marshall Plan funds could be used for at least some raw materials which the Europeans might otherwise have to buy with their own dollars for their civilian needs; and

3. The Military Defense Assistance Act might be broadened to provide dollars or civilian goods, or both, to offset the economic effects of increased armament production in western Europe.

Truman to Ask More Funds

President Truman has already announced that he would go before Congress for an additional installment of the military aid program. The new request is expected to be between twice and three times the $1,222,500,000 just approved by Congress for the new fiscal year.

The exact amount will depend partly upon the outcome of the London talks, in which Charles M. Spofford, newly confirmed by the Senate, will be the American deputy. The deputies will try to discover next week how much western Europe, including western Germany, can manufacture in the next year, and how much their economic recovery would be impaired.

The answer will help to determine how much money the President will have to ask from Congress, and how much, if any, the present authorization act will have to be broadened.

Secretary Acheson told his press conference yesterday that very energetic action was already being taken under the North Atlantic treaty machinery. He said the program was going forward under forced draft.

Military Men Not Satisfied

Military men here, however, are by no means satisfied with the action taken under the treaty so far. They feel some of the treaty partners are still too much concerned with what they would like to do in North Atlantic defense, and are not yet willing to take the decisions of the North Atlantic Council and its standing committees.

The London meeting next week is expected to show (1) whether the new committee of deputies has enough authority to do its job, and (2) whether all the treaty partners are genuinely willing to pool their resources on the principle of all for one and one for all.

Korean Conflict Stirs Demand For Books, Maps on Country

War headlines have stirred interest in factual material about Korea, its people, its customs, its history and its language.

Lee

A heavy demand for books and maps on Korea was reported yesterday and it was disclosed that a member of the Korean Embassy is teaching his native language to 15 persons at Bolling Air Force Base in classes two nights each week.

Sung Bum Lee, the instructor, is using the conversational method to teach 11 airmen, one colonel and three civilian secretaries how to ask one another, "How are the roads up front?" and "Where is the nearest place to eat?"—in Korean.

Brentano's downtown book store reported a brisk demand for nonfiction books dealing with Korea. These include the late George McCune's "Korea Today," published last week; "Modern Korea," on the shelves for six years, which describes life in Korea under the Japanese occupation, and "Grass Roots," the autobiography of Younghill Kang, a Korean who was active as a rebel against the Japanese occupation troops.

Brentano's, the Rand McNally office and the National Geographic Society said the public is buying up maps of Korea rapidly.

Acheson Pleased by Allied Accomplishments During First Four Weeks of Korean Conflict

Secretary Acheson looked back over the first month of the Korean war yesterday, and found his own country and others had done themselves proud.

He reminded his press conference it would be just four weeks ago tonight since the North Korean invaders marched across the Thirty-eighth Parallel.

In those four weeks, he declared, the free world had shown "an extraordinary degree of unity," and the American people and Congress had proven themselves "a united Nation behind the United Nations."

"I do not recall any period of four weeks in the history of the United States when so much has been accomplished," he declared.

The Secretary volunteered his statement at the start of his press conference, and later allowed direct quotation of his impromptu remarks.

In emphasizing the unity of the non-Soviet world, the Secretary gave the impression he was not troubled by the anti-American tone of the Indian press in the past few days.

He said the State Department was using the Voice of America broadcasts and other means to present the American view of the Korean war to the people of India.

He told one questioner the exchange of notes with Prime Minister Nehru ended with the refusal of the United States and Britain to seat Communist China in the U. N. as a means of stopping the war.

The United States would think it unwise, he said, to bring up the issue of Chinese representation in the U. N. at this time. But he also made it plain the United States would not use its veto to keep Communist China out. Our position, he said, is that this is not a vetoable question.

"Would you say that those who aid an aggressor are themselves committing aggression?" was another question.

Without mentioning Russia or Communist China, the Secretary said this was a familiar principle of law, which took account of an accessory after the fact.

On another subject, the Secretary announced the United States would lay before the coming U. N. Assembly its long-standing charges that human rights were being violated in Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria.

A recent decision of the International Court of Justice at the Hague prevented the machinery of the satellite peace treaties from being invoked on this issue. The court ruled that commissions to settle the question could not be set up under the treaty without the cooperation of the satellites themselves.

"The United States will naturally respect the opinions of the International Court of Justice," Acheson said. But, he warned, this did not put an end to the effort to deal with violations of human rights. He said the United States would use the Assembly to put the facts "before the conscience of mankind."

Text of Statement On 4 Weeks of Conflict

Here is the text of Secretary Acheson's impromptu remarks at his press conference yesterday:

Tomorrow evening it will be exactly four weeks since the attack took place in Korea. I thought it might be useful if we stopped for a moment and surveyed broadly what has happened in the four weeks which have followed the attack.

I think we become so absorbed in the daily report of the fighting in Korea that it might be useful to get some perspective in the larger field.

This attack, as you know, was a very carefully, well planned sneak attack which was supposed to overwhelm the Republic of Korea in a very short time. As a result of the prompt, vigorous and determined action of the free world, that has not happened.

What has happened in the month is that there was an instantaneous and vigorous response from the Security Council of the United Nations. Here it was confronted with a clear case of aggression, and it met that issue squarely and clearly. That is a most important development.

Following this there was instantaneous and strong support of the United Nations from the United States. The United States was joined in that by other nations which promptly made forces available. So you have not only strong action by the United Nations, strong action by the United States; you have actual participation in the resistance to aggression by other countries, and overwhelming international support throughout the entire free world for the action of the United Nations.

You have a united free world, you have a united country, and a united nation behind the United Nations. So much for the larger international picture.

In the United States, the President has immediately assumed the leadership in this critical period, and a program was presented by him to Congress on Wednesday which, again, met with a warm response from the Congress.

He did not, as he said, put this forward as the complete program. There are other matters which, he said, would be presented to the Congress as soon as they could be worked out. These are largely related to our assistance in strengthening the other free nations associated with us.

Now all of these steps have taken place within a month. They have brought about this extraordinary degree of unity within the free world and within this country—this vigorous response to aggression and a very determined effort on the part of the United States to put itself in a position of security.

I do not recall any period of four weeks in the history of the United States when so much has been accomplished.

Hundreds of Britons Try to Become GIs

London, July 21 (AP).—Hundreds of Britons who would rather be a GI Joe than a Tommy Atkins have tried in vain to enlist in the United States armed forces.

Only American citizens in England can join American forces.

A buck private in the British army gets three shillings sixpence (49 cents) a day, or slightly less than $15 a month. A buck private in the United States Army gets $75 a month if he enlists for two years, $80 if he enlists for longer.

Theological Students Training in Hospitals

By Connie Zatkovich
Post Reporter

At Gallinger Hospital, six seminarians are learning that spiritual therapy is often "just what the doctor ordered" for the patients.

For twelve weeks, these students from the Virginia Theological Seminary, Alexandria, go through a "clinical pastoral training." They visit patients in the medical and surgical wards, and have an opportunity to assist alcoholic and neuropathic personalities.

Public Health Nurses, vocational rehabilitation counselors and specialists of the medical profession, lecture them or talk to them in private interviews. They observe operations, attend seminars and get better than a layman's knowledge of hospital work.

About 25 theological students from the Virginia Theological Seminary and other schools are visiting other area hospitals under the Council for the Clinical Training.

They are: the Rev. Donald C. Shaw, chaplain, Lorton Reformatory; the Rev. Ernest E. Bruder, chaplain, St. Elizabeths Hospital; the Rev. Merrel Booker, chaplain, Freedmen's Hospital, and the Rev. Mark Shedron, chaplain, the National Training School for Boys.

Now indorsed by the New York Academy of Medicine, the American Association of Theological Schools and leading physicians, the Council of Clinical Training was incorporated in 1930, as an interdominational body for training of theological students. Gallinger Hospital was opened for clinical pastoral training in 1944; Lorton, 1940; Freedmen's 1949; St. Elizabeths, 1944.

"The emphasis of the training is to understand people, their needs and how religion can minister to this need most effectively," the Rev. Herbert W. Hillebrand, chaplain-supervisor at Gallinger, explained.

"Practical experiences are gained in the ministry of pastoral counseling."

According to the group at Gallinger, most of the patients and students become quite good friends, and only about three of the whole calling list this summer refuse to welcome them.

Most of the people confined to a hospital bed just want to be "talked to," one of the students, Allen F. Bray 2d, 1606 Fitzgerald lane, Alexandria, Va., said. "Often you're asked to call their minister or a relative." Some patients ask for prayers, others counsel.

Twelve weeks of such pastoral training is a required course at the Virginia Theological Seminary After one summer of it some students decide to stay in the field as an institutional chaplain, which requires two years of clinical study.

Other students at Gallinger, all from Alexandria, are: Lynwood C. Magee, 3640 Gunston rd.; Edward D. Hollman, 3306 Coryell Lane; Robert E. Holzhammer, 3586 Martha Custis Drive; Bradford B. Locke, 1451 Martha Custis dr., and Lemuel O. Roberson, 3741 Gunston rd.

World Leaders to Attend Toronto Meetings

During the next four weeks Protestant world leaders in Christian education will meet in Toronto, Canada, to "exchange ideals, problems and experiences" around one central theme—"Jesus Christ —Teacher and Lord."

Several outstanding leaders from 200 countries will converge for the World Institute of Christian Education meeting, July 22 to August 10. This meeting will precede the 13th World Convention on Christian Education, at which 20,000 are expected in Toronto on August 10-16.

With problems of interpretation, customs and national backgrounds complicating the task, the representatives of the institute will (1) share problems, experiences and ideas of all countries, (2) formulate proposals to be presented at the World Council of Christian Education, and (3) prepare documents for future use on common tasks of the teaching church.

One of the two commission leaders from the United States is Mrs. Josephine Kyles, director of the department of Christian education of the Washington Federation of Churches. Mrs. Kyles is a graduate of Oberlin College and received her master's degree from the Union Theological Seminary in New York. She has done exhaustive work in the visual education movement and studies of family life and race relations. At the Children's Work Conference, a separate meeting of the World Convention, she will act as resource leader in the visual aid section.

Another Washington representative, Mrs. O'Neal Johnson, a member of the children's work committee of Federation of Churches and secretary in that work for the Washington Presbytery, will attend as denominational delegate to the Children's Conference.

At the World Council of Christian Education following the Institute on August 11, the Rev. Frank Gillespie, director of youth at Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, Chevy Chase, Md., will be a leader in the Youth Commission. He is a member of the Christian education department of the Washington Federation of Churches.

About 25 delegates from the area, representing all the Protestant denominations, will attend the council. Divisions of education in school, home and church, and special sessions covering Sunday, weekday and vacation schools, teacher training, Christian education of illiterates and uses of the Bible will be included in the program.

Study guides have been circulated for use throughout the world prior to the Toronto meeting.

Many Washington churches have contributed fellowship fees to sponsor the attendance of delegates from all over the world.

Leprosy Mission To Convene Here

The forty-third annual convention of American Leprosy Missions, Inc., is scheduled to meet October 18-20 at the Calvary Baptist Church, 8th and H sts. nw. "Make a Place for a No-Place Person," will be the theme, and appeals for more public interest in leper victims will be made.

The American Leprosy Missions enable missionaries to minister to victims of leprosy through about 140 leprosy missions in 29 countries.

There is still much apathy about this cause, according to Edwin D. Miner of New York City, regional secretary of American Leprosy Missions, Inc.

Baptists Open Parley Today In Cleveland

Cleveland, Ohio, July 21 (U.P.)—More than 20,000 delegates from 52 nations will attend the opening session here tomorrow of the eighth World Baptist Congress scheduled to run through July 27.

Dr. D. R. Sharpe, executive secretary of the host, Cleveland Baptist Association, said "this is the precise time to have a congress. National groups are coming because we stand for something those birds (Communists) over there don't stand for.

"This congress is really a spiritual front," Dr. Sharpe said, and he warned that the "picayune faith we had before the last two wars solved no problems then and that kind of flabby piousness won't come close to the needs of this day. We're still trying to use ox-carts in a race with atomic power."

The 45-year-old Baptist Alliance includes more than 100 associations in 50 countries, representing 18 million members of the Baptist denomination. Conventions are held every five years.

Reports of seven commissions will be submitted for action by the delegates later at the business sessions.

The current Korean situation was called a "toy balloon" by Dr. Lewis, who cautioned that "We're prone to watch the Far East for events. Don't forget, it's the power in the Kremlin that makes the issue."

President Truman, himself a Baptist, was invited to speak at tomorrow night's session. However, pressure of state duties made his appearance impossible.

Protestant Youth To Hear Sermon By Dr. Folkemer

"Why Are We Protestants?" will be the subject of the third in the series of Sunday evening vesper services sponsored by the Federation of Christian Youth.

Dr. Lawrence D. Folkemer, associate professor of religion at George Washington University, will speak at 7 p. m. to a group assembled on the Pilgrim Steps of the Washington Cathedral, Wisconsin and Massachusetts ave. nw. Mrs. Bernice B. Spencer of John Wesley A. M. E. Zion Church will conduct the worship service.

On August 6 the Rev. C. Stanley Lowell, minister of the Wesley Methodist Church, will speak on "Every Job a Christian Vocation." In the last of the series August 13, the Rev. Leonard S. Edmonds, director of the department of social welfare, Washington Federation of Churches, will talk on "Christian Action and Community Service."

Premiere of Film

At the Youth for Christ World Vision Conference Rally at 7:45 p. m. tonight the color-sound film "South to the Harvest," will be premiered, at the Fourth Presbyterian Church, 13th and Fairmont sts. nw.

Columbia to Pay Main Expenses of Religious Advisers

Last week Columbia University in New York City announced the adoption of a new policy of assuming the major part of the expenses of religious counselors on their staff.

In the past the entire expense was borne by various religious agencies in the community.

Under the new program, Dr. Grayson L. Kirk, vice president and provost of the university announced, Columbia will supply all the funds for clerical assistance as well as contributions toward office expenses.

All the major faiths have counselors on the staff.

2 D. C. Clerics To Aid Alaska Chaplains

Dr. Hastings Dr. Rustin

Two Washington ministers are among the four civilian clergymen who will conduct spiritual retreats in Alaska for all chaplains in the Alaskan Army, Navy and Air Force command, August 7 through 19. Announcement was made by the Armed Forces Board this week.

Representing the Protestant denominations are: The Rev. Dr. John W. Rustin, pastor of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, and the Rev. Dr. J. Warren Hastings, pastor of the National City Christian Church.

Retreats for the Catholic and Jewish chaplains are under the supervision of the Rev. L. B. Dalaunay, dean of men of the University of Portland, Portland, Ore., and Rabbi William Z. Dalin, Jewish Welfare Board, San Francisco, Calif.

Dr. Rustin heads the largest Protestant church in the Washington area with a membership of 4500. He is active in civic work with the Kiwanis Club, Community Chest and American Red Cross, and is a former president of the Washington Federation of Churches.

As pastor of the National City Christian Church, Dr. Hastings has been in Washington since 1942. He is vice president and trustee of the International Reform Federation and a board member of the Washington Federation of Churches.

4 Educators Will Attend Institute

Four Washington educators are scheduled to appear on the program of the seventh annual Institute of Higher Education at Scarritt College in Nashville, July 25-27.

They are: Dr. Robert Dubose, executive secretary, Commission on Christian Higher Education, Association of American Colleges; Dr. E. V. Hollis, Chief of College Administration, Federal Security Agency, United States Office of Education; George E. Van Dyke, specialist for College Business Management, Federal Security Agency, United States Office of Education, and Dr. Gould Wickey, executive secretary, Board of Education of the United Lutheran Church in America.

The Institute of Higher Education is a joint project of the Division of Educational Institutions of the Methodist Board of Education, Scarritt College and the Education Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Adventists to Hold Revival Meetings

San Francisco, July 21 (AP).—Revival meeting of the 716,000 Seventh-Day Adventists in churches of 228 countries of the world will be held within the next two months.

As the church's world conference today approved such a plan, its newly elected president, William H. Branson, said:

"People have a growing feeling that we are on the verge of something momentous. Adventists believe this to be true. We think that the second coming of Christ is near which should bring hope and comfort to all Christians."

The resolution of revival meetings was among those passed in closing business sessions of the forty-sixth quadriennial meeting.

In a conference address on proper preparation for marriage, Dr. Harold Shryock, dean of the Loma Linda, (Calif.) division of the College of Medical Evangelists, advised parents to answer frankly all sex questions of children. But he emphasized they should show a wholesome attitude.

Elder J. Lamar McElhany, retiring president, of Takoma Park, Md., will close the conference with an address at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow. Preceding him, Elder Francis D. Nichol, of Washington, D. C., editor of the Review and Herald, Adventist church paper, will speak on "Facing the Future."

Lutheran Parish Will Install New Pastor Sunday

Hampstead, Md., July 21 (Spl.)—The Rev. H. Earl Schlotzhauer will be installed as pastor of the Calvary Lutheran parish in St. Peter's Lutheran Church near here at 11 a. m. Sunday.

Author of a book of religious verse, "Releasing Life," the Rev. Mr. Schlotzhauer has served at parishes in Allentown, Pa., Shenandoah and Manassas, Va. He had done graduate work at the University of Virginia and Georgetown University.

The Sunday installation service will be conducted by the Rev. J. Frank Fife, D.D., of Baltimore.

Fast Day

Tishoh B'ov Begins Today At Sundown

Tishoh B'ov, a Jewish fast day, begins at sundown tonight.

It is a day of mourning, ending Sunday at sundown, commemorating the first and second destructions of the temples in Jerusalem. In 586 B.C., Solomon's Temple was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon, and the Jewish kingdom in Palestine abolished. Six hundred and fifty years later, the Roman legions commanded by Titus burned the second temple in 70 A.D.

According to tradition, both temples were obliterated on the same day, Tishoh B'ov, or the ninth day of the Jewish month Av.

Special services will be held this evening and on Sunday morning at Orthodox and Conservative synagogues throughout the city. The day is observed by some as a fast day.

On the Sabbath Day leading up to the fast, Chapter I of Isiah in the Old Testament's Book of Prophets is recited. It contains a denunciation of the sins of the people and a forewarning of destruction and a call to repentance.

On Tishoh B'ov, the actual destruction of the temples is commemorated with the intoning of the Book of Lamentations, written by the Prophet Jeremiah.

in-aid programs, should be screened with the objective, as far as practical, of deferring, curtailing, or slowing down those projects which do not directly contribute to defense or to civilian requirements essential in the changed international situation set forth in my message.

"2. Consistent with the restrictive policy already in force for housing credit, other credit programs should be tightened. The only exceptions should be those which directly contribute to meeting our defense and international responsibilities.

"3. Procurement of supplies and equipment should be held to minimum amounts, especially purchase of motor vehicles, typewriters, and other equipment using critical materials. Inventories should be reduced to the lowest practical levels, and excess supplies and equipment should be made available immediately to the General Services Administration."

Mr. Truman said that Budget Director Lawton would work with the department heads in reviewing programs and report back to him on the results.

The Chief Executive's letter went to the heads of the Departments of Agriculture, Army, Commerce, Interior, Justice, Labor, State, Treasury, and the Post Office Department.

Prompt Tax Boosts Urged

mists said the program should at least raise five billion dollars.

Representative Robert L. Doughton (D., N. C.), whose Ways and Means Committee will launch the new bill, has instructed staff experts to comb all tax sources.

But Doughton, like Senate Finance Chairman Walter F. George (D., Ga.), has favored waiting until late this year or until early in 1951 to enact a tax bill. Both also have opposed any "retroactive" taxation.

Informed of the Joint Economic Committee's action, Doughton said he will wait until the President sends up a detailed request before reaching any firm decision.

In urging prompt, across-the-board increases, the House-Senate Economic Committee did not spell out any detailed tax plan.

O'Mahoney said he personally gambling operations by the U. S. crease right how across the board would pay the costs of the Korean war.

But he urged that an excess profits tax be superimposed to stop profiteering and provide enough revenue to balance the cash budget and meet any war contingencies.

The Joint Committee confined its action on the President's emergency control program to indorsing curbs on consumer credit. O'Mahoney said that did not imply members opposed other proposed controls.

"But direct controls will not check inflation as successfully as taxation will," he said.

GOP Lashes Tydings on McCarthy Report

question about the Wisconsin Republican's performance. , For Ives said, in complaining that the Tydings subcommittee had failed to make complete investigation.

"Errors in commission by some should not blind us to errors in omission by others."

Senator Lodge (R., Mass.), a minority member of the Tydings subcommittee, followed Ives, principally to correct what he thought were misinterpretations of his position made by Tydings in his speech the previous day.

He insisted it was impossible, from the loyalty files the subcommittee had been allowed to examine, to come to any conclusions on the loyalty of the persons listed in McCarthy's famous "81 cases".

Senator McMahon (D., Conn.), also on the subcommittee, insisted that in effect Lodge was thus criticizing the work of the FBI. Lodge refused to agree.

A moment later, flushed, furious and with his fist shaking, McMahon upbraided Lodge for failing to clear Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup of McCarthy's charges that he had pro-Communist leanings.

Lodge asserted he had no doubts at all about Jessup's loyalty, and was delighted that persons who knew him, such as Generals Marshall and Eisenhower, said he was a fine American. But, Lodge asserted, the subcommittee had not made a real investigation of Jessup. Therefore he, Lodge, was not going to pretend that it had, nor "clear" him in the absence of such an inquiry.

Senator Lehman (D., N. Y.) observed it was "somewhat ungenerous" of Lodge not to have said as much in the minority report he submitted.

At one point, Senator Magnussen (D., Wash.) asked Lodge: "Did the Senator in his investigation find any Communists in the State Department."

"No, I did not," Lodge said, and added further that he thought such Communists as the department ever had came in 1945 and 1946 when it absorbed several wartime agencies. Since then, he said, the department had made a good approach to a good security system.

There followed a long discussion, mostly among the Republicans, on the fact that the subcommittee's report, filed the previous day, came back from the printer with a cover sheet indicating it was a report from the full Foreign Relations Committee.

This, said Senators Smith (R., N. J.), Brewster (R., Me.) and Mundt (R., S. Dak.) was "a fraud and a hoax perpetrated on the American people," since the full committee had not adopted the report, but merely transmitted it to the Senate.

Senator Flanders (R., Vt.) submitted a resolution to withdraw the printed copies and correct the title page. It went to the Senate clerk's desk where, it would appear, it may stay a long while. Meantime, the reports are printed and in circulation.

Senator Jenner's excoriation of Tydings was prompted by remarks the latter had made about Jenner on Thursday.

In a digression in his speech on McCarthy, Tydings had asserted that in his votes Jenner had consistently followed the "Stalin line." He had voted against the Marshall Plan, against the Atlantic Pact and against foreign military aid—all of which were also bitterly opposed by the Kremlin and the Daily Worker.

Accordingly, Jenner's remarks were woven about the refrain: "Let's see who's following the Commie line,"—he or Tydings. He attempted to show that Tydings was a "stooge" of the Administration, one of its "trained seals" and —in reference to Tydings' earlier attempt to play a recording of McCarthy's speeches on the Senate floor—a "disc-jockey."

It was easy to call Tydings' hand, Jenner said, "for these cards he is hiding are red with the blood of treachery."

The Administration and State Department for which Tydings was covering up and supporting, said Jenner, were responsible for three wars in a generation, the debacle in the Far East, the betrayal of China, the mess in Korea, the recognition of Russia, and the attempted destruction of Germany and Japan, "the only two powers in the world which have been able to stop the threatened aggression of Russia's oriental hordes."

He noted that Tydings had sponsored Acheson for his first position in the Government. Pointing at the Marylander, he then shouted:

"Is it not true, Senator Tydings, that it is your father-in-law, Mr. Davies, who as our Ambassador to Russia, wrote as foul a piece of pro-Soviet propaganda ever designed to corrupt the minds of the American people?"

Referring to a remark Tydings made the day before that he had been decorated for World War I service, Jenner said he had no medals himself. He added that he didn't know Tydings had, until he heard it from "his own itsy-bitsy lips." But, Jenner concluded, he thought Tydings would one day get another medal.

"It will be large and emblazoned with a single name: Thanks from good old Joe for a job well done.'"

Tydings broke his silence during Jenner's speech only once. When Senator Connally (D.. Tex.) asked that Jenner be silenced for violating Rule 19, and a Republican motion followed to permit Jenner to proceed, Tydings shouted a loud "Aye."

Alabama Executes Three in One Day, A 10-Year Record

Montgomery, Ala., July 21 (AP).—Three men died in Kilby Prison electric chair today in Alabama's first triple execution in ten years.

The State needed only 30 minutes to take the lives of the three slayers—a white man and two Negroes.

The white slayer, 23-year-old Homer Garland Odom of Birmingham, was the first to die. He confessed twice to shooting a 71-year-old storekeeper to death near Birmingham.

When guards strapped him to the electric chair he smiled faintly. "I'll be seeing you," he called out to Warden George Garner.

Claude Sims of Autauga County was the second to die. In February, 1949, he killed John Hardy, a night watchman.

Joe Keith, jr., died for beating two other Negroes to death two years ago. The beatings were "unbelievably brutal," the Governor was told when the 29-year-old killer appeal for clemency earlier this week.

"The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away," Keith said after he was strapped to the chair.

Mediation On Kashmir

Among the several subjects of bitter dispute that have kept relations between India and Pakistan in something worse than a cold-war condition, Kashmir is the sorest and most difficult. The disposal or division of this princely state is now under renewed discussion between the Indian Prime Minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, and the Prime Minister of Pakistan, Liaquat Ali Khan, with the official mediator of the United Nations, Sir Owen Dixon of Australia, lending the encouragement of his good offices. Sir Owen has just completed an extensive tour of Kashmir and has canvassed a variety of viewpoints on the problem. Perhaps he will be able to offer some fresh and constructive suggestions. But he is said to feel that a solution can be arrived at only through candid discussion by the principals, which seems elementary if the settlement is to be by real mutual agreement rather than by outside pressure. The most hopeful aspect of the situation is that the two Prime Ministers are men of real stature, conscious of their obligation to reach a rational solution by peaceful means.

Other nations of the free world have scarcely less at stake in getting the Kashmir problem settled than the Hindu-Moslem disputants themselves. Events in Korea have underscored the danger of permitting a wound like this to fester. The Indians and the Pakistani, who might otherwise be contributing valuable aid in upholding the authority of the United Nations, are obliged to keep all their forces at home, eyeing one another in a precarious armed truce. And their continued hostility to each other is always, of course, susceptible to Communist exploitation. Kashmir presents a tough and awkward but not an insoluble problem for the statesmen concerned. The peace and security of the world depend in very considerable degree upon finding a speedy and just solution.

A Club In Hand

Secretary Brannan's recent report to Congress carries very little reassurance to housewives clamoring against the rise of food prices. The Commodity Credit Corporation, he reports, owned about 165 million pounds of butter and was accumulating more at a rate of about nine million pounds a week. Cheese stocks totaled 63 million pounds, and were increasing at the rate of 15 million pourds per week. The CCC also had on hand 103 million pounds of dried eggs, the equivalent of 300 million dozen of shell eggs, and the monthly addition to stocks averaged 15 million pounds. To sum up: the Government has in its possession about a pound of butter, a half pound of cheese and 2 dozen eggs (in dried form) for every man, woman and child in the United States. Although Mr. Brannan assured Congressman Cooley that none of these dairy products have been allowed to spoil, he warns that "such a fortunate situation cannot be expected to continue indefinitely."

Potatoes, too, are piling up again at a support price of approximately $1 a bushel. The cost of this program for the current crop—that is, the losses that the CCC will have to take—is officially estimated at 75 million dollars. During the preceding crop year, when large amounts of potatoes were left to rot, or were destroyed or resold to farmers for feed or fertilizer at a cent per hundredweight, losses amounted to an estimated 85 million dollars. Yet in the face of these surpluses and rising food prices, the Government seems helpless, or nearly so.

Dairy products are given free at storage points to welfare agencies for relief purposes at home and abroad, but transportation costs and other considerations limit the amount that can be given away. Gifts of potatoes are rejected for similar reasons. Some butter and cheese have been sold, but Secretary Brannan notes that great care has to be taken in making such sales to avoid adversely affecting the price structure. To be sure the CCC is empowered to sell stored perishables at any price it sees fit if there is a danger of deterioration. However, the market prices of dairy products are at present just about at support levels and if substantial quantities of stocks were to be sold, the CCC would either have to resume support buying or else abandon the support program in disregard of legal mandates. Moreover, sales of perishables at prices below support levels could not be justified in view of the assurances of price support that have encouraged producers to increase their output. The CCC could, however, prevent prices of perishable commodities from advancing further if prices should rise above support levels by releasing stored stocks in adequate amounts.

Furthermore, although the CCC is forbidden by law from selling stored stocks of grain and nonperishable commodities for less than 105 percent of support prices plus carrying charges, it can keep the prices of these commodities from rising much above parity levels by means of sales. Sales of cotton from 1948 stored stocks are, in fact, already being made to check price rises. In other words, the CCC's stored wheat, corn and cotton enable it in effect to put ceilings on the prices of these products.

Although the CCC is hampered by legislative restrictions, it can and should use the powers it already possesses to prevent a runaway inflation of prices of basic farm products that would help to check speculative price increases and at the same time emphasize the fact that the recent increases in the prices of many food products are the result of profiteering and scare buying. As President Truman said in his radio talk to the public, the hoarding of food is foolish and the only shortages we need fear are those which we ourselves artificially create. The same is true of excessive prices, but in this case the Administration and Congress themselves are responsible for hoarding and price-pegging that keep the cost of some foods at unreasonable levels.

Aims In Korea

In the assumption that the stabilization and counteroffensive in Korea will succeed, it is high time to tell the world, and especially the people of Asia, precisely what the free world is fighting for. In other words, the United Nations as the conscience of the free world and the United States as the chief military instrument of that conscience need to define their objectives. True, the immediate aim is clear enough—to stop the North Korean aggression. Or, as the Security Council resolutions of June 25 and 27 stated, to obtain a cease-fire, withdrawal of the aggressor forces to the thirty-eighth parallel and restoration of peace and security. But these are in cold contrast to the Communist promises of unification of all Korea, land reform and what not. However much international morality may be on our side, we must give the Korean people something they and the world can understand—something that in practical and meaningful terms will capture their imagination and allegiance.

The effectiveness of a set of aims widely promulgated was proved in World War I, when President Wilson's Fourteen Points were credited with great influence in the surrender of Germany. It could be said that the Atlantic Charter, and indeed the steps leading to the formation of the United Nations, served a similar purpose, though less clearly, in World War II. We cannot afford to neglect the immense psychological value of such an approach now—an approach that does not talk vaguely of liberty, but spells out what liberty means in terms of the welfare of the people. The importance of this method of psychological warfare is increased by the fact that the Kremlin propagandists daily are sowing confusion and that in parts of the Middle East there is popular doubt as to who is the aggressor in Korea.

Already the problem of what to do when the thirty-eighth parallel is reached going north has occasioned some serious thought in the State Department. The ultimate decision and the statement of objectives must come, of course, from the United Nations. But it would be well for the United States to broach the subject. The status quo before the aggression in Korea cannot be restored. But are the U. N. forces to push into North Korea on military considerations or stop short for the political reason that they are getting close to Russia? If they do stop, how is the unification of Korea to be obtained? What will be the status of the Rhee government? Can the U. N. promise the people any program of economic improvement?

These are all details which members of the U. N. ought to be thinking about. At the very least, U. N. objectives ought to include unification of Korea, with free U. N.-supervised elections to follow—and these aims, once defined, should be broadcast everywhere. Beyond this, the Security Council ought to have on the books a resolution on Korea's future which Russia could not block if she should decide to return. Finally, the world ought to be assured that the U. N. will have an international police force at its disposal in Korea to enforce its aims after the fighting stops.

Coal Shortages?

The National Coal Association has warned the public that it may feel the pinch of coal shortages later in the year, if the country is forced to mobilize. This is startling news in view of the fact that the industry is overdeveloped and cannot provide full-time work for all its miners. If a coal shortage should arise as a result of increased demands for fuel, it will certainly not be attributable to any lack of productive facilities. Although the NCA asserts that shortages of coal cars hamper current production, the low level of coal output during the first seven months of the year is due chiefly to the three-day week ordered by Mr. Lewis and to the miners' strike last winter.

Evidence that the industry is confronted by a problem of overproduction, despite the low level of production, is afforded by a Bureau of Labor Statistics report of May 31 predicting additional layoffs and cutbacks, although 39,000 miners had left the field during the preceding 18 months. The BLS explained that if the present mine force worked only 200 days a year or about 45 five-day weeks, the industry could produce more than 550 million tons of coal a year. And coal consumption was not expected to reach that level in 1950. However, consumption will probably exceed earlier estimates of requirements; and owing to the low level of production in the first half of the year, there is very little coal above ground. Consequently there is some reason to fear that temporary coal shortages may develop. But even if coal shortages were to appear without the assistance of John L. Lewis, it would be a mistake to conclude that the soft coal industry is on the road to recovery.

Only last week the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee held hearings on Senator Humphrey's resolution calling for the creation of a special committee to study the problems of the coal industry. When he introduced the resolution the Senator said that coal is a "sick" industry. The frequent strikes that have harried it, are, as he explained "a symptom of deep underlying crisis within that industry and a symptom, too, of basic problems arising from technological displacement and the development of substitute fuels." Study and investigation of these problems is long overdue, and we hope that the committee will indorse the proposal for an inquiry affording a basis for remedial legislation that would help to stabilize the industry and prevent the recurrent strikes that are both a cause of effect of its instability.

Hard On Music

The always alert Immigration and Naturalization Service has just saved the United States Government from being overthrown by Joseph Krips, conductor of the Vienna State Opera. Mr. Krips, one of the most distinguished of contemporary musicians, had been invited to come here to conduct four concerts at the summer festival of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. He was given a visitor's visa in Vienna—at the instance of John Erhardt, then American Minister to Austria—and after completing a series of operas in London, where the government survived his sojourn, he came to the United States intent upon pursuing his nefarious calling. But the immigration officals were too quick for him; before he could so much as jog the Statute of Liberty, he was taken to Ellis Island and told that his admittance to this country was deemed "prejudicial to the interests of the United States."

Mr. Krips was one of those forced to flee from his native country when the Nazis annexed it. After Austria's liberation, he resumed his musical career and rebuilt the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra and the Vienna Opera. His offense appears to have been, however, that in 1947, at the request of his own government, he accepted invitations to conduct concerts at Moscow and Leningrad, as well as at London and Paris. Regardless of whether his politics had anything to do with his welcome behind the Iron Curtain, we suspect that his invitation to Chicago—of all places—was based solely upon his capacity in the field of music.

Of course, as in most cases of this sort, the Immigration and Naturalization Service declines to tell even the visitor himself, let alone the American public, the reasons for excluding him. It just mumbles "prejudicial to the interests of the United States," the way ancient witch doctors used to mumble incantations to ward off evil spirits. But we cannot help wondering whether the interests of the United States really require that this country be made to look ludicrous in the eyes of cultured men the world over—whether they really require that we treat visiting artists as we presume they would be treated by Soviet commissars.

Another Spy Arrest

The latest figure in the great atomic spy ring case is that of Julius Rosenberg, arrested the other day in New York by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Rosenberg is an engineer who was for a time in the employ of the United States Army Signal Corps but was removed from his job when his superiors were informed of his alleged Communist associations. He is now said to have been part of an espionage apparatus, which operated under the direction of Anatoli A. Yakovlev, Soviet vice consul in New York City, and which included Harry Gold, a biochemist of Philadelphia, and David Greenglass of New York, a former Army sergeant attached to the laboratories of the atomic bomb project at Los Alamos, N. Mex.

Evidently there was for a time a fairly close connection between this group and Dr. Klaus Fuchs, the self-controlled schizophrene now serving a 14-year sentence in England for the betrayal of atomic secrets to the Russians. The part of Gold in the conspiracy was that of a messenger or courier. He has pleaded guilty to having received formulas and other information from Fuchs in clandestine meetings at New York, Cambridge, Mass., and Santa Fe, N. Mex. His confession in open court appears also to cover the receipt of other information concerning the work at Los Alamos from Greenglass at a meeting in Albuquerque arranged by Rosenberg.

It would appear, then, that the arrests of Gold, Greenglass and Rosenberg were the result of information given by Fuchs to the representatives of the FBI who were permitted by the British authorities to interrogate him. According to one report, approximately 14 names were mentioned by Fuchs as those of persons whom he knew or supposed to be involved in the conspiracy. Further arrests are, therefore, to be anticipated. It is possible, of course, that some of the suspects had already been warned and had managed to flee the country, as was the case with some of the Canadian conspirators after Lieut. Igor Gouzenko, code clerk of the Soviet Embassy at Ottawa, made his hair-raising revelations to the Royal Mounted Police. It is possible also that the arrest of Fuchs provided the FBI with the key that may unlock the whole conspiracy.

Who's To Blame?

It seems that every time the United States is confronted with some national misfortune, the general public get very indignant and demand a scapegoat. The situation in Korea is very unfortunate and has been a humiliating shock to the exaggerated national conceit with which most of us Americans are pretty well filled. True to form, in various quarters a lot of "Monday-morning quarterbacks" are undertaking to blame Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson.

If we will only be absolutely honest with ourselves, we will have to admit that the real fundamental blame for our present unpreparedness, both in men and armament, does not belong to Secretary Johnson, or to President Truman, or to the Congress. In truth, our present unfortunate condition has come about largely because of the insistent demand of the great majority of the American public for a return to normal peacetime conditions and a disintegration of our wartime preparedness.

All of us remember that the shooting had hardly terminated in the last war before a great hue and cry went up all over the Nation to "get the boys home and out of uniform." The warnings that have been sounded from time to time during the past few years of the need for much larger armed forces and more modernized armament have been brushed aside and shouted down by the insistent public demand for lower taxes and at the same time for greater individual handouts in the form of social security, etc.

No public official and no government can successfully ignore public opinion. If public opinion during the past few years had demanded—or if it had only been agreeable to—the sacrifices necessary to have brought about real preparedness, we would not have found ourselves in this terrible mess today. Consequently, my message to my fellow Americans—and to myself—is "don't try to throw the blame on Louis Johnson or any other Government official. Blame yourself—and then tighten up your belt and get ready to do your full individual part in these critical times."

Peace Appeal

Several of your correspondents and editorial writers seem convinced that the Stockholm Peace Appeal is a horrible Communist fraud upon the common people of the world, but they do not seem to be quite sure just what the appeal is all about.

It is not aimed at the Korean situation, it has nothing whatsoever to do with 60-ton tanks or other new weapons (a private delusion of Herblock's) and the copies completed in this country are returned not to Moscow but to the Campaign Committee in New York to be forwarded to the U. N.

This is what the petition says and this is all it says: "We demand the outlawing of the atomic weapons as instruments of aggression and mass murder of peoples. We demand strict international control to enforce this measure. We believe that any government which first uses atomic weapons against any other country whatsoever will be committing a crime against humanity and should be dealt with as a war criminal. We call on all men and women of good will throughout the world to sign this appeal."

I have signed this appeal. I believe in what it says. It has been suggested that the Russians will try to make propaganda use of my signature. But what use can they make of it other than to say that I and millions of others do not want atomic warfare and urge all governments to adjure the atom bomb?

Watergate Attendance

I am deeply concerned about the statement made in your July 19 issue by a spokesman for the National Symphony Orchestra that there is a possibility that the Watergate concerts will be discontinued after this summer unless attendance improves.

To discontinue the series of summer concerts would be a serious blow to the cultural life of Washington, so by all means this must not be allowed to happen. Why has the attendance slipped so drastically at the Watergate? Has it been due to the unusual run of bad weather? I personally doubt that the inclement weather is the real underlying reason for the drop in attendance. The basic reason is the condition under which the concerts are performed. The public finds little enjoyment in listening to concerts while at the same time airplanes are flying overhead and traffic is moving continuously adjacent to the audience.

In my opinion the concerts should be transferred from Watergate to a more sheltered area, such as the Rock Creek Amphitheater, which will be devoid of all traffic disturbances, before the public can be expected to show its loyalty.

Auto Safety Defects

Nation-wide indignation is voiced at the automobile toll of 491 killed and 17,000 injured over the July Fourth weekend.

Most folks think slaughter of such proportions is experienced only on three or four holiday weekends. Actually, it is practically normal procedure. Every week from now until the end of the year the auto will average to kill about 700 and injure more than 20,000.

What is being done about it? We are besought to drive carefully, just as we have been urged for over 25 years, during which time the auto has killed off some 750,000 and injured more than 20 million of us. Isn't there something else that can be done other than blaming the accidents on the driver's carelessness?

Analyze today's passenger car and it is evident that it is dangerous to drive. As cars are now built, it is a physical impossibility to drive with unremitting care, when the structure of the car places the driver in the middle of a blind spot and robs him of his view of the road close up ahead.

The automobile industry is building vehicles 10 to 15 times safer than the accident-prone private automobile. This safe vehicle is the bus. Owners and operators will cite the location of the driver at the front of his vehicle as probably the responsible factor in bus freedom from accidents.

The most essential requisite for bringing automobile accidents under control is to construct the automobile, as the bus has been constructed, so that the driver will be at the front of his vehicle, with a full view of the road from front bumper to horizon.

ARTHUR W. STEVENS.
President, Automobile Safety Association, Boston.

"Statehood Now"

Your July 19 editorial on "Statehood Now" seemed to give the writer the impression that you are trying to get rid of a problem rather than trying to find the best solution for the problem. The problem of Hawaii, involving no precedent and concerning an off-shore Territory, far different from any other Territories on the mainland prior to admission to the Union, ought to deserve a greater study to determine whether or not the change of status from a Territory to a State is for the best interest of the United States in particular and to this warlike world in general.

As a resident of Hawaii, the writer finds no fault with its government. Its officials are all mostly elective with the exception of the Governor, the Circuit and Supreme Court judges. This setup has functioned very satisfactorily for the past 50 years. Law and order has been maintained to the highest degree. Even when the Japs bombed Pearl Harbor and sunk our whole fleet, the civil government was in control until martial law was declared.

As communism is a veritable disease in Hawaii, Statehood should be deferred indefinitely. After it has infiltrated and broken the Democratic Party into two opposing factions, and has softened the Republican Party to the point of not mentioning communism in public, yet do you still believe that Hawaii should have Statehood now?

Statehood means State sovereignty. Once attained it is irrevocable. It is the goal of the Communist Party for they want a State free from all Federal authorities. With their strong union membership, International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union and their fellow-travellers and sympathizers, they form a potential block of votes and they know their strength.

Senator Butler has offered a practical solution that the Islands be given full elective government without the benefit of Statehood. The solution is similar to that of Puerto Rico. By this act, it will place the Government of the United States in the eyes of other nations, above all suspicious of extraterritoriality. In contrast to this, Statehood for Hawaii and Alaska at this time or any other time, would invite unlimited and unwarranted criticisms from other countries of American imperialism.

According to an article in Look's August issue, entitled "Communism in the United States," it showed that Hawaii has more Communists than 25 States but what the people in the United States don't know is that their power and influence among the people is far greater than any one of the 48 States. Do you still want to debunk "communism" in Hawaii?

As to the large non-Caucasian population and noncontiguity questions, they are each a serious problem that deserve more attention than mere sentiment and a mere wave-of-the-hand finality.

JONATHAN A. LEE.
Washington.

[Editor's Note: The debunking of communism in Hawaii was not ours, but that of the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee in its 9-1 report recommending Statehood. That report quoted from a recent investigation by the House Un-American Activities Committee showing that the people of Hawaii are well aware of the Communist threat and that communism is markedly on the decline.]

Strategy For Saboteurs

By Malvina Lindsay

Stepping Up War

THE GOD of war sternly eyed his chief saber rattler. "Step up action on World War III," he thundered. "Five years now since I gave the orders."

"We're making progress, sir. Look at Korea!"

"That's small time stuff. Get things moving on mass destruction."

"We'll have to weaken the United States a lot more first. The depression was our big bet. But it's failed us."

"Don't worry," grimaced Mars. "We've got a better bet—inflation! Get the profiteers on the job. Get prices skyrocketing. Start more buying panics. How about the sixth column?"

"Good work there, so far. A lot better after the campaign warms up."

"It's dragging. Not enough gall, venom, human poison—the gas stockpiles we need. Remember, 'whom the gods destroy' . . ."

"I get you, sir. But if more people are to be made mad, we need new ammunition — new charges, epithets, suspicions. The old stuff's shopworn."

"Get new personalities, in high places of course, to hang it on, and to do the hanging. Give McCarthyism another shot in the arm. Now about the United Nations. Liquidated yet?"

"Sorry, sir, but it's picked up again. You see, this Korean business——"

"Get some Senate oratory attacking it. What's the matter with our agents there? Why haven't they started a row over the U. N. flag?"

"THEY'E BEEN so busy, sir, fighting each other——"

"Good enough. How are your stockpiles of jargon holding out?"

"We have unlimited supplies of 'you can't change human nature' and the Santa Claus line. We're a little short on some of the new stuff, as 'pervert.' 'subversive.'"

"Get the jingo stockroom to fix you up. What about the frustration front?"

"Good progress. We're keeping top officials under fire, blasting 'em with criticism, weakening their confidence, keeping 'em so busy answering charges, explaining why they did or didn't do this or that, they're messing up their jobs quite nicely."

"Why aren't the jingoes making more noise?"

"We're working under cover there, sir. There'll soon be a bigger cry to drop a bomb."

"Fine," exclaimed Mars, rubbing his hands. "What about this world cooperation nonsense? Got it squelched?"

"There's a lot of busybody societies on the job there. But we're handling them very smartly, sir, getting 'em to hold coma sessions—five to ten-dollar banquets with long lists of dull speakers who mumble into their manuscripts."

"Good enough. How are things going on Point IV?"

"We were getting it whittled down—but there's been a slight reversal. We'll go after it on the Senate floor."

"STEP ON the gas there. That thing's dangerous—to our business. Now about the next Congress. We need the right men."

"What kind, sir?"

"The kind that'll shoot off their mouths to provide big Monday morning headlines that'll upset apple carts all over the world. The kind that'll tell Britain, France, all the United States allies how to run their business. The kind that'll fill the United States full of distrust and suspicion—like Russia. All the political me-firsters you can round up.

"And move fast on this," roared Mars. "We're letting things get out of hand. Why hasn't this Korean thing flared into a world war? Why hasn't western Europe gone Communist? Why hasn't somebody dropped a bomb?"

"But, sir, I have one good report——"

"What it is. Quick!"

"The growing feeling in America that total war is inevitable, and it might be just as well to get it over with. Also that people think the next war will be about like the last one."

"Good! I knew those fool scientists wouldn't be believed." The war god beat his breastplates. "Summon all saboteurs," he shouted. "Start a big push to get over to every American the idea that world war is on the way and nothing can stop it. Send stockpiles of whispers to Earth, whispers that say 'What's the use?' 'I can't do anything.' 'Let the guys in Washington worry,' 'Look out for number one,' 'Make the most of what time's left.' Remember what Shaw, a very bright man in some ways, said—that for discouragement men might become gods. But — we have discouragement. Yes, that's our cue—the will to fail."

Tank Defense

Our lack of success against the Red tanks in Korea should make all Americans think. Apparently, we did not learn in the last war that air supremacy does not guarantee absolute success on the ground against superior tank forces.

Suppose there had been no Korean war and we had a clash with Russia in Germany. Can you imagine the same initial withdrawals as in Korea, the same defeats, and the same humiliation to GI's and other Americans? I can, because if we had learned our lesson in the last war we would have had big tanks and antitank weapons in Japan when this mess commenced and we would have employed them pronto.

A Communication

Genocide Convention —Answer to Berle

By Alfred J. Schweppe

Chairman, Committee on Peace and Law Through the United Nations, American Bar Association

IT IS unfortunate that the June 30, Mr. A. A. Berle, jr., on the Genocide Convention should abound with so many inaccuracies. I shall confine myself to the printed record—the record of the hearings before a subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee concerning the International Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide, January 23, 24, 25, and February 9, 1950.

Mr. Berle says that Mr. Arthur Krock, in his able article published June 16, gave attention to certain "objections to this treaty raised by a few lawyers whose opposition had aroused little echo until then."

Mr. Berle is apparently unaware that the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association, the official voice of that association, speaking on behalf of its 40,000 members, on September 7, 1949, at its annual convention, at St. Louis, adopted the following resolution: "Be it resolved that the Convention on Genocide before the United States Senate be not approved as submitted."

MR. BERLE says: "Actually, the Section on International Law of the American Bar Association, which is composed of experts on international law and treaty analysis, had already examined all of these contentions and decided that there was nothing in them."

The testimony of Mr. Charles W. Tillett, chairman of the Section, on January 23, 1950, was, in part, as follows:

"I would say that in the pamphlet which has been introduced in evidence (Report of his Section), the reservations which bear the numbers 1, 2, 3 and 5, were considered, in general, by the Section to be very material."

Mr. Berle cites as authorities for his position, former Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, Harrison Tweed, Dean Wesley Sturges of Yale, and Prof. Manley O. Hudson of Harvard.

Mr. Hudson, who is in Geneva attending a session of the International Law Commission, has just answered a cable stating that he has not stated "that American Bar Association opposition is without substance" and that he has "not recommended ratification of the Genocide Convention." The first three signed and filed a brief with the Senate subcommittee in support of ratification, along with Mr. Berle, on behalf of a group calling itself "The United States Committee for the Genocide Convention."

Mr. Patterson, the oral spokesman for the committee at the subcommittee hearing, said:

"Finally, may I submit that no reservations are required; that ratification should be simple, plain and without reservations."

How does that square with the position of the American Bar Association's Section on International Law which, according to Mr. Berle, is "composed of experts on international law and treaty analysis," and which found that the treaty, if ratified, should have seven reservations attached, at least four of which were considered by the section "very material?"

MR. BERLE says, speaking of the recent California decision which held that the United Nations charter automatically nullified the Alien Land Law of that State, "The United Nations charter is, and is expressed to be, self-executing. The genocide treaty is not."

Articles 55 and 56 of the United Nations Charter were involved in the California decision, according to experts on international law, including Prof. Manley O. Hudson, whom Mr. Berle cites, the United Nations treaty is not in those articles self-executing and certainly contains no expression that it is.

Mr. Berle says that "the genocide treaty does not by itself make them (the genocidal acts) criminal. Instead, by Article V, it obliges the parties to the treaty to enact necessary legislation providing effective penalties for genocide. The treaty does not make law; it binds the signatory parties to make their own laws."

MR. BERLE fails to recognize that the treaty does make law—"the supreme law of the land." In fact, the State Department, in its letter of transmittal, describes the convention as "a legal instrument designed not only to punish genocidal acts but also to punish the guilty."

The treaty, itself, makes genocide a crime, undertakes to define it in detail, and describes "the acts which shall be punishable." The only thing it does not impose is the specific penalty for the crime, which the ratifying nations would each be obligated to provide. The crime, and civil liability of an individual under the treaty, are automatically established on ratification. In any event, by ratifying the treaty we are committed to enact the penalty legislation, or we shall be guilty of a breach of the treaty. After ratification, we are committed.

On the other hand, if we accept Mr. Berle's thesis that "the treaty does not make law" but "binds the signatory parties to make their own laws," then we come out with nothing but a series of domestic criminal laws enforcible only at home in domestic courts. What good would that have done the Jews under Hitler?

MR. BERLE says: "The United States is only obligated to accept jurisdiction of the existing World Court, in case diplomats disagree over interpretation."

This is indeed an amazing statement. In plain language, the jurisdiction of the International Court of Justice under Article IX is much broader than "interpretation"; it covers application, and fulfillment as well. And it is not American diplomats or courts that finally determine the interpretation, applicatioon, or fulfillment of the convention as respects the United States of America, or its subdivisons and individual citizens, but such final jurisdiction is vested in the International Court of Justice under Article IX, on application of any party to the dispute.

Mr. Berle ends as follows: "The present treaty, fully clarified by the understandings carefully drafted by Senator McMahon, should be ratified."

It must be a dubious satisfaction to Mr. Berle to have to argue at the end of his piece (after having tried to point out that there is nothing to the contentions of those who criticize the convention and that "no reservations are required"), that the proposed treaty "fully clarified by the understandings carefully drafted" should be ratified.

THE FACT is—and this the proponents of the proposed genocide treaty always conveniently overlook—that the proposed treaty was badly drafted from our standpoint and, worse still, that the representatives of the United States were pushed out, as they so frequently are from positions of principle by Russia, its satellites and supporters. For instance, the United States delegation believed that it was an absolute essential of the definition of "genocide" that it be committed "with the complicity of government," the United States delegation being convinced that genocide could not be an international crime unless a government participated in its perpetration. The United States also insisted that, as a matter of principle, "political groups" should be included in the General Assembly resolution of December 11, 1946. Yet our representatives were defeated on these matters of principle.

The omission of "political groups" and the requirement that there must be an intent to destroy the groups actually named in the convention "as such", render the convention meaningless. As now drawn, the convention does not prohibit the only important genocide now going on, viz., in those countries behind the Iron Curtain, where dissident groups and persons are regularly proceeded against on political grounds as enemies of the state.

WHY SHOULD the United States, under these circumstances, become a party to this convention, with the serious problems which it raises for us, if the instrument is not effective to combat genocide where it presently occurs or is likely to occur?

As shown by the record, the American Bar Association in its official resolution, and its Committee on Peace and Law in its reports and statements, are as vigorously opposed to genocide as the most ardent advocates of the proposal, but they refuse to be swayed, by the emotional appeal of the subject, from criticizing a badly drafted instrument (in the formulation of which our representatives were outvoted on matters of fundamental principle by Soviet Russia, its satellites, and supporters) and from informing the United States Senate that, in their view, the convention, as submitted, should not be ratified.

50 District 1-As Take Induction Tests Monday

The first contingent of District draft candidates will take the Army's pre-induction examination Monday morning.

The first group from the Nation's Capital will include around 50 men, 24 and 25 years old, presently classified as 1-A. Thereafter, other groups of 50 District men will take pre-induction physical and mental tests Wednesday and Friday. This schedule will continue three times a week until the local quota of 101 inductees is attained.

The draft candidates have been ordered to report at the Army Air Force Recruiting Station at 403 10th st. nw., at 7:30 a. m. Monday. They'll then be taken by bus to the main recruiting station at Arlington Farms, Va., for their exams.

Yesterday 13 young men from the Hyattsville board area took their pre-inductions. Eight were found acceptable; five flunked the mental or physical exams.

Statehood Bills

By Marquis Childs

Mundt-Ferguson As A Payoff?

THANKS in large part to the hard work of Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, there is a good chance that Statehood for Hawaii and Alaska will be approved. In view of what is happening across the Pacific this has far greater meaning than it would have in normal times.

Childs

In the first place, Statehood for the two Territories should strengthen their position from the defense point of view. So long as they are mere dependencies, Congress can ignore their urgent requests for help.

This applies with particular force to Alaska, which has been treated like an unwanted stepchild. More money to strengthen Alaska's defenses was recommended two months ago. An ill-timed antitrust suit combined with the desperate need for all possible shipping for Korea is reported to have cut across these plans.

But almost more important than the benefit to defense is the example that this would set throughout the Pacific area. It is no secret that the chief opposition to Statehood for Hawaii has been on the issue of race—a little over half of the population of the islands is estimated to be of Oriental origin.

To show that this is no barrier to incorporation with the American Union would be an impressive object lesson to the vast mass of yellow and brown peoples in the Pacific. All indications are that if the Statehood bills can be brought to a vote before recess or adjournment, they will be passed.

AS CHAIRMAN of the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, O'Mahoney has worked with patience and tact to get the Statehood measures to the Senate floor. He has done this against the obstructionism of the ranking Republican member of the committee, Senator Hugh Butler of Nebraska. The House has already passed Statehood bills for Hawaii and Alaska.

During the lengthy hearings O'Mahoney was impressed by evidence of the way in which peoples throughout the Pacific looked to Hawaii and to the mainland of the United States for guidance and help in almost every department of life. The University of Hawaii, for example, has far more applications from students throughout the Pacific region than it can possibly accomodate.

Progress is also being made toward greater self-government for Puerto Rico. Congress passed, and the President has signed, a bill authorizing the people of the island to elect members of a constitutional convention to draft a constitution for Puerto Rico. Puerto Ricans were granted the right in 1947 to elect their Governor, and this is the next step toward self-government.

The Island of Guam in the Pacific is soon to be under civilian rather than Navy rule. The House has passed a measure providing government for Guam like that of the other Territories, and under which the people of Guam would become United States citizens. This is being pushed in the O'Mahoney committee. So it looks as though the United States may finally make good on the promises given when Guam was acquired from Spain in 1898.

AN EAGER collaborator in blocking Statehood for Hawaii is Senator James Eastland of Mississippi. Eastland had said that if and when the Statehood bills are brought up, he will move to substitute the Mundt-Ferguson bill to compel Communists and fellow travelers to register, and thereby restrict them in many of the privileges of citizenship.

O'Mahoney says now he believes he will agree to let the Mundt-Ferguson bill come up and he will vote for it. That is, he will vote for it if—and it's a big if—the Mundt-Ferguson bill is amended to remove some of the features that give extraordinary power over men's thoughts and opinions to a Subversive Activities Control Board.

It seems to me there is a kind of parable for our times in this. In going along with the Mundt-Ferguson bill O'Mahoney will have at least two motives. He believes some such measure is more or less inevitable in view of world conditions. And then also, he feels that if he should oppose the Mundt-Ferguson measure, he would bring down added opposition to the Statehood bills.

So Statehood for the Territories, urgently needed for a variety of reasons, may necessitate a payoff. It may mean adoption of a law which will not necessarily strengthen American security and which may actually endanger certain rights that Americans have believed to be inalienably theirs.

Social Security Action Almost Completed

By the United Press

Senate-House conferees yesterday all but completed action on a compromise Social Security bill providing broad new benefits for retired workers and their families.

Senator Walter F. George (D., Ga.), chairman of the Senate conferees, said he expected the legislators to finish work Monday—in time for Congress to pass the measure and send it to President Truman before Congress adjourns.

The measure is certain of approval in both houses.

It would add about ten million persons to the thiry-five million covered by Social Security, increase benefits an average of 90 percent and increase payroll taxes as much as $18 per worker, with the employer and employe splitting the cost.

The conferees yesterday agreed to bring about one million regularly employed farm laborers under the program.

They rejected a House provision to change present law for old age assistance, aid to the blind and aid to dependent children, which would have been increased under the House bill.

They agreed to keep the present law with one or two minor changes, including one to grant guardians of dependent children full rights to share in the Federal-State program. The provision will cost the Federal Treasury an estimated $70,000,000 a year.

They increased funds also for child welfare services from $3,500,000 a year to 10 million dollars. Maternal and child health service funds would be increased from 11 million dollars a year to $16,500,000, except for the present fiscal year when it would be limited to 15 million dollars.

Services for crippled children would receive 15 million dollars a year instead of the present $7,500,000. Only 12 million dollars would be provided for the service this year, however.

George said the group has only a few more provisions to settle. These include tax-rate increase schedules and aid to the permanently and totally disabled.

Marrero Gets Even, Curves Tribe to 3-2 Defeat

Phillies Win, Tie for Lead As Giants Top Cards, 5-4

Pittsburgh, July 21 (AP).—The Philadelphia Phillies kept in the thick of the National League pennant race tonight by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-1 behind Rookie Pitcher Emory (Bubba) Church who chalked up his third win without a defeat.

The victory put the Phillies into a first-place tie with St. Louis, who lost a 5-4, 11-inning decision to the New York Giants.

A surprising crowd of 34,016 saw Ralph Kiner account for the Bucs' only run with his twenty-eighth homer in the eighth.

Starter Mel Queen was charged with his eighth defeat against three victories.

Eddie Waitkus sparked the Whiz Kids' attack, scoring three runs and participating in each of their scoring innings.

In the first, the Philly first baseman walked, went to third on Richie Ashburn's single and scored on Dick Sisler's fly.

Then in the third, he singled and came all the way home as Outfielder Ted Beard dropped Sisler's fly.

In the fifth, Church singled, went to second on a Waitkus sacrifice anad scored on Ashburn's single.

Waitkus walked to open the second, went to second on Ashburn's sacrifice and romped home on Sisler's one base blow.

St. Louis Loses in 11th On Miller's Error

St. Louis, July 21 (AP).—Shortstop Eddie Miller's eleventh inning error gave the New York Giants a 5-4 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals tonight, dumping the Redbirds into a first-place National League tie with Philadelphia.

It was a tight pitchers' duel between Sal Maglie and Cloyd Boyer. Stan Musial kept the Redbirds in the ball game with a seventh inning homer with none on.

What's with this cake that it won't cut?" Featherweight Champion Pep and his bride asked Ahearn.

"I rented it,' replied the nonplussed Ahearn. "Today you rent cakes like you rent tuxedos. It's a good cake, take my word. The only thing is you can't cut it and you can't eat it.'

The arrival of Pep, who's in town to fight Bobby Bell at Griffith Stadium, Monday evening, was greeted by a squad of newspapermen, a platoon of photographers and a battalion of free-loading radio and TV guys.

It was the biggest fight crowd in Washington since television.

"If we got this many people out to see the fight Monday, business is got to be good," murmured Ahearn as the mob milled around the luncheon tables. "You got to give 'em a champion, his wife and a free lunch to get 'em out for a fight today. What a business."

Pep and his pretty bride couldn't understand all the turmoil made over their arrival. It was his failure to arrive in Washington July 10 that really caused a turmoil, plus a suspension for Pep. Instead of showing up to fight Bell two weeks ago, he stole off and got himself married that day.

Why did he pick that particular day to get married? Didn't he know he had a date to fight in Washington that night?

"Sure, I knew," he replied very matter of factly. "But jeez, I didn't think we'd cause that much fuss. I thought the fight would be postponed a week and thats all. But what publicity! What a pickle! I didn't mean to leave nobody holding the bag. I'm really sorry, believe me."

Mrs. Pep, who until July 10 was Dolores von Frenckell, agreed.

Pep slipped back into his hometown of Hartford last Monday and started training anew. He drove down yesterday and will finish training here.

"As I told you before,"Ahearn interrupted, "this fight is a natural—no television and no radio."

And in an aside to the newlyweds, he whispered:

"If you really want some cake to eat, order it."

Roe Hurls Bums To 7-1 Victory

Cincinnati, July 21 (AP).—Preacher Roe took complete charge of the Cincinnati Reds today and hurled the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 7-1 victory.

Roe flipped an eight-hitter, and the Bums scored enough runs to win the ball game in the fourth inning when walks to Jackie Robinson and Gil Hodges, singles by Roy Campanella and Pee Wee Reese and a stolen base by Robby, netted two runs.

Redskins in Need of Tackles, 2 New Ones Haven't Reported

Special to The Washington Post

Los Angeles, July 21—Coach Herman Ball of the Washington Redskins today launched a diligent search for tackles.

Although he has five tackles in camp here and another training with the Collegiate All Stars, Ball still is not satisfied.

Owner George Marshall was aware of the tackle situation last winter and made two trades in an attempt to solve the problem—giving away three players. Giving away is about the best way to describe the transactions, too, because Marshall has yet to receive a player in exchange.

John Adams and Jim Spavital kere sent to the Chicago Bears for Walt Stickle but Stickle has notified the Redskins he will not report. He's selling television sets.

George Halas, Bears' owner and coach, still must come through with a tackle. The only thing Halas has said is that the man he gives Washington will not be George Connor, Notre Dame great of the past four years.

In the other trade, Joe Zobeleski went to Detroit for George Hekkers. Hekkers is in town working for a motion picture studio and will meet with Marshall Sunday to discuss terms.

The three tackles who were with Washington last year are Laurie Niemi, Len Szafaryn and Bob Hendren. George Bayer and Jerry Houghton are the rookies.

At least a partial solution to the problem may be in Chicago—that's where Lou Karas is working out with the College All-Stars in preparation for their August 11 game with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Karras was drafted by Washington during the off-season and the former Purdue star will be counted on heavily to relieve the situation.

Ball, meanwhile, expressed satisfaction with the way things were shaping up at the other positions, even venturing to say he thought his ends were the best in the league.

LeBaron Faces Call to Marines

Los Angeles, July 21—Eddie LaBaron may not play a game for the Washington Redskins this season.

The little College of Pacific quarterback, who is presently training with the College All-Stars in Chicago, is an active member of Company C, 12th Marine Amphibious Battalion, tractor section. The battalion was alerted yesterday.

In Chicago today LeBaron said:

"I've been training with the unit for three years and as far as I know, I'm on the active list. I told them I had to report for the practice with the All-Stars and they gave me a leave of absence."

Hoyas' Baranowski Signs With Cards

Chicago, July 21 (AP).—Henry "Babe" Baranowski, Georgetown halfback, and Tackle George Eberle, of Auburn, today signed 1950 contracts with the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League.

The two men will report for oping practice Sunday at Beaver Dam, Wis., site of the Cardinals' training camp. Their signing brought the Cardinals' roster to 57 players.

Serena's Hit In 13th Whips Braves, 4 to 3

Chicago, July 21 (AP).—Bill Serena's single gave the Cubs a 13-inning, 4 to 3 victory over the Boston Braves before a ladies' day throng of 27,445 today.

The single drove home Andy Pafko who had doubled.

It was Pafko's sixteenth home run of the season which had given the Cubs a 1 to 0 lead over Johnny Sain in the fourth inning.

The contest was a pitchers' duel between Sain and Bob Rush for eight innings.

The Braves went ahead with a three-run outburst in the eighth, but the Cubs tied the score in their half of the inning on Hank Sauer's double with two mates on base.

Mize Socks Two Homers, Yanks Maul Tigers, 14-5

New York, July 21 (AP).—Big Johnny Mize blasted two homers, a pair of singles and drove home five runs tonight to lead the New York Yankees to a 14-5 triumph over the Detroit Tigers before 62,823 fans. The victory cut the Tigers' first-place margin over the Yanks to 1½ games.

The Yanks slugged Starter Ted Gray and Relief Marlin Stuart for seven runs in the first three innings. The Tigers struck back and knocked Yankee Starter Vic Raschi out with four runs in the fifth to cut the Yankee advantage to 7-4. But the Yanks came right back in their half of the fifth with a four-run rally that Mize highlighted with a three-run homer to wrap up the decision.

Mize socked his second homer of the game and eighth of the season in the seventh to feature a three-run uprising.

Yank Manager Casey Stengel shook up his lineup before the game, dropping Joe DiMaggio from the fourth to fifth slot and inserting Mize in the cleanup berth. The move paid huge dividends as DiMaggio came through with three singles and a double.

In the past four games, Mize has made 13 hits in 15 times at bat for an average of .867. He has his five homers and has been on base 16 times in 18 appearances at the plate.

DiMaggio was back in the lineup after five days of illness. During his absence, Mize batted fourth and broke out in a rash of base hits and Stengel refused to remove the former Giant from the most important slot in the batting order.

Chapman's Hit in 10th Wins for A's, 7-6

Philadelphia, July 21 (AP).—Sam Chapman's single off Chicago's fifth pitcher, Ken Holcombe, with two out drove in the winning run as Philadelphia snapped a six-game losing streak with a tenth inning 7-6 victory tonight.

The Athletics forced the game into overtime by scoring an unearned run in the ninth. Chapman scored when Nelson Fox's throw to the plate got away from Eddie Robinson. An error by Chico Carrasquel also gave the A's one of their three runs in the fifth.

Carrasquel atoned for his miscue by belting one of Lou Brissie's pitches for a homer in the seventh.

Chico's Six-Hitter Avenges 3 Previous Losses to Indians

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Chico Marrero, the little senor with the beeg el curvo, caught up with the Cleveland Indians last night and did a mucho pitching job to deliver a 3-2 victory for the Nats.

Before mucho people, 18,735, Marrero avanged his previous indignities at the hands of the Indians who knocked him from the box three times before this season. The Cuban cutie stayed on the job all evening and threw a six-hitter into the faces of the Clevelands.

He won his duel with Cleveland's Mike Garcia after the Nats gave him three runs to work with in the first two innings and nothing more. Going into the eighth, the senor was pitching three-hit ball.

The victim of nine home runs in previous starts against the Indans, Chico gave up nothing resembling a homer last night. He yielded a first-inning double to Joe Avila, and nothing more than a single thereafter. And he walked nobody after the second inning.

Garcia's wildness in the first inning, when the walked the first two Nats, Yost and Coan, cost him the ball game and put a crimp in the Indians' league lead ambitions. Mickey Vernon drove home one run with a single to right center, and Coan got home from third base while the Indians were messing up Stewart's ground ball with one out.

Mickey Grasso and Eddie Yost delivered the vital third run, in the next inning. Grasso lead off with a single to center, was sacrificed along by Marrero, and romped home on Yost's vicious single past third baseman Al Rosen.

Chico had to pitch himself out of a trouble spot in the first inning when Avila's double and walks to Rosen and Easter filled the bases with two out. He did it by deflecting Boudreau's smash into the box into the glove of Dente, who stepped on second for a force play.

He held the Indians to one run in the second inning after a walk to Kennedy and Hegan's single put men on first and second with one out. Garcia's sacrifice and Mitchell's long fly got Kennedy home, but the Indians didn't get another run until the eighth.

There was a span of five innings, in fact, when the Indians could achieve only one hit off Chico, and that a fuzzy single by Easter that dropped over Mickey Vernon's head in the sixth inning. A couple of fancy catches by Irv Noren in centerfield didn't hurt him, either.

Suddenly, in the eighth, the Indians put the tying runs on base with none out when Mitchell and Pinchhitter Bob Lemon banged consecutive singles to center. Doby's long fly to Stewart moved Mitchell to third, and Rosen's fly to Coan scored him, but Michaels got Marrero out of the inning with a one-hand grab of Easter's soft liner.

Garcia was forced out of the game in the Nats' eighth when he

Nats Shuffle Cuban Cast— Martinez Goes Back

The Nats' Cuban cast was given a quick shuffle yesterday. Pitcher Rogelio Martinez's one-week career with the Nats came to an end, and a replacement is being rushed from Havana—another pitcher named Jesus Moreno.

Martinez made one start for the Nats and failed to last out the first inning. He was handicapped by an injured knee. He goes back to Havana. Moreno, too, is a righthander who is recommended by his 9-1 record with the Nats' Havana farm in the Class B Florida-International League.

Wolfe Wins, Franklin Out Of Tourney

Special to The Washington Post

Denver, July 21—Billy Wolfe, lone survivor of seven D. C. area standard bearers, stormed into the semifinals of the National Junior Golf Tournament here today with two hard-fought victories.

Ousted in convincing fashion was Ellsworth Franklin, Dahlgren, Va., who dropped an 8-7 decision in the fourth round qualifying for the quarterfinals to Mason Rudolph, Clarksville, Tenn., runnerup in last year's National.

Wolfe, pride of Devitt Prep and a seasoned youngster, put away Eddie Merrins, Mississippi State champ, 2-1, to gain the quarterfinals.

Billy came back to beat little Joe Ginsberg, 1 up. Ginsberg, from Philadelphia, sprang the surprise of the tourney in the third round when he defeated heavily favored John Brown, Lexington, Ky.

Wolfe's defeat of Ginsberg established the Silver Spring lad as a strong title threat. Most serious contender, perhaps is Mason Rudolph, conqueror of Ellsworth Franklin.

Rudolph came back to beat John Winters, Tulsa, by a comfortable 5-4 margin.

Rudolph, forced to play extra holes in two of his previous three matches, didn't fool around against Franklin. He outclassed the Virginia completely on the greens, winning six of the first nine holes with men's par scores.

The other double winners who join Wolfe and Rudolph in tomorrow's semifinals include Eugene Hay, Atlanta, and Charles Beville, Los Angeles.

Hay knocked out Donald Bisplinghoff, Orlando, Fla., 4 and 3, and Beville defeated Elwood Poore, Frazer, Pa., 3 and 2.

Bosox Pound Browns, 7-4

Boston, July 21 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox pounded out 12 hits, including homers by Dom DiMaggio and Birdie Tebbetts, while gaining their eleventh win in 12 starts aganst the St. Louis Browns tonight by a 7-4 margin. The Sockers had to use three pitchers, running up a hurling total of 31 for their last 11 home games.

Alexander, Ferrier Tie At St. Paul

St. Paul, Minn., July 21 (AP).—A 2-foot putt that refused to drop today threw Jim Ferrier of San Francisco into a tie with Skip Alexander of Knoxville, Tenn., for the leadership at the halfway mark in the St. Paul $15,000 Open Golf Tournament today. Both had 136s, eight strokes under par, for the two 18-hole rounds.

The recalcitrant putt came on the eighteenth hole of today's round. Ferrier, who started the day seven under par with a 65 in the first round, was on the green in three with what appeared to be a certain birdie on the par five hole.

But the ball rolled three-quarters of the way around the rim of the cup and six inches off into the grass.

One stroke behind Ferrier and Alexander with 137s were Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., and Henry Ransom of St. Andrews, Ill. Both carded 70s today to go with first round 67s.

Miche Given Chance With 20-Lb. Pull

Inglewood, Calif., July 21 (AP).—Four rival owners mustered enough courage today to send their favorite race horses out against the Irish horse, Noor, in the $50,000 American Handicap at Hollywood Park tomorrow.

The lineup for the mile and one quarter fixture which winds up Hollywood's 20-day summer meeting will read like this, barring late scratches:

Mrs. Charles S. Howard's Noor, Mrs. John P. Adams' Miche, Frank Frankel's Frankly, the Silver Creek Ranch's Dharan and Clifford Mooers' Old Rockport.

The Noor faction doesn't think it requires unusual nerve to go against its dark brown terror, however, because Noor will concede 20 pounds to his most dangerous challenger, Miche; 22 pounds to Old Rockport; 25 pounds to Frankly, and 30 pounds to Dharan.

Most Feared Handicapper

That's a lot of weight to give away, and the most Noor has ever been asked to pack in this country.

But he's the big horse of the race, four times winner over Citation—three of them with varying weight advantages, by the way—and today he is doubtless the most feared horse in the handicap division.

Noor has raced an even dozen times since he began a meteoric rise in America last October at Bay Meadows in northern California. He has won $205,690 with five victories, two seconds and three thirds and he has set two world records along the way.

The last was when he whipped Citation by three lengths at a mile and one quarter in 1:58 1/5 at Golden Gate Park, carrying 127 pounds to Citation's 126 on June 24.

The American will be Noor's final race in California. He's booked for two weight-for-age races in New York—possibly hooking up again with Citation—and then will be retired to stud.

Cantwell TopsGoldCup Qualifiers

By Happy Walker

Detroit, July 21—Bill Cantrell showed little effects from his nearly disastrous spill Wednesday and led all qualifiers today for the forty-third annual Gold Cup speedboat classic.

Cantrell paced the seven who passed the elimination test by wheeling Horace Dodge's My Sweetie at 89.108 m.p.h. It was in Dodge's Delphine X that Cantrell cracked up.

There still was talk that Cantrell would be replaced tomorrow by Lou Fageol when the gruelling 90-mile speed test begins.

First of three 30-mile heats will be contested at 2 p. m. The crack field goes again twice on Sunday with the heats scheduled to get under way at 3 and 4:30 p. m.

Slo-Mo-Shun, fabulous West Coast entry, that holds the world's record was closed at 87.42 m.p.h. with Driver Ted Jones obviously taking it easy.

The other qualifiers included Dee Jay V, owned by Daniel J. Murphy, Merion, Pa., and driven by Murphy Miller, 75.48 m.p.h.; Such Crust II, owned by Jack Schafer and wheeled by Danny Arena, frequent Gold Cup winner, 69.58; The Etta, owned and driven by George Sarant, Freeport, Long Island, 67.13 m.p.h., and Blitz III, owned by Robert P. Bogie, Saranac Lake, N. Y., 68.58 m.p.m.

Final qualifier was Guy Lombardo, who drove his Tempo IV at 7105 m.p.h.

Marshall Sets Record Again

Seattle, July 21 (AP).—John Marshall, the Australian swimming for the New Haven (Conn.) Swimming Club, beat the world record for the mile swim for the second straight day today in the AAU men's outdoor swimming championships. At the same time he left a trail of seven shattered American marks.

Another New Haven star, Jimmy McLane, clipped two-tenths of a second off the American record in the 220-yard freestyle final.

His winning time of 2:10.5 compared to the 1942 record of 2:10.7 set by Bill Smith of Ohio State.

Marshall's time today was 20:08.6, compared to his record effort of 20:09.6 in yesterday's preliminary.

Other marks he bettered today on his road to the mile title were 6:02.9 for 550 yards; 11:16.1 for 1000 yards; 12:22.2 for 1000 meters, and 15:01.2 for 1320 yards.

Combined Southern Maryland Horse Show Starts Today

By Harry de Mawby, jr.

The two-day combined Southern Maryland horse show opens at 10 a. m. today at the Marlboro Fair Grounds, Upper Marlboro.

Replacing the old Southern Maryland Agricultural Fair Association's annual show at the Marlboro race track, this year's show is sponsored by seven horse show organizations as well as the Southern Maryland Horse Breeders Association.

Today's exhibitions will be for the junior talent with divisions for ponies, junior mounts and students classes. Twenty classes are listed for the all-day first session with the ponies getting under way in the morning events.

Though post entries will be accepted, many of the top young exhibitors in the area have already recorded their entries including Mrs. W. Graham Boyce's Honey Bee and Smokey Joe; Jacklyn Ewing's Moonbeam, and Little Archie; Charles Gartrell's Birthday Party, Carol Barber's Snap Shot; Todd Gore's That's It; Sandra Scarf's Black Satin and Flamingo; Betty Nanz Dick Seniah, and Irvin Naylor's Tar Heel from Maryland stables.

The Virginia contingent is headlined by Fox Hollow Stable's Westwind; Toni Brewer's Stinker; Douglas Redgrave's Gypsie; Nancy and Susan Solomon's Peppermint, Modern Tempo and Acorn; Anne Cormack's Zero Hour; Nelson Berry's Pinocchio, and John S. Armstrong's Precocious Miss.

District entries include Sally Blauner's Three's a Crowd; Joe Smith's Flick; Frances Hill's Bruce for the junior events with Dr. John Keeler's Wood Secret; Avon Shockey's Red Knight; Gardner Hallman's Gray Lark; Benny Counselman's Dutchess; Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Burn's Irish Chap, and Claude Owen's Skys Shadow taking over in the second session of hunter and jumper events on Sunday.

Other prominent entries for the combined affair include Dorothy Fred's P. D. Q. and Plaid Umber from Middleburg, Va.; Donald Snelling's Pretender, Fredericksburg, Va.; Charles Carrico's Sea Puss and Refrain, Potomac, Md.; Skippy and Jerry Diehlman's Cecelia D., Playboy and Steel Rock, Catonsville, Md.; Cheerie McKee's Crackerjack, Silver Spring, Md., and Ray Norton Jr.'s Harkaway Lass, Bethesda, Md.

The Sunday session of breeding classes, conformation and working hunter, open jumping, and five-gaited saddle horse divisions will also start its 21-class schedule at 10:00 a. m.

Card Leads Virginia Open

Danville, Va., July 21 (AP).—Tommy Card of Charlottesville, playing in his first Virginia Open Golf Tournament, jumped into the opening day lead here today with a 1-over-par 71.

He led Fred Main, unattached Danville pro, and George Fulton of Roanoke by a single stroke.

Tied next with 73's were Lieut. Jack Colter of Norfolk, who received orders yesterday to return to the Marines Monday; Art Patton of Hampton and Joe Cannon, who succeeded Art Derring as pro at the Farmington Country Club near Charlottesville.

Defending Champion Jack Isaacs of Langley Field slipped to a 74 after firing warm-up rounds of 68 and 67 on the two preceding days.

He grinned, "I'm just not hitting 'em—don't blame it on the weather." He missed three successive putts of less than five feet.

Marrero Avenges Tribe Losses, 3-2

twisted his ankle in a futile dash for Marrero's foul bunt with two out and Grasso on base with his single to left. Marino Pieretti took over with a 3-2 count on Marrero, walked him and then Yost to fill the bases, but got rid of Coan on a long fly to Kennedy.

In the Cleveland ninth, Chico found a couple of willing helpers in Sam Dente and Cass Michaels. Dente scooped up Boudreau's grounder on a bad hop for the first out, and Michaels got rid of Kennedy for him by racing into short right center for another one-hand grab of a soft line drive.

Marrero was one pitch away from his victory when he had a 2-1 count on Pinchhitter Ray Murray in that ninth, only to be forced back to work again when Murray singled to center. Now he was confronte dwith Pinchhitter Early Wynn, and wanting no trouble from Wynn he struck him out.

IN SHORT—Jackie Price, the funniest baseball clown in the business, will perform for the crowd at 8 o'clock tonight preceding the second game of the series . . . The best tribute to Price is that his greatest admirers are the ball players, who marvel at the things he does with a baseball . . . Chico Marrero blew his top, in Spanish, when Umpire Jim Honochick refused to give him a third strike against Dale Mitchell in the second inning with men on second and third. It was Chico's first display of temper . . . Those two former pals on the Nats' pitching staff, Early Wynn and Sid Hudson, will duel each other tonight.

Nevada Coach Defies 'Fire' Threat To Run for Board

Reno, Nev., July 21 (U.P.).—University of Nevada's football coach, Joe Sheeketski, refused today to obey a demand by a member of the school's board of regents that he withdraw his candidacy for the board or be fired.

Sheeketski has been coach here since 1947.

Albert Hilliard, prominent Reno attorney and a long-time member of the board, demanded Sheeketski's unconditional resignation if he persisted in his race for the regency.

"Sheeketski is setting a dangerous precedent," Hilliard said.

He said he planned to take steps to secure the coach's resignation at the August meeting of the regents. Hilliard voiced the fear that if this precedent were established, the administrations of major schools would be forced to "knuckle under to athletic dictatorships."

Old Dominion Boat Club Races At Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Pa., July 21 (AP).—The Old Dominion Boat Club of Virginia will be among 70 crews competing in the National rowing championships here tomorrow.

The Old Dominion Club won its class championship in the Peoples Regatta here over Independence Day. Coach Julian Whitestone is of the opinion that a couple of his boys could win honors in this weekend's action.

"Chief competion is expected to come from the Vesper Club of this city.

Ted Schroeder, Hart Advance

Chicago, July 21 (AP).—Seeded stars were in form today in a busy session which reduced the National Clay Courts tennis tourney to quarterfinal size in the men's singles and semifinal stage among the women.

Top seeded Ted Schroeder of La Crescenta, Calif., scored easy wins over Bob Perry of Los Angeles, 6—4, 6—3, and Bernard Schreiber, Miami, Fla., 6—1, 6—1.

In the women's singles, No. 1 seeded Doris Hart of Jacksonville, defeated Althea Gibson from Tallahassee, Fla., 6—2, 6—3, after spanking Jean Doyle of San Diego, Calif., 6—0, 6—1.

Other men's favorites to gain tomorrow's quaterfinal round included second-seeded Art Larsen, San Leandro, Calif.; third-seeder Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif.; the top foreign entry, Tony Mottram of England, and 19-year-old Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, sixth-seeded.

Miss Hart's semi-final opponent tomorrow will be Beverly Baker of Toluca Lake, Calif.

Heurich's Loses To Naiman's

Naiman's knocked Heurich's Brewers out of undisputed first place in The Washington Post-Industrial League, defeating the Brewers, 8-4, yesterday on the Ellipse. Heurich has won four games and lost one and is tied with Cameo for the top spot.

Don Dunnington paced Naiman's to its first victory in six league starts, rapping out two doubles and a single.

One on the Aisle—

Burt Lancaster—An Unmade Bed

By Richard L. Coe

SOME THINGS FOR THE GIRLS: Burt Lancaster, looking, I'm pleased to say, like an unmade bed, was around town yesterday covering the Pentagon, the Carlton, the Mall and the Warner.

His main interest, natch, was how the company he and Producer Harold Hecht have formed as Norma Productions was doing with "The Flame and the Arrow." Screened in advance last night, this derring-do proved a whiz bang that I heartily recommend once it opens officially next week at the Warner.

A slight touch of drayma is added by the fact that 10 years ago, as a young man in his early twenties, Burt was part of an acrobatic act playing the Warner (then the Earle) called "The Three Toppers." They were in the FDR presidential birthday shind-digs along with the headliner, Red Skelton.

Burt walked into spoken drayma ("Lancaster Speaks!"), right after he got out of the Army, in "The Sound of Hunting," Harry Brown's drama about Cassino. He was grabbed instantly by Hollywood, proved smart enough to form his own company which now wants to make "The Naked and the Dead," not necessarily with Burt. Norman Mailer's novel was what Burt was talking about at the Pentagon yesterday, but what it's connection with the book is I haven't the foggiest, but then on "Stars and Stripes" I never did understand the Army.

Burt and his longtime partner, Nick Cravat, who was, alas, asleep, are on one of those cross-country personal appearance junkets. Today they'll be in Albany, tomorrow watching the Tigers and the Yanks in New York and, if they're smart, will wind up the day in Tallulah's pool in Westchester. They've hit 18 cities so far.

Hence, when Burt marched in to meet the press and radio softies, his beard was unshorn and his hair innocent of combing. This made him look the way you might expect him to after the thugs he's played—thugs with hearts of gold, of course, just guys off the course.

Yesterday afternoon he and Nick did one of their acrobatic tricks down on the Mall just to prove they do it without doubles. They offer money to whoever proves they don't.

They'd have done it last night at the Warner, except that union regulations demanded that had they struck a pole in stage center at the Warner, 16 musicians and six stage hands would have had to be paid. This was too much for the Warner's George Crouch and you can't blame him.

Anyway, girls, Burt's quite a lad, direct, friendly in an acid sort of way, tall, bushy-haired, blue-eyed. No wonder he's the hottest male to hit movies since we all began getting out of the ahmed farces.

HARRY RUBY, whose baseball proclivities were wondrously described yesterday by Shirley Povich, is an interesting guy to have lunch with. . . . On the theater side he's got all sorts of memories about the people who were in the musicals he and Bert Kalmar wrote. . . . Helen Kane, who sang "I Wanna Be Loved By You" in "Good Boy" with Eddie Buzzell, now a Hollywood director, made up those boop-oop-a-doops and he gives her a lot of credit for its success; you'll watch a Kane facsimile do the number in the Ruby musical biography, "Three Little Words." . . . But, as Harry says, "my career as a songwriter always has been secondary to my hobby of baseball."

LEON GOOSSENS of England's famed musical family, played Wednesday night at the Watergate and this very afternoon will be playing a new Vaughn-Williams oboe concerto at Hampton Court, London . . . His quick trip, almost complicated by rain, found him in London one Saturday, here in midweek, back as a London soloist today . . . The celebrated oboist got his interest in the haunting instrument by obeying his father Eugene's advice, when the latter was conductor for the San Rosa Opera Co.: "Listen to the oboe, son," he used to say, "it's a beautiful instrument." . . . It turned him into the world's most honored oboist and the first thing he's going to do in England, after looking over his cattle farm, is to record a concerto, whose only other recording, he discovered over here, only coincides with the original score in notes the disc soloist happened to be able to play.

R. C. SHERRIFF, author of the Olney's current comedy, "Miss Mabel" hasn't been exactly loafing since he wrote "Journey's End" when he was 32, a quarter of a century ago . . . He's done a lot of screen plays. "Four Feathers," "One More River," "The Invisible Man" and collaboration on "Goodbye, Mr. Chips, among them. . . . Sherriff lives placidly in Sussex where he wrote, with Jeanne de Casalis, "St. Helena," Maurice Evans' first solo-starring vehicle, and several novels.

JACQUES RINGLER, a smooth Negro actor who's proud of his bass, will be playing phaorah a week from last night at the Griffith Stadum production of "The Ordering of Moses," originally an oratorio of Dett, now transformed into a theatrical production for the National Negro Opera Co. . . . "I'm always a villain," remarks Ringler, who's just finished a year's run in "The Blackguard" at Hollywood's Gateway Theater . . . Also in the cast of this will be John Tate, who appeared recently in "Tobacco Road" and "Anna Lucasta" at the Howard and who has a role in Paul Green's "Faith of Our Fathers."

THE MEN OF ST. JOHN'S, the fathers' booster club of St. John's College, the Roman Catholic High School, is currently having its second annual carnival at Airlie, site of the new school, 27th and Military Rd. . . . There's a drawing on the final night—a week from tonight—for a 1950 Chevy and, because it was plotted long before the Korean episode, is something can be indulged in without fear of upsetting the national economy.

A COLUMBIA publicity man (whose last name begins with Z) contributes this anecdote about the theater manager whose movies didn't seem to be pulling in the crowds . . . "Hadn't you heard," someone asked him, "people are smarter than ever?"

British Accuse Soviets of Helping Suspect to Escape

London, July 21 (U.P.).—The Foreign Office today accused Russia of aiding the escape of a Pole wanted in the murder of a cafe proprietor.

A spokesman said it had asked the Soviets to explain the circumstances in which Eugeniusz Stafanowicz was taken from the Soviet liner Sestronesk, bound for Stockholm, by a Soviet tug. At Stockholm, he said, the Pole would have been extradited to England.

The Foreign Office said the Pole escaped when he fled England July 15 with a repatriation certificate for Lithuania issued by the Soviet Embassy.

Dupont's 'D.O.A.'

And, by Golly, This Is Dead On Arrival

Although some of my best friends are notary publics, "D.O.A." is not my dish. The new arrival at the Dupont is dull and tasteless.

The story concerns a notary public who is marked "Dead on Arrival" at the Los Angeles police station. He can talk before expiring from iridium poison and the story he tells has to do with a paper he witnessed some time back. It was a crooked deal and he's spent the last hours of his life tracking down the details and been murdered in the process.

The reason I was so bitterly impatient with the picture was the notion that the hero was one against the world. He wouldn't, like so many movie heroes, dream of calling in the cops to help him out. He behaves throughout like an idiot child and, frankly, idiot children bore me.

There are some tasteless moments as the hero's virility is established—he can't resist mooching over a pretty girl. There's also a den of bepop, at least I suppose that's what it is, and the musical background by Dimitri Tiomkin is something I never want to hear again.

Edmond O'Brien, Pamela Britton, Luther Adler and William Ching are among the performers in this morass, about which, surely, you will gain nothing from further discussion. R. L. C.

"D.O.A." United Artists release produced by Leo C. Popkin. Story and screen play by Russell Rouse and Clarence Greene. Music written and directed by Dimitri Tiomkin. Directed by Rudy Mate. At the Dupont.

Civil Service Drafts Plans to Cover All Phases of War Work

War plans covering all phases of Federal employment are being drafted by the Civil Service Commission. They will be sent to the President for any use he may care to make of them.

The plans, subject to war developments, discuss steps the commission now has the power to take if they become necessary. They cover these possibilities:

1. An intelligent draft policy covering Federal workers;

2. A job freeze on employes in vital jobs by prohibiting their transfer to less essential Government jobs unless the employes involved have the approval of both their agencies and the Civil Service Commission;

3. A return to a "war service" system of appointments for all Federal agencies, and the suspension of permanent appointments for the duration after the covering-in of thousands of war service and temporary employes who have served for several years and who have good work records;

4. A program to develop and "draft" executives to operate new war activities;

5. Working hours, leave policies, and wages also will be discussed by the commission in its war plans.

Meantime, a group of Federal officials are working on a draft policy. The general objective of the plan is to exempt from military service those employes in critical jobs, or in vital jobs where shortages might develop if the Korean war worsens.

Civil Service, it was learned, is compiling a list of essential jobs where there are actual or threatened shortages.

An unsettled question is whether a Government-wide committee such as was operated during World War II should be set up to pass on deferments of Federal employes.

The officials hope that a better job will be done on deferments than during World War II. Many employes were drafted then who could have been more useful to the Nation in civilian jobs. Also, some persons who were deferred over their objections were called slackers and were fired a few years later.

A policy on the calling into active service of reservists who are in key Federal jobs also is being discussed. Hundreds of top Government officials and sub-officials are reserve members. A score of agencies would be stripped of administrative talent if they are all called into active service. What to do? That's the problem.

NAVAL GUN FACTORY: It's changing commanding officers. Admiral Frank G. Fahrion is being assigned to command a destroyer fleet. His aide, Lieut. Comdr. Henry Allendorfer, will be given command of a destroyer. Fahrion is popular with the employes at Washington's largest industrial plant. He has always made it a point to discuss plans in advance with employe leaders before any important action is taken. Also, he frequently talks with all of his employes via loudspeaker.

Admiral B. H. Hanlon, who is assigned to the Naval Ordnance Laboratory at nearby White Oak, Md., will replace Fahrion. Lieut. Comdr. T. S. McCrory, also at White Oak, will replace Allendorfer.

The Senate Armed Services Committee revised its bill to tighten personnel security measures in key Government agencies yesterday to give suspended employes the right to appeal and transfer.

As approved by the committee Thursday, the bill would authorize the summary firing of employes judged to be poor security risks.

At the motion of Senator Leverett Saltonstall, (R., Mass.), the committee reconsidered the legislation and adopted an amendment giving discharged employes the right to appeal to the Civil Service Commission and apply for transfer to "non-sensitive" agencies.

Saltonstall said the new provision was meant to cover such cases as employes "who are perfectly all right but who simply talk too much."

"They could not be employed in a vital agency, but there is no reason why they shouldn't work for non-sensitive agencies," he said.

Pimple Gang Triggerman Convicted

Two Others Cleared In Union Holdup With 2d Robbery Charge Coming Up

The triggerman of the "Pimple Faced Gang," Wilmer D. Campbell, 22, was convicted in District Court yesterday of the $1500 March holdup of the Sheet Metal Workers Union, 1701 K st. nw.

The jury acquitted Joseph C. Danner, 26, of 1208 Evarts st., ne., described during the trial as the "brains of the gang" by Assistant United States Attorney C. Frank Reifsnyder. Byron E. Heslop, 22, of 4800 68th ave., Defense Heights, Md., described by Reifsnyder as the "lookout," also was acquitted.

Campbell, who police say served a 1-to-10-year sentence for robbery in Wisconsin, and Danner were committed to jail. They still face charges of robbery in connection with a $350 holdup in April of the Fruit Growers Express Co., 1101 Vermont ave. nw.

Police officers testified that all three had confessed to the March holdup, but each repudiated any confession at the trial.

Campbell defended himself during the three-day trial. He said that he had been beaten and threatened by "cops," and denied the testimony of juvenile accomplices that he was carrying two automaties during the holdup.

Campbell and his accomplices posed as job-seekers when they entered union headquarters and questioned union official Howard Cash, 42, of 2264 13th st. nw., about apprenticeship openings. Cash was alone in the office just before 4 p. m., when the youths entered.

Two juvenile members of the gang have been tried in Juvenile Court.

The jury deliberated only 90 minutes, before returning a verdict to Judge James R. Kirkland.

Heslop was represented by T. Edward O'Connell and John Diamond, and Danner was represented by Sol Lichtenberg.

False Nose Bandits Draw Jail Terms

Two "false-nose bandits" drew stiff jail sentences from District Court Judge James R. Kirkland yesterday, after pleading guilty to three armed robberies.

William P. Plumley, 26, Capitol Heights, Md., was sentenced to serve from two to 10 years.

Harris Lovett, 27, was given a four-to-12-year jail term.

They admitted holding up a Northeast liquor store in April, getting $323, a Southeast theater three weeks later getting more than $800, and an automobile finance company May 15, getting $2055.

Judge Kirkland also sentenced Peggy E. Taylor, 40, former cashier-clerk at the Middle Atlantic States Motor Carrier Conference, Inc., to serve from five to 30 months in jail for embezzling more than $1700 from the company from October, 1948, to August, 1949.

Legion Cites Sports Editor . . .

The Washington Post

HONORED—Bus Ham, The Post's sports editor, (left) receives a citation as "Citizen of the Month" for June from Charles K. Dunn, department commander, D. C. Department of the American Legion. The presentation was made at last night's session of the legion convention at the Shoreham Hotel

D. C. Legion Calls for End Of Veterans Act Abuses

Resolution Demands Action by Congress; Four Nominated For Commander

By Jean Reiff
Post Reporter

The D. C. Department of the American Legion voted last night for an amendment to the Veterans Preference Act, which would prevent abuses they claim now exist.

Charging the provisions of the act have been circumvented by subterfuge, and that veterans have been unlawfully discharged or ignored in promotions in Government agencies, the Department, at its thirty-second annual convention in the Shoreham Hotel, resolved:

That prompt action be taken by Congress to amend the act, eliminating the current abuses, and that Congress stress that all persons in the Federal or District Government, who violate the law, be dismissed if found guilty after a proper hearing.

To Be Sent to Congress

Copies of the resolution will be forwarded to all members of Congress, all department commanders throughout the country, and to the upcoming American Legion national convention in Los Angeles.

By majority vote of delegates, the Department also resolved:

1. To request the National Convention to oppose the Klein bill, which would change the present law, whereby veterans are retained over non-veterans when there is a reduction in forces in Government agencies.

2. To affirm the stand taken by the United Nations in the Korean situation.

3. To recommend to Congress a higher dependency allowance in the income tax law, because "food, clothing and shelter are extremely high and there is no relief in sight."

4. To request the Board of Public Welfare and District Commissioners to seek more adequate funds in the board's 1952 budget requests to better care for the needy.

5. To request President Truman and the Secretary of Defense to change the date of Armed Forces Day from the latter part of May, because it is too near Memorial Day, which interferes with the proper celebration of Armed Forces Day.

6. To set up an award to be presented annually to the District employer who has done the most during the year to help veterans.

Four Nominated

With election of officers scheduled for tonight, four men were nominated last night for the top post of commander. They are:

Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant 3d, vice president of George Washington University and a member of the Costello Post; Walter Lee Morgan, jr., a controller at the World Bank and a member of the Kenna-Main Post; Gail T. Judd, retired Government employe and a member of Henry C. Spengler Post, and John J. McGinty, a Department of Justice attorney and a member of the Department of Justice Post.

Nicholas Nonnenmaker, retired Air Forces major and staff member of the Legion's Americanism Commission, called on every Legion member to keep in mind: "What am I doing to prevent the spread of world communism?"

He described communism as a complete philosophy of life, which cannot be stopped by military force but only by a greater philosophy.

Department Commander Charles K. Dunn presented Bus Ham, sports editor of The Washington Post, with the June "Citizen of the Month" citation and a medal for his leadership in civic life here through his work on the Celebrities Golf Tournament.

Silver and bronze meritorious service medals were presented to 10 Legion members, while trophies wen to 10 posts for their outstanding success in getting more members.

Boys' Nation Sets Fast Pace In Government

By S. L. Fishbein
Post Reporter

The American Legion's fifth annual Boys Nation, out to teach 86 boys the political facts of life, got off to a quick start yesterday.

Representing 44 States, the boys gathered in the Fort Myer gym where a big blue-and-yellow banner reminded them that the finest men choose the Army for a career.

They were picked from about 20,000 youngsters who took part in American Legion State boys sessions earlier this summer. As President Paul Douglass of American University put it in his keynote address, the Legion was trying to "open a door to men of ability to prepare themselves for leadership."

Form Parties, Elect Senate

The boys got right to work. They split into Nationalist and Federalist Parties, formed a Senate, elected party chairmen, chairmen of the agriculture and judiciary committees, and a president pro tem.

The boys were young, averaging about 17 and learned fast.

The Federalists picked Robert Drake Canada, a smooth-talking, 18-year-old Floridian, to manage their political fortunes. Canada handled the ensuing caucus like he owned it.

Fielding DeLisle Potashnick, a soft-spoken Missourian who was chosen party chairman of the Nationalists, had a little rougher going.

In his pep talk, Potashnick said, "the only thing we're here for as Nationalists is to get more Nationalists into office. Whoever we nominate, let's all get behind him."

Idealist Wants Best Man

That didn't sit too well with Rodney Block, 17, of Orlando, Fla., a political idealist, who said, "I don't think the chairman or anyone else should tell us all to vote for anybody. We ought to vote for the best man."

The boys will discuss and take a vote on the Brannan plan vs. the price-support program now in effect, and on an anti-subversive bill.

In hearings held last night, the agriculture committee (with the judiciary committee sitting in as guests, heard Senator George D. Aiken (R., Vt.), and Philip Aylesworth, assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture, testify on the agriculture programs.

Representing the Washington area in Boys' Nation was James F. Babcock, 17, of 6112 Meadow la., Bethesda; Jerome Pessagno, Baltimore; Raymond Perry, Danville, Va., and Jerry C. Murphy, of Norfolk, who was elected secretary of the Nationalist Party committee.

Today the boys will tour Washington, have a speech by House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.), and hold party conventions to pick candidates for boy president.

Uniform Lost

Two Firemen Fight Blaze in Father's Shop

Two Alexandria volunteer firemen rushed to a two-alarm blaze yesterday to find (a) it was in their father's store, and (b) a fireman's uniform belonging to one of them was part of it.

They are Henry Scott, president of No. 1 Fire Company and of the Virginia Firemen's Association; and his brother, Lester Scott, truck driver for Fire Company No. 4, who had left a uniform to be cleaned.

The fire started at about 10:30 a. m. in the Palace Cleaners, Prince and Royal sts., Alexandria, owned by Wilmer Scott.

The blaze, which swept through three floors of the plant, was under way when the plant had its normal complement of workers. Damage was estimated at $10,000.

Mrs. Bessie Harlow, 46, of Route 1 Alexandria, an employe, suffered possible injuries to the left arm and knee abrasions when she slipped and fell running from the building.

Alexandria Fire Chief Bernard J. Padgett said the fire started as a flash explosion in one of the tumblers used to soak clothes in cleaning fluid. He said a match in some clothing may have become ignited.

The blaze started in the basement, blew open a safety door on the first floor, spread rapidly through the first floor and leaped through a clothes shaft to the second floor.

Chief Padgett said that the fire was under control within 20 minutes after the first call. He said a large quantity of clothing was completely destroyed by the fire.

The three-story brick structure was the station for the Washington-Alexandria-Mount Vernon Railroad years ago.

Judge Sentences Drunks Without One Harsh Word

Justice was tempered with silence in drunk court yesterday.

Municipal Court Judge Frank H. Myers, whispering for the two days because of a throat infection, was literally speechless yesterday, on doctor's orders.

Judge Myers sentenced the day's collection of drunks by scribbling messages to his clerk, Edward Shipley. Sixty-four lock-up cases were processed in this silence and almost 30 bond cases.

Of the 12 Municipal Court judges, four are on vacation and one, Judge Walter J. Casey, is already on sick leave. Judge Myers told court officials he thought his presence in court was needed despite the condition of his throat.

Dope Suspect's Mercy Plea Turned Down

A man charged with selling narcotics pleaded for mercy at his arraignment yesterday, declaring he had been running in "bad company" since his wife left him three months ago.

Nonetheless, Herbert Hoover Hammond, 21, of 1117 Staples st. ne., was held by United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence in $1000 bond for action of the grand jury.

Hammond was arrested at 11:30 p. m., Thursday at 6th st. and Florida ave. nw., by Pvt. George Holcomb of the narcotics squad. Holcomb said he arrested Hammond after observing him pass something to another man.

According to police, Hammond resisted arrest at first, but was finally subdued and admitted to Holcomb he had sold the other man a capsule of heroin for $1. The other man escaped.

At the Thirteenth Precinct a search of Hammond's pockets yielded six more capsules of heroin, police said.

As Hammond was being booked, he suddenly wheeled and dashed out the station house door. Holcomb took after him and apprehended his man for the second time two blocks away.

Cool Weather To Tarry Here

That cool weather, which followed Thursday's heavy rain, probably will stay for the next few days.

The forecaster said it will be sunny today with the temperature in the low 80s.

Then he stuck his neck out a little farther and predicted that for the next five days the temperature will average from 2 to 5 degrees below normal throughout the middle Atlantic area.

For Washington specifically, where the normal runs between a low of 68 and a high of 86, the temperature will be 2 to 4 degrees lower, he said. Yesterday the high was 77 degrees at 4:50 p. m. and the low 65 at 6:40 a. m.

The thermometer may rise a little Sunday, but the weather will be somewhat cooler again Monday and Tuesday, becoming slightly warmer Wednesday.

So as not to spoil us with too perfect weather, the forecaster says we can expect showers late Sunday and early Monday.

Golfer's Victim Asks $100,000

A 12-year-old Hopewell, Va., boy asked District Court yesterday to award him $100,000 for damages suffered nine months ago when he was hit on the head by a golf ball.

Gerald Stokes sued the S. G. Loeffler Co., Inc., and the United States.

The boy was struck while walking near the golf course in the Fort Dupont Recreational Area. He suffered a cerebral concussion and a compound fracture of the skull, according to the suit.

The boy's father, Walter L. Stokes, asked for $3000.

Bigamy Case Is Continued

A continuance until September 1 was granted Gerald B. Wright yesterday in Marlboro Police Court for hearing of a bigamy charge filed by his wife, Mrs. Jean Dunn Wright.

Mother of Five

Daughter Of O'Connor Has Polio

Richmond, Va., July 21 (AP).—The daughter of Basil O'Connor, president of the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation, has been diagnosed as suffering from the disease her father has fought.

She is Mrs. Sidney Culver, 30, and mother of five. Mrs. Culver was brought by ambulance here yesterday afternoon from her Clarke County home in Northern Virginia. A definite diagnosis of polio was made last night.

Mrs. Culver was examined by Dr. Lee Sutton, the polio specialist of the Medical College of Virginia. At first it was reported a definite diagnosis could not be made until today, but later it was ascertained she had polio.

Virginia has not had an exceptional number of cases thus far this year, except in one southwest county, Wythe, lying in a mountainous, cattle raising area. There have been 41 cases in that county, including five deaths. The total for the State this year stands at 81.

No New Polio Reported In Area; Toll Is 45

There were no new cases of polio reported yesterday in the Washington area, Health Department authorities said.

Prince Georges County, however, officially added a case, brought into Children's Hospital Thursday, to its list, bringing the county's total to 8 thus far this year and the area total to 45.

The Prince Georges victim is 3-month-old Kathleen Pickens of 3109 Lanier pl., Hyattsville, Md., whose brother, Charles W. Pickens, jr., 7, died at the hospital early Thursday of bulbar polio.

Hospital officials said Kathleen has polio, but it has not yet been determined whether it is the more serious bulbar type. She was reported as running a fever yesterday but they said she was in "satisfactory" condition.

Funeral services for Charles will be held today at 2:30 p. m. at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Pickens have two other children, Judith, 6, and David, 2.

Leverenz Named Director of D. C. Cancer Society

Joseph W. Leverenz, 42, has been appointed executive director of the District of Columbia division of the American Cancer Society, effective August 1.

Leverenz had been with the American Red Cross since 1938 and now serves as deputy national director of personnel. Earlier he had served with the Cuyahoga County Juvenile Court and the Cuyahoga County Child Welfare Agency in Cleveland, Ohio. He holds a bachelor of arts degree from North Central College, Naperville, Ill., and a master of arts degree from Western Reserve University, Cleveland.

He resides with his wife and two children, Neil, 15, and Elaine, 5, at 3614 Oval dr., Alexandria.

Area Boy, 9, Loses One Arm, Breaks Other

A 9-year-old Herndon, Va., boy lost his left arm and fractured his right arm yesterday when he fell into a mowing machine he was operating with his brother on a neighbor's farm.

The victim, Joseph Legg, of Route 2, Herndon, was taken to Arlington Hospital in the McLean Fire Department ambulance for treatment and blood transfusions. His condition was serious.

His mother, Mrs. Graham T. Legg, gave this account of the accident:

Joseph and his older brother, Gibson, 17, were mowing the orchard of a seven-acre farm owned by D. E. Clark about 3 p. m. Gibson was driving the tractor, and Joseph was riding the "mowing board" on the mowing machine to "hold it down."

When Joseph lost his balance on the board, he pitched into the swirling blades of the mowing machine, which amputated his left arm below the elbow and fractured his right.

Mrs. Legg said Joseph, the youngest of her six children, attends the Forestville, Va., school. His father is a plumber's helper.

As doctors worked over her son, Mrs. Legg said he remained conscious and "talked to them" throughout the operation.

D. C. Military District Gets Safety Award

The Military District of Washington yesterday received the National Safety Council's annual "Award of Honor for Distinguished Service to Safety."

The award was formally presented to Maj. Gen. Thomas W. Herren, MDW commander, by Ned Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council.

MDW's 1949 record, which won the award, showed no fatalities in 48 million man-hours worked by civilians in 23 area installations. The period showed 139 injuries for civilians as compared with 121 injuries and one off-duty fatality for five million man-days worked by military personnel.

Most military accidents occurred during athletic events, while the major causes of accidents to civilians were improper lifting and handling, falls and striking against objects.

More than 75 soldiers in the area have been singled out for special safe-driver awards since MDW inaugurated a safe driver program last February.

Mrs. Rosenberg Named Symington Aide

Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, New York labor relations expert, yesterday was named special consultant on manpower problems to W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board.

During the last war, Mrs. Rosenberg was New York director for the War Manpower Commission and served also as secretary of the President's Labor Victory Board. From 1944 to 1947 she was a member of the Advisory Board of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion.

Zlotnick The Furrier Charged By FTC With False Advertising

The Federal Trade Commission yesterday issued a complaint charging Zlotnick the Furrier, Inc., with false representation in advertisements.

The corporation and its officers were given 20 days in which to answer the complaint, and a hearing on the charges was scheduled for September 12.

The FTC complaint said, among other things, that the firm's three Washington stores are not giving customers advertised savings of 43 to 56 percent "or any other sum approximating such stated percentage savings."

Furthermore, the FTC charges that despite advertised "liberal" trade-in allowances, the Zlotnick customer "is charged and pays for his own trade-in allowance," since the price of the merchandise is "raised to cover . . . the particular trade-in allowance given."

The FTC complaint referred to newspaper and radio advertisements. None of the advertisements in question appeared in The Washington Post.

Disputing other advertised claims, the FTC charges that garments offered for sale by Zlotnick are "in many cases" made of "old, damaged, obsolete or otherwise less valuable furs" with "some constituting old or discontinued styles."

Among other charges made by the FTC against the firm were that it sells the same garment to two or more purchasers, refuses to deliver merchandise unless it is paid for in full, removes all identifying marks from merchandise before delivery "so as to eliminate a purchaser's knowledge as to the exact garment that is being delivered."

Officers of the corporation cited in the complaint are Samuel D. Zlotnick, presidet; Sidney Zlotnick, treasurer, and Mrs. Renee Z. Kraft, secretary.

Samuel Zlotnick was unavailable for comment, and Sidney Zlotnick declined to comment.

C'mon Down and Take a Crack At Ringing the Liberty Bell!

Blows for liberty are being struck these days in Post Square.

The blows are being struck on the Liberty Bell, with resultant tintinnabulations reverberating within the square confines.

Nobody is doing anything about it, either, as The Washington Post learned yesterday when it dispatched a blow-striker who mounted the 13 steps of the District Building and pulled the bell cord. A few people turned to look, the traffic policeman at Fourteenth and the Avenue among them.

Big question is how long one will be permitted to continue striking that blow. Commissioner John Russell Young's office said the bell had been "pealing merrily all day long."

His secretary said it seemed to her an "irreverent action."

"I don't think they are supposed to be doing that," she added.

No one seems to know what will be done to stop the ringers, but the secretary suggested a rail to guard the bell.

Braden R. Fleming, acting superintendent of the District Building, whose function it would be to look after the bell, could not be reached for comment.

Rooming House Survey Begun In 6th Precinct; Curb on Again

A house-to-house survey is under way by police in the Sixth Precinct to determine which householders are renting out rooms.

Capt. John Agnew, precinct commander, said he ordered the survey on his own initiative because the District Commissioners' proclamation on wartime emergency housing expired July 1.

The proclamation temporarily set aside a zoning regulation that required rooming-house licenses for houses that furnished sleeping accommodations to more than four persons not of the family.

Agnew said he has not ordered the survey with the view of prosecuting persons who are renting rooms without a license. He said he wants to be in a position to know the conditions in his precinct if called upon by his superiors.

Police are charged with the enforcement of lodging, rooming, boarding and apartment-house regulations.

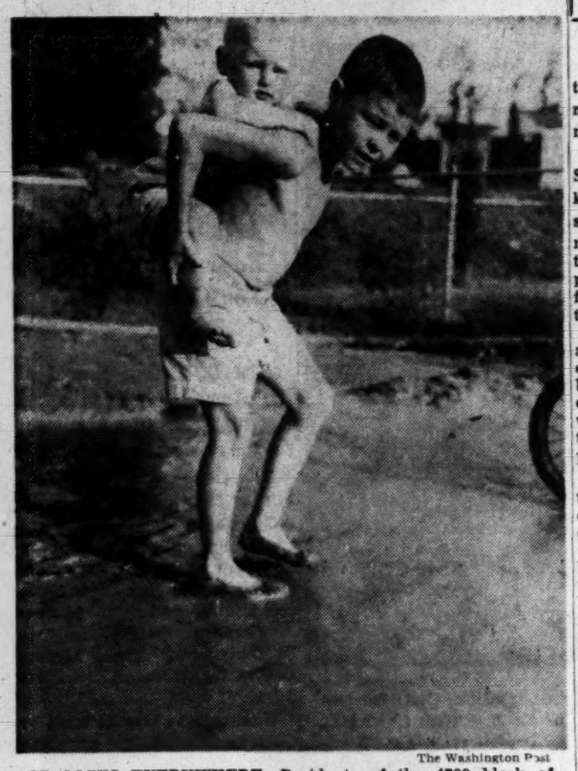
Invasion of Mud Irks Householders



The Washington Post

IT OOZES EVERYWHERE—Residents of the 4700 block of 70th pl., Woodlawn, Md., are up in arms because a nearby hillside turns their lawns into a sea of mud after rains. Raymond F. Acton, 8, of 4907 70th pl., has to carry his neighbor, Mitchell Hall, 18 months, across the lawn of his backyard

A sea of mud, steaming under the hot summer sun, exists in the backyard of the Woodlawn home of Raymond F. Acton where a few short weeks ago flourished a verdant lawn, trimmed with rose bushes.

Action, a veteran of the Battle of the Bluge, and several neighbors in the 4900 block of 70th place aren't happy over the recent mud settlement in their yards but they don't know just where to turn for relief.

The mud deposits began, they said, soon after builders developing two new adjoining projects found it necessary to scrape the turf from a nearby hillside. Rain now gushes down the hill and floods the yards with muddy silt, they said.

Acton's yard at 4907 70th place reminds him of the German prison camp in which he spent six months after capture in the Belgian Bulge.

Another veteran, Alfred Barsotti, who lives at 4903 70th place, said "It's just like being in the Philippines, except there are no rice paddies."

Elmer Hammond, of 4905 70th place, assistant chief deputy United States marshal at District Court, was another complainant.

Antonicelli's Conducting Sparkles

By Paul Hume

Italian Opera returned last night to represent the Italian government in the current Sesquicentennial concerts at the Watergate.

First, let us praise the National Symphony Orchestra under the knowledgeable conducting of Giuseppe Antonicelli. It is always a revelation to hear accompaniments to the opera tuns we know so well, play by a full symphony. The difference in rhythmic values and tone quality is a delight.

Antonicelli led the music with authority and ease. He introduced elements of novelty in overtures by Mascagni and Verdi, and a dance of Catalani. These moved well, but needed more rehearsal to bring out their full content.

Really a Life-saver

In the accompaniments to the three singers, Antonicelli was not only sympathetic, but often a literal life-saver.

Herva Nelli was the soprano. Her clear, cool voice has no trouble in negotiating music by Verdi, Puccini, and the other famous names in opera. Her tone is pure, her shading correct, her line good. But none of her singing has the warmth of feeling that must be there if it is to move the listener.

Miss Nelli is correct, but that is not enough for opera.

She could learn much from Cesare Bardelli, the baritone. Bardelli handles his voice with sure control, big style, fire, and effect. His Pagliacci Prologue was a little formal, compared to the gay costume he usually wears in the role. But his account of Gerard's aria from Andrea Chenier was thrilling in its virility and emotional wallop.

Finest of the Night

And in the duet from the last act of Trovatore, he and Nelli brought out the finest fire of the night. That fire came largely from Barrdelli's voice.

The tenor was Antonio Madasi. We have heard Madasi before but last night he showed up poorly. He has a handsome voice with big high notes, and lovely soft work. But he does not know the music he is supposed to sing. The conductor had to prompt him on words, tell him when to come in, and frequently put his hand on Madasi's shoulder so the tenor would wait for the orchestra to catch up to him.

He almost spoiled the Butterfly duet with Nelli, and in many ways showed himself not yet ready for the public stage. What good is a great voice without the knowledge of what to do with it?

Sunday night: Washington Night, with Evelyn Swarthout, Jacob Barkin, the Sesquicentennial Chorus, and Conductors Howard Mitchell and Paul Callaway.

Hospital Receives an 'Inaugural' Check...

Charles Del Vecchio—The Washington Post

Doctors Here Hit Vaccine for Tuberculosis

Mass BCG vaccination such as conducted abroad is an emergency measure not now suitable for use in the United States, two doctors of the United States Public Health Service here report.

Dr. Robert J. Anderson, medical director of the division of tuberculosis, and Dr. Carroll E. Palmer, medical director of the field studies branch, give their findings in the current Journal of the American Medical Association.

BCG vaccine is a preparation of bovine tuberculosis bacilli. While its use abroad under emergency conditions is "understandable," the doctors report, they cannot view this as an argument to be "blithely accepted" for widespread use of BCG in this country.

"It must be recognized that we have a woefully incomplete knowledge of just what it is that is being used as BCG," the doctors say.

Technical difficulties in standardizing the vaccine remain to be overcome, the article claims. Little uniformity exists in the number of living organisms in the several vaccines now being produced, it says bacteriologists have reported.

"If liquid BCG vaccine were licensed today," the Public Health Service doctors wrote, "it would be the most unstable vaccine so licensed in the United States."

City's Appeal Of Annexation Case Unsure

By Don Olesen
Post Reporter

The spot survey of eight of the nine Falls Church City councilmen last night threw some doubt on whether the city will appeal the annexation suit it lost Thursday.

Of those polled, four favored an immediate appeal, three wanted time to think it over, and one declined comment. The ninth could not be reached.

The Falls Church petition to annex 10.75 square miles of adjoining Fairfax County was rejected by three annexation judges in Fairfax Circuit Court.

After the ruling was handed down, Councilman Samuel E. McCrary predicted that the city would "appeal immediately."

The eight councilmen lined up this way when asked if they favor carrying an appeal to the Virginia Supreme Court:

For the appeal: Councilmen J. C. McRae, J. H. McCarthy, Samuel E. McCrary, and Councilwoman Mrs. Jeannette Mayer.

Undecided until they consider the matter further: Lee M. Rhoads, Karl Anderson, Sherman Wells.

"No comment" at this time: Councilman James Durant. Councilman Carl Hink could not be reached.

All council members agreed the issue probably will be thrashed out at a City Council meeting at 8 o'clock Monday night.

Mayor Albert M. Orme said the Fairfax Court decision should not affect the city's operation. There will be no layoffs of city employes, Orme said, "because we had added none in anticipation of annexation."

Falls Church City Manager Roy Dunn pointed out that the city's budget "has already been made up for the year" without any provision for a possible annexation. Even if city had won its case, he said, the annexation would not have become effective until next January 1.

On the Fairfax side, C. B. Runyon, a member of the county board of supervisors, said that body would not meet again until August 2. If Falls Church decides to appeal, "we'll just have to consider that when it comes up," Runyon said.

Maryland U. Appointments Announced

Dr. Joseph M. Ray yesterday was named dean of the College of Special and Continuation Studies at the University of Maryland.

Dr. Ray

He will be succeeded as head of the university's department of government and politics by Dr. Franklin L. Burdette, until now a professor in the department.

It was also announced that Dr. A. D. Zucker, head of the department of languages, will go to Europe to head the university's European study program.

Dr. Ray came to College Park in 1946 from the University of Alabama to head the department of government and politics. At the university he has also been director of the Bureau of Public Administration which assists the State and local governments in research.

He has made and published surveys of the governments of Hagerstown, Cumberland, Dundalk, Pocomoke, Salisbury and Silver Spring.

Dr. Zucker has been head of the university's department of languages for 13 years. He represented the United States in Germany for a year immediately after the war, working on new educational and text book programs.

Dr. Burdette has been at the University of Maryland since 1946, coming here from Butler University in Indianapolis. He is the author of "Filibustering in the Senate" and other articles. He was executive secretary of the National Foundation for Education in American Citizenship before joining the Maryland faculty.

Emma Wold, World Law Expert, Dies

Dr. Emma Wold, lawyer, lecturer and writer, died yesterday at her home in the Savoy Apartments, 2804 14th st. nw. She had been ill several months.

Dr. Wold

Dr. Wold, an expert on nationality laws, was appointed by President Hoover in 1930 to be technical adviser to the conference for the codification of international law at The Hague.

She wrote several legal articles, including "Comparison of the Political and Civil Rights of Men and Women in the United States" and "Nationality Laws as Affected by Marriage." The latter was the basis of the Equal Nationality Treaty at the Inter-American Conference in Montevideo, Uruguay.

Dr. Wold was born in Norway (now Menno), South Dakota. She attended schools in Oregon and was graduated from Western College of Oxford, Ohio, and elected to Phi Beta Kappa. She held degrees from the University of Oregon and Washington College of Law. She received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from Western College.

Dr. Wold was active in the campaign for women's suffrage and was president of the College Equal Suffrage League for Oregon.

She came to Washington in 1921 and served as national chairman of the Women's Committee for World Disarmament. From 1933 to 1937, she was special attorney for the Department of Justice, translating European laws.

At the time of her death, she was writing a book on laws affecting the home.

Dr. Wold was a member of the American Association of University Women, the American Society of International Law, the National Association of Women Lawyers and Phi Delta Delta legal fraternity.

She is survived by three sisters, Miss Jean Wold and Mrs. Robert R. Boyer of the Savoy Apartments here, and Miss [illegible]a Wold of Rye, N. Y., as well as three nephews and two nieces.

Mrs. Maud R. Seabury, Wife of N. Y. Judge, Dies

New York, July 21 (AP).—Mrs. Maud Richey Seabury, 72, wife of Samuel Seabury, former judge of the State Court of Appeals, died here today at her summer home.

Mrs. Seabury was decorated during the war by the British government for her work as director of the English Speaking Union, formed to cement Anglo-American unity.

Blackstone Funeral Held At Cedar Hill

Funeral services were held yesterday in the sanctuary of Cedar Hill Cemetery for Mrs. Florence Morgenthau Blackstone, wife of Paul J. Blackstone, owner of the Colonial Beach Hotel, Colonial Beach, Va.

Mrs. Blackstone died of cancer Thursday in Doctors' Hospital. She had been ill since February.

Born in Chicago and educated at Smith College and Barnard College, Mrs. Blackstone was active in the fight for woman suffrage and was once treasurer of the Women's Trade Union League.

She also was an active campaigner in President Wilson's drive for re-election in 1916, and served as secretary of the labor bureaus during the Liberty Loan drives in World War I.

One of the first women to gain prominence in Wall Street, Mrs. Blackstone was office partner and cashier of John L. Morgenthau and Co., large dealers in bonds and specialists in stocks.

Mrs. Blackstone retired in 1930 because of ill health. Since then she has devoted her time to hobbies such as collecting books, tropical fish, breeding Pekinese dogs, and finger painting.

In addition to her husband, to whom she was married 32 years ago, Mrs. Blackstone is survived by two daughters, Janet Wise, of New York City; and Mrs. Charles L. Seebeck, jr., Tuscaloosa, Ala.; and a brother, John L. Morgenthau, Elizabethtown, N. J.

Dr. Butcher Dies; Dentist For 50 Years

Dr. George H. Butcher, 71, for 30 years dentist at the Industrial Home School for Colored Children, died yesterday of thrombosis at his home, 225 C st. se.

Dr. Butcher was a native of the District and graduated from Howard University Dental School in 1903. He practiced here for half a century, ceasing work last November because of illness.

Dr. Butcher was a former president of the Robert T. Freeman Dental Society which he joined in 1904. He was also an honorary life member of the National Dental Association, which he helped organize.

He was also a member of the Omega Psi Phi fraternity.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Septima W. Butcher; a daughter, Mrs. Rosalind B. Lewis of the C st. address, and a brother, Robert E. Butcher.

Funeral services will be held at McGuire funeral home, 1920 9th st. nw., Monday at 1 p. m. Burial will be in Lincoln Memorial Cemetery.

Manassas Rites Today For Mrs. Clara A. Lewis

Funeral services for Mrs. Clara Adele Lewis of Jacksonville, Fla., who died Thursday in Georgetown Hospital, Washington, will be held today at 2 p. m. in Manassas, Va., where she formerly lived. Burial will be in the family cemetery.

Mrs. Lewis was a Red Cross nurse during World War I and a member of the American Nurses Association. She was the widow of Benjamin S. Lewis.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Roy J. Long of 5403 S. 4th st., Arlington, with whom she had been visiting; Mrs. Emily Cronenweth of Washington, and Mrs. Lillian Christensen of Kearney, Nebr., and four brothers, Walter C. Larson of Galesburg, Ill.; George L. Larson of Waldorf, Md.; Alfred P. Larson of Ogden, Utah, and Ralph K. T. Larson of Norfolk, Va.

R. S. Hichens, 85, Dies; Wrote 'Paradise Case'

Zurich, Switzerland, July 21 (AP).—Robert Smythe Hichens, 85, who wrote "The Paradine Case" and other best sellers, died last night.

Hichens, born at Speldhurst, Kent, wrote his first novel at 17. His "Garden of Allah," published in 1904, sold more than 800,000 copies, was turned into a successful play and filmed several times. "Bella Donna" also got play and film treatment. His poem "A Kiss and Goodbye" was made into a concert song.

Dr. Riemenschneider, Bach Authority, Is Dead

Akron, Ohio, July 21 (U.P.).—Dr. Albert Riemenschneider, director of the Baldwin-Wallace College Conservatory of Music at Berea, Ohio, for the past 50 years and recognized as one of the world's foremost authorities on the music of Bach, died yesterday at the age of 71.

Man Accused In Death of Ex-Wife Held

The 44-year-old electrician at the Washington Terminal, who lives at 5401 Silver Hill rd., Parkland, was ordered held by Trial Magistrate Arthur B. Owens.

Detective Wilson J. Purdy testified that Waesche told police he borrowed a pistol to shoot the woman, Mrs. Ida W. Dugan, who died several hours later in Casualty Hospital. The shooting took place at her home, 808 49th ave., Capitol Heights.

He said Mrs. Dugan had kept "nagging and worrying him" over twice-monthly payments of $25 for the maintenance of their two children, Purdy testified.

Board Meeting Called on Use Of Cardozo

The District Recreation Board will discuss the golf course question and future recreational use of Cardozo—formerly Central—High School at a special meeting July 27, Chairman Harry S. Wender announced yesterday.

The board is seeking to take over from the Interior Department control of the five publis golf courses in the city. Last week the District Commissioners withdrew from a supplementary appropriation bill before Congress a request for $275,000 needed to finance the transfer. They said they wanted more information before approving the request.

Wender said he would report to the board on this action and on progress of negotiations with the Interior Department.

Wender said the board also will receive a committee report on the effect conversion of Central to a Negro school will have on its recreational use. In the past Central has been a center of white recreational activity, Wender said. The school and its pool have been closed for repairs this summer.

Snure Quits Group To Run for Office

Robert T. Snure, president of the Allied Civic Group of Silver Spring, yesterday announced his resignation to concentrate on his candidacy for a seat on the Montgomery County Council.

Convention Hotel Adopts Rose Hobby

One of the city's largest rose gardens has recently been completed at the Shoreham Hotel in anticipation of the convention of the American Rose Society September 30-October 2.

There were no roses in the Shoreham's gardens before, but 10,000 petunias, lots of cannas and so on.

You just couldn't have the Rose Society meeting without roses around. So the Potomac Rose Society, host group to the convention, got together with the Shoreham and produced the work of art. It'll be a permanent fixture at the hotel.

There are 16 beds with all kinds and colors of roses in bloom, including many new varieties such as those hybrid tea Golden Scepters, the '49'er and Sutter's Gold. James Wills, executive assistant manager of the Shoreham, estimated the rose garden extends across an area 200 by 125 feet.

The 1000 bushes and 50 varieties came from growers in New York, New Jersey, Ohio, California, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Maryland, Texas and Pennsylvania. Charles C. Montgomery, president of the Potomac Rose Society and one of the wheels behind the project, said.

The garden is in the rear of the hotel and visible from the terrace and the veranda.

Abdication Plan Denied

Oslo, Norway, July 21 (AP).—The Foreign Office tonight denied a report that Norwegian King Haakon VII is planning to abdicate in favor of his son, Crown Prince Olaf.

Captain Traber First Guardsman Called to Duty

Captain Clemens J. Traber of the headquarters detachment, District National Guard, became the first local Guardsman currently called to active duty as he was notified Thursday to report to Selective Service headquarters.

Captain Clemens received his notice at Fort Miles, Del., where the D. C. Guard is in its annual two-week training encampment. He was a member of the Guard before World War II and was called in 1940, as now, by Selective Service.

After two years with Selective Service, he served in Africa and Italy for 30 months, receiving the Combat Infantryman's Badge and six battle stars and one arrowhead on his European Theater ribbon. Employed by the Department of Agriculture, he lives at 6902 Shepherd st., Hyattsville, Md., with his wife and their two children, Maureen, 2, and Bonnie, 5 months.

D. C. Group to Help Celebrate Battle Of Bull Run Today

Manassas (Bull Run) National Battlefield Park, Va., will be the scene of a celebration today commemorating the eighty-ninth anniversary of the first battle of Bull Run.

The Confederate Memorial Committee of the District in cooperation with the superintendent of the park and other Confederate organizations is sponsoring the celebration.

The program will include a tour of the battlefield and Henry House Hill. Ogle R. Singleton will give a talk on Stonewall Jackson, Mrs. Livingston Vann, member of the Confederate Memorial Committee, said.

Fred P. Myers, chairman of the committee, and Mrs. Charles H. Plotner, vice president of the Stonewall Jackson Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, will place a wreath on Jackson's statue.

Buses will leave 1416 F st. nw. at 1:30 p. m. and will return after the ceremonies. The program will last from 3 to 5 p. m.

Meeting Planned To Weigh Probe's Counsel Situation

The House District Crime subcommittee probably will meet early next week to consider whether it should check into its chief counsel, Hyman I. Fischbach.

Chairman James C. Davis (D., Ga.) said he received a letter Thursday from the House Administration Committee suggesting the crime group look into objections raised by some Congressmen against Fischbach.

The Administration Committee ordered the letter sent to crime subcommittee members after approving $20,000 more to continue its investigation of local crime and law enforcement.

Australian Premier To Arrive Here July 27

Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies will arrive here July 27 to confer with President Truman, Secretary of State Dean Acheson and other American officials, the State Department announced yesterday.

Man Drowns When Rescue Try Fails

Thomas Parker, 38, a laborer, of 345 G st. sw., drowned early yesterday when he tripped and fell into the water at the Municipal Fish Wharf, 11th st. and Maine ave. sw.

Police said the drowning happened shortly before 1:30 a. m. Benjamin Chavis, 22, of 527 F st. ne., and Samuel Dozier, 17, of 711 G st. sw., dived into the water to save Parker.

Chavis told police he grabbed Parker, but was unable to retain his hold because the man was too heavy.

Rescue Squad No. 1 and the Harbor Precinct's Patrol Boat No. 4 recovered the body at 1:30 a. m. Artificial respiration failed and Parker was pronounced dead at 1:41 a. m. by Dr. Dorothy Holzworth of the Emergency Hospital staff.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued a certificate of accidental death.

Mrs. Spitler of Luray Dies; Family Pioneeerd

Luray, Va., July 21 (AP). — Mrs. Della Grove Spitler, 85, widow of Joseph M. Spitler of Luray, died at her home here last night. She was the daughter of the late John Pendleton Grove and a member of one of the pioneer faimilies of Luray.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at her home.

She is survived by a brother, Dr. Burnam Grove of Roanoke; a sister, Mrs. Eugene Hogan, Washington, and five children. They are Raymond Spitler, Staunton; Dr. Lloyd Spitler, Dr. Vincent Spitler, Eugene Spitler and Mrs. Thomas Booton, all of Luray.

Evangeline Booth Services Postponed

Memorial services scheduled for Evangeline Booth will be held on Sunday, July 30 at the six Salvation Army Centers in the National Capital Division, instead of July 23 as previously announced.

A "Prayers for Peace" day will Be observed this Sunday in Salvation Army posts throughout the world.

More Working—More Jobless, Maryland Statistics Indicate

Baltimore, July 21 (AP).—Maryland's employment has gone up—and so has its unemployment.

The double-barreled rise comes about in this way:

Because of seasonal work and other factors, employment reached 699,700 by mid-June. The Department of Employment Security said this was a high point for the year with the advance totaling 13,500 since May.

However, there was an influx of June graduates and summer workers and this sent the unemployment figure to 66,800, about 2,000 higher than in mid-May.

Welfare payments also climbed during the May-June period, going to $1,311,361 last month. The State Department of Welfare said this marked a $2777 jump from May to June and was $140,806 higher than June of last year.

The employment gain was a net rise of 18,400 over the June, 1949, level, chairman William H. Mahaney of the Employment Security Board reported.

Major employment increases during the period for wage earners and salaried workers were in non-manufacturing industries, the report said. The working force went up about 9,300, for a total of 486,200.

Industrial plants took on 4,200 more workers putting the manufacturing total at 213,500.

Miss Truman to Christen Airliner

By Marie McNair

A FLOCK of white doves, symbol of peace, will soar skyward this afternoon when Margaret Truman christens the Constellation, the "United States" first of a new fleet of Capital Airlines planes.

There'll be no traditional bottle of champagne for the President's daughter to crack over the nose of the ship. Instead she'll toss a flower wreath at the same time as she releases the doves.

Ceremonies will take place at the Washington National Airport at 4:30 with the Rev. Bernard Braskamp, chaplain of the House of Representatives, offering the prayer. Oswald Ryan, acting chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, will speak.

The "United States" is said to be the last word in comfort, beauty and design. Mrs. Althea O'Hanlon, director of passenger service, was the interior decorator, the first of her sex to achieve that honor.

New Ambassador To Greece Feted

SEVERAL informal parties recently have centered about the newly named United States Ambassador to Greece, John Peurifoy and Mrs. Peurifoy who plan to leave in late September for Athens.

Philip Kaiser, Assistant Secretary of Labor, and Mrs. Kaiser, were recent dinner hosts in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Peurifoy. Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin was among the guests, and others included Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dawson and Charles Hulten, general manager of "Voice of America."

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Darling will give a cocktail party and buffet supper on August 3 in honor of the Peurifoys.

Friends Bid Farewell To Miss Reynolds

MRS. NATHAN HURWITZ entertained at cocktails yesterday as a farewell to Miss Genevieve Reynolds who will leave Sunday for New York preparatory to sailing for Rio de Janeiro where she will be assistant Press Attache at the United States Embassy in Brazil.

Among those asked yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dawson, Col. and Mrs. George Gaydash, Armand Bastin, Col. and Mrs. Gordon Campbell, Monroe Stern, Dr. and Mrs. Stephen Verges, Mr. and Mrs. Deymour Jesselsohn, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Brite, Mrs. Dale Collins, Count Nicholas de Rochefort, Furman Bridges and Mrs. Allie Freed.

Polish Embassy Marks Liberation Day

THE national holiday of Poland, National Liberation Day, was celebrated at the Polish Embassy at a reception last night given by Polish Ambassador and Mme. Winiewicz. An accordionist serenaded the guests and a string duo played.

Mme. Winiewicz's gown of aqua nylon was made with a draped halter top and full skirt and a stole to cover her shoulders. She wore her favorite jewel, a pendant with a dove of peace motif.

Among those who accepted invitations were the Ambassador of Canada and Mrs. Hume Wrong, the Ambassador of the Philippines, Joaquin Elizalde, the Chilean Ambassador and Senora Nieto de Rio, the Pakistan Ambassador and Mme. Ispahani and the Ambassador of Sweden, Erik Boheman.

Others who had been invited were Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Jack McFall; Deputy Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. James Bonbright, Frederick Reinhardt, Henry Byroade, both of the State Department; the Irish Ambassador and Mrs. John Hearne, the Thailand Ambassador and Princess Wan Waithayakon, Senator Milton Young, Representative and Mrs. Omar Burleson, Representative Clyde Doyle, Representative and Mrs. Olin Teague, Paul F. Douglass, president of American University; Cloyd H. Marvin, president of George Washington University and Mrs. Marvin and Mr. and Mrs. S. G. McFarlane.

Dalley—Dunn Wedding Advanced

PARTIES came in a rush this week for Miss Agnes Laura Dunn and Lawrence G. Dalley who pushed their wedding date from September 21 to today, because of Mr. Dalley's uncertain plans at the State Department.

Yesterday the bride - elect started off her day with a luncheon in her honor given by Mrs. Richard Miller at the Chevy Chase Club. Members of her wedding party were among the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Price Dunn entertained at dinner at the Sulgrave Club last night for their daughter, her fiance, the bridal party and out-of-town guests, following the wedding rehearsal. After dinner Mr. and Mrs. Winslow Van Devanter and Mr. and Mrs. James Leon joined forces for a dance at the Sulgrave Club for Miss Dunn and Mr. Dalley. In addition to the wedding party and out-of-town guests, there were about 30 close friends of the bridal couple.

The Italian Ambassador and Signora Tarchiani entertained at an after-concert reception last evening following "Italian Opera Night" at the Watergate with the National Symphony Orchestra. The artists who were honor guests were Giuseppe Antonicelli, Herva Nelli, Antonio Madasi and Cesare Bardelli.

Greeting Prepared For Australia's Premier

AN important mid-summer visitor due to arrive next week is Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies of Australia. Now in London on an official business trip the Prime Minister will sail today aboard the Queen Mary for this country. He docks on Thursday and will come to Washington for a week's stay.

In the Prime Minister's party are Allan Brown, secretary of the Prime Minister's Department; Fred Wheeler, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; S. A. Meere, Assistant Comptroller General of Customs; Brigadier Henry Rourke, Assistant Secretary of the Department of Defense; Robert Willoughby, the Prime Minister's personal assistant; and Comdr. Robert Jackson, secretary of the Department of National Development.

The Prime Minister will be a guest of the Ambassador and Mrs. Norman Makin at the embassy. Members of his party will stop at a hotel.

The Charge d'Affaires of Burma and Mme. Tin Maung were hosts to the 40 or more members of the Washington Students Citizenship Seminar at a supper and informal dance last evening at the embassy. The guests took part in the native dances of Burma and the United States.

Admiral Fahrion To Command Destroyers

AFTER two years as superintendent of the Naval Gun Factory in Washington, Rear Admiral Frank G. Fahrion has received new orders. He will command the Atlantic Fleet Destroyer Force and will board his flagship, the Destroyer Tender U. S. S. Yosemite, next Wednesday. The ship will be based at Newport, R. I., where Mrs. Fahrion will live while her husband is at sea.

Before coming to Washington, Admiral Fahrion was in command of the Pacific Fleet Destroyer Force. In World War II he saw action in practically every theater of war and immediately after the Japanese surrender he commanded the Naval Occupation Task Force 55 in Japan.

Israel Appoints Brilliant Young Envoy to U. S.

A brilliant and youthful diplomat has been appointed Ambassador of Israel to Washington. His name in English is Aubrey S. Eban—in Hebrew form, Abba Even. With his wife, he is expected in Washington some time in August.

The new Ambassador is just 34, but for several years has served his country as a leading statesman. Mrs. Eban is the sister of Mrs. Chaim Herzog, wife of Israel's Military Attache in Washington.

High lights in the Ambassador's career: Lecturer in Oriental languages at Cambridge University; liaison officer in Palestine between Allied headquarters and the Jewish population, 1940; chief instructor at the Middle East Center of Arabic Studies after the war; liaison officer with U. N. Special Committee on Palestine; head of the Israeli Mission to U. N. in May, 1948, when State of Israel was declared; also author of numerous writings on Near Eastern Affairs.

FRANCOIS Gustave Laraque, newly appointed Ambassador of Haiti, arrived in Washington Thursday. He was accompanied by his daughter, Monique, age 16. Mrs. Laraque and two other daughters, Jacqueline, age 18, and Maryse, age 14, are expected in Washington next month.

Before coming to Washington, the Ambassador served as Charge d'Affaires of Haiti in Chile and Peru, 1941-1944; Minister of Haiti to Peru, 1944-1947, and Ambassador of Haiti in Mexico, 1947 to his present appointment.

Francois Laraque was educated at the Military School of Haiti, Port-au-Prince, Haiti, and he served in the Haitian Army 20 years, 1921-1941.

French Designers Alarmed

War Clouds May Injure Style Trade

PARIS, JULY 21 (U.P.).—French fashion leaders are worried that fear of a world war may keep many American buyers at home this fall.

A spokesman for the Chambre Syndicate de la Haute Couture, the French Fashion Association, said today only about 100 American buyers had so far registered—just one third of the number which had signed a week before last spring's collections.

"We are very worried that many American buyers will stay home because of the war scare," the spokesman said.

Last February Paris recorded the all-time high of 450 American buyers. One week before the openings, more than 300 had registered with the syndicate.

One of the reasons for anxiety here is that French fashions look to America for between 50 and 85 percent of their trade.

In recent months many of the big French designers have visited the United States to try to gauge American tastes.

'51 Silhouette Still Secret

MEANWHILE, fashion experts still were guessing about the dark secrets of the 1951 Paris silhouette.

The actual fall silhouette is still in the same security classification with the H-bomb, but it was learned today that this fall's fashions will accentuate the hips and keep the shoulders free of padding.

Skirts, too, are due for a big change. At the spring and summer showings, the trend was definitely upward, but for the fall, the plush and gilt fashion houses off the famous Champs Elysees will show skirts at mid-calf length. Or even lower in some cases.

Pierre Balmain's pert blonde right-hand gal, Ann McGarry, told a reporter the fashionable woman will be feminine again this fall. She quoted her boss as saying:

Eyes Will Drop To the Hips

"DURING the 'new look' period, the eye went to the plunging neckline and wasp waist. Now it's going to go to the hips, and any fullness will be below the hipline.

"If women are boyish in the summertime, next fall they will be definitely feminine. The fall and winter seasons are meant for warm colors, rich and romantic. Beautiful fur trims, and luxury, luxury, everywhere."

While the top secret classification of the fashions does not permit it to be known exactly what milady's silhouette will be, it is practically certain that Paris fashions are going to be more expensive, more intricate, and more luxurious than ever before.

Balmain, for example, is presenting a collection of 16 minx coats along with his other clothes. Average cost of a coat: $3000.

Every one of Balmain's dresses will have a headdress to match; even his glamorous new floor-length evening gowns will be crowned with a hat.

"My evening dresses will be the most expensive and the most elegant I've ever done—and all will be a new silhouette," he said.

There will be no in-betweens. Clothes will either be very casual or very lavish.

Hints Offered In Advance

THE first Paris fashion collection will be presented July 27. Until then, here are some hints:

From Balmain: Start growing your hair again. The short boyish cut is fine on the beach but sloppy in the salon. Hats are cloche with lace decoration or helmet types. Collars are simple. Shoulders are narrower than ever, with no padding at all.

From Dior's: The new collection will be absolutely different from anything in the past. It will be more "Dior" than ever, and very, very feminine.

Fill Your Buffet Plate, but Count Those Calories

By Ida Jean Kain

SLIMMING would be all smooth sailing in summer . . . if it were not for the tinkle of ice in tall glasses and the extra-curricular calories.

But there are ways to go light even on social calories. Many summer affairs are served buffet style and that is a help. If you are clever in your selection, you can fill your plate without overloading on calories. Take a couple of slices of the cold chicken and also of the cold meats, have a piece of cheese and a deviled egg, several slices of tomato and the salad. Take one roll or one slice of buttered bread. Then with your beverage you have a good meal, but not a fattening one.

IDA JEAN KAIN

Don't Impair Your Morale

That plan is much better than to go the rounds and take just a little of this and a little of that . . . and later go back for more. Besides with next to nothing on your plate, someone will sing out: "Lou is dieting . . . again." The tone of voice always seems to imply that you won't stay with it . . . and that this doesn't mean a thing.

Sometimes it's said almost accusingly . . . "You're dieting!" . . . as if you shouldn't be. None of this is any help to your morale, and you get to thinking that this diet is spoiling all your fun. So choose protein instead of carbohydrates . . . satisfy your hunger and fool your friends.

But don't fool yourself by thinking, "I'll eat this just to be polite" . . . when seconds and thirds are passed around. And don't look hesitantly at the Lobster Newburg or the potato salad, or the hostess will feel called upon to urge, "Oh, do have a little more."

The Overzealous Hostess

Some hostesses are never happy unless they can get their guests to overeat! But with millions of Americans overweight, pushing food on more or less reluctant guests should be considered a social error.

Now about the potent calories that come in summer drinks . . . some are asking which is the least fattening. It is best to choose a long, tall drink—not a sweet one, but a highball. One can last a long time.

Social Worker to Bring Skills to Italy

Petite and pretty Ora Vita returns to her home in Milan Italy, next month to put to use what she's learned in the past two years from her advanced studies in child welfare and community organization in this country.

Although dark-haired, vivacious Signorina Vita is bound to be an asset in her home city, she has one major problem: "We do not have words for 'case work' and 'group therapy' in Italy," she explains.

The United States is so far ahead of her country in the sciences of social work that some of Ora's newly acquired terminology will have to be dropped for the time being.

"But I know I'll be able to help my people by what I have learned generally," she states. She'll probably serve with the Federation of Italian-Jewish Communities.

By Harry Goodwin—The Washington Post

LOOKING at a photographic display in a corridor of the Social Security Building are Ora Vita (left) of Italy and Franceline Bloch of France. Both girls have completed two years of advanced study in this country on scholarships from the National Council of Jewish Women. They are taking a short course at the Federal Security Agency before leaving next month for their home lands

Studied in Ohio

The young Italian received her scholarship for advanced study in this country from the National Council of Jewish Women. Her studies were taken at the Western Reserve University School of Applied Social Science, Cleveland, Ohio.

Why did she choose a career in social work? It all started, Ora relates, during the last war when she was interned in a refugee camp in Switzerland. She had been an energetic worker with the underground forces in Milan until there was no longer any place for her to hide.

Together with several compatriots she walked to the Swiss border, dug herself under a boundary fence while Nazi watchdogs barked nearby. She went directly to a Swiss internment camp where she remained until the end of the war.

Served as Nurse

"I found that the other people in the camp soon began coming to me for advice and help. Many of them seemed to want to talk especially with me when they were in distress. Later I was asked to serve as a nurse. And, before I knew it, I was a social worker," she explains simply.

Yes, the Italian Signorina is anxious to see her home land again, but she's going to miss this country, too, she confesses. "The people here are so wonderful! They seem to like you immediately without ever questioning what you are or what your background is."

Along with three other recipients of scholarships from the Council of Jewish Women, Ora is taking a short course at the Federal Security Agency on government social service. She sails August 30 on the Queen Mary.

Sales Up 17% Here and 24% Across Nation

By S. Oliver Goodman

Washington department store sales spurted last week to 17 percent above a year ago.

Nationally, store sales soared 24 percent in the week ended July 15 compared with the same week, the Federal Reserve Board reported yesterday.

The sharp gain bore unmistakeable signs of "scare" buying by consumers disturbed over the Korean war news and trying to stock up on items that were scarce during the previous war.

President Truman in his radio address Wednesday night described scarce buying as "foolish" and selfish" because "hoarding results in entirely unnecessary local shortages." He added that he would not hesitate to recommend rationing and price control "if prices should rise unduly because of excessive buying or speculation."

Across the Nation, all Reserve districts reported substantial sales climbs. The smallest, 12 percent, was in the Richmond Reserve District which includes Washington and Baltimore. Down in Dallas, stores rang up a 39 percent gain.

Much of the recent buying is said to be on the installment plan or charge accounts. Some store executives are said to favor Federal consumer credit controls.

The sales boom comes after months of lagging behind 1949. It has been sufficient already to wipe out the declines suffered earlier. The sales volume for January 1 to July 15 is now exactly equal to the amount for the like 1949 period. Here are the figures, as reported by the Federal Reserve Board:

District	One week	Four weeks	Jan. 1 to July 15
Boston	+14	+3	−2
New York	+16	+3	−4
Philadelphia	+16	+7	−1

Kaiser-Frazer Plant Closed by UAW Strike

By The Associated Press

A strike of CIO United Auto Workers closed the Kaiser-Frazer automobile plant in Detroit yesterday. The plant employes 10,000.

The New York World-Telegram and Sun withdrew an offer it made to the striking CIO American Newspaper Guild. The Texarkana Gazette and Daily and the Eldorado (Ark.) Daily News and Times said they maintained normal publication despite a work stoppage of AFL printers.

Workmen left the Kaiser-Frazer plant in protest against suspension of a union shift chairman. Pickets refused to let anyone enter the plant.

The strikebound New York newspaper made its provisional offer last Wednesday. It included a provision that employes joining the Guild must retain their membership for the duration of the contract. The Guild seeks a requirement that 9 out of 10 eligible employes be Guild members.

TWA Seeks Court Order to Restrain Airline Merger

New York, July 21 (U.P.).—Trans World Airlines petitioned the United States Court of Appeals today to review the on-again off-again merger of its two major competitors.

The petition claimed that the Civil Aeronautics Board order giving the green light to the merger of Pan American World Airways and American Overseas Airlines was illegal. It said the CAB reversed its previous denial of the merger merely because President Truman directed it to do so.

The petition said the Civil Aeronautics Act did not give President Truman the power to have the CAB reverse itself.

TWA said it would ask the United States Court of Appeals at New Haven, Conn., for a temporary restraining order to halt the merger, which was approved effective July 17.

Judge Slaps Down Four Hollywood 'Spurious Martyrs'

Federal Judge David A. Pine refused yesterday to reduce the one-year jail sentences imposed on four Hollywood writers for contempt of Congress.

Instead, he denounced Dalton Trumbo, Albert Maltz, Samuel Ornitz and Alvah Bessie as false "martyrs" for refusing to tell the House Committee on Un-American Activities whether they were Communists.

He accused them of "spurious martyrdom" and of "trying to make a hippodrome of the performance."

"These defendants in their statements to me portrayed themselves as martyrs," he said. "I do not feel that they were honest. I am not persuaded that they are martyrs. I would indeed be gullible if I were persuaded."

Bomb Found in Berlin

Berlin, July 21 (U.P.).—West Berlin police reported today they discovered an unexploded World War II bomb in the Tiergarten about 600 yards from the Russian War Memorial.

Potomac River View
DE LUXE 2-LEVEL BRICK RAMBLER
This charming home, recently built by an engineer for his own use, is situated on a beautiful corner lot, and is located in one of nearby Virginia's most exclusive residential areas, within one block of country club and transportation. Especially designed for a couple or small family interested in a spacious new home. It boasts of a wide center-entrance hall with a gracious Chippendale stair rail to the lower level. The large living room (20x25) has in addition a beautiful bay window dining area with commanding view of the river. Other features in this room are mellowed random-width floors, an abundance of built-in bookshelves, and an exquisite colonial fireplace. French doors open on a private brick terrace with artistic wrought iron rail and with uninterrupted view of the river; a spacious breakfast room (9x10) also has a river view; 3 twin-sized bedrooms, each with private tiled bath, are on the 1st level and on the lower level there is a master bedoom (15x21) with fireplace, private bath. Dutch doors opening on lawn and with beautiful river view. All-electric GE kitchen with dishwasher and disposal; servant's lavatory in basement, built-in garage; the latest in hot-water heating system. Storm windows; a charming red brick walk and entrancing stone walled garden area lend charm to the place.

Radiation Defense Seen In Body Tissue

Paris, July 21 (AP).—Your appendix, spleen and other tissues may hold a secret of how to save lives after A-bomb radiation, or too much X-ray treatment for cancer.

This possibility was described today to the Fifth International Cancer Research Congress by Dr. Leon Jacobsen of the University of Chicago.

Radiation, from A-bombs or too much X-rays, destroys bone marrow and other blood-forming organs. This radiation sickness can cause death if the exposure is great enough. Radiation was one of the big killers in the A-bomb explosions in Japan.

Jacobsen gave big doses of X-rays to rabbits, mice and rats. But in some of them he put lead shields around their spleens, blocking out the X-rays. The spleens were still attached to their bodies and could be put back into place after the X-raying.

Many more of the animals with protected spleens than the others survived the big doses of X-rays. After doses that caused radiation sickness, their blood-forming organs recovered in eight days, instead of three weeks for unprotected animals.

This aid in recovery from radiation sickness does not seem to be due to any chemical in the appendix, spleen or other organs, he said.

Rather, it seems to be something that works throughout the whole body, he said. One guess is that it is due to one kind of basic structure cells that hold such body organs together. These cells, called reticular cells, are the primitive ones from which new cells grow.

A potent new salve has made some breast cancers disappear, Dr. Hanes Lettre of Heidelberg, Germany, reported.

The salve is a new chemical, a kin of the drug colchicine, made from the autumn crocus plant. The new cousin of colchicine is ten times more potent.

Some breast cancers treated with the new drug disappeared and had not returned three years later, Dr. Lettre said. But because they still might return, they could not be considered cured, he added.

Lettre said the colchicine chemical had been used since 1942 on 50 women with breast cancer. Results on most, however, were not known because he had lost track of them during the war.

The new drug, n-methyl-colchisamade, stops cancer cells from dividing or reproducing if it catches them at the middle phase of this activity, he explained.

Colchicine and its new cousin are poisonous drugs with bad effects on healthy tissues as well as on cancerous ones. Both have to be used cautiously.

Last American Born in Seoul

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

MRS. IRVIN H. BAKER holds her baby, Ann, born in Seoul June 1, on their arrival in Minneapolis. Ann was the last American born in the South Korean capital before the war began. The father is Capt. Gov. Warren Ousts Sheriff In Gambling

Tallahassee, Fla., July 21 (U.P.)—Gov. Fuller Warren today suspended Broward County Sheriff Walter Clark, who was linked to gambling operations by the U. S. Senate Crime Investigating Committee.

Warren made his decision, subject to review by the State Senate, after a hearing at which Clark did not testify in his own defense. He had cited the sheriff for "malfeasance in office."

C. L. Chancey, attorney for Clark, argued he could be suspended only for failure to do his duty in his present term of office which began 18 months ago. The committee evidence against him, based on tax returns, was for the period 1945-48.

Seized in Gaming Raid, Evidence Disappears

Culver City, Calif., July 21 (U.P.)—Part of the evidence seized in a raid on an alleged 18-million-dollar a year baseball bookmaking ring with reported national connections have vanished from police headquarters, a detective said today. Bales of evidence were seized Monday when police surprised three men in the back room of a drug store.

Big-Time Gambler Reported Retired

St. Louis, July 21 (AP).—The Globe-Democrat said tonight it has learned that James J. Carroll, nationally-known St. Louis betting commissioner, has gone out of business. The newspaper said Carroll's swanky offices in East St. Louis (Ill.) closed Monday and that Carroll's attorney, Morris Shenker, reported his client has retired.

Belgium Uneasy as Leopold's Return Nears

Brussels, July 21 (U.P.)—Public demonstrations broke out in Belgium today on the eve of King Leopold III's return to this bitterly divided nation from five years of exile.

Royalists shouted "vive Leopold" during a disorderly Independence Day parade, but angry Socialists, led by former Premier Paul-Henri Spaak, shouted for the monarch's abdication.

Gendarmes shouldered through the crowd to stop the disturbances but pulled up short when they saw that leaders of the demonstrators were persons with parliamentary immunity.

Unprecedented security precautions were put into effect as Leopold prepared to fly here Saturday from Switzerland. State troopers armed with rifles surrounded Laeken Palace. Guards were posted on the royal palace as well.

The airport where Leopold will land will be sealed at midnight and crowds will be kept 2 miles away.

Informed sources said Leopold is due to arrive at 6:30 a. m. (1:30 a. m. EDT). The hour may have been set to avoid demonstrations against Leopold.

The historic mission of escorting the king home was undertaken by Catholic Premier Jean Duvieusart, Senate President Paul Struye and House President Frans Van Cauwelaert. They flew to Geneva this afternoon, less than 25 hours after Parliament declared Leopold fit to reign again in a vote boycotted by all parties but the Catholics.

(Duvieusart, in Geneva, said his government will offer its resignation to Leopold at a special meeting of the Crown Council the King had instructed him to summon for 3 p. m. Saturday—10 a. m. EDT).

July ECA Allotments Total 287 Millions

By the United Press

The Economic Cooperation Administration yesterday alloted $287,600,000 to the 16 Marshall Plan Marshall nations for July.

This was the initial allotment of fiscal 1951 and represents unobligated funds left over fiscal 1950 which ended June 30.

It included 75 million dollars for Britain; 60 million dollars for Germany and 40 million dollars for France. Next came Greece with 28 million dollars. Iceland received the smallest allotment of $600,000.

Walter Winchell is on vacation. His column will be resumed in mid-September.

Democrats Face Contests

Baltimore, July 21 (AP).—Today's lineup in Maryland's six congressional districts finds the Democrats with three contests in the September primary and the Republicans with none.

The Democrats, however, have the only candidate for a House seat with no opposition in sight for either the primary or general elections. He's Lansdale G. Sasscer, present representative from the Fifth district.

Sasscer is one of three Democratic incumbents who haven't yet announced officially they will seek reelection. But there's little doubt that he, Edward T. Garmatz, from the Third, and George Fallon, from the Fourth, will.

Garmatz will have a primary fight on his hands. Mrs. Lillian Klecka has announced she will oppose him. The winner will have to contend with Sheridan F. Smith, Republican, in the general balloting in November.

Fallon has no Democratic opposition yet. James W. Miller has filed for the Republican nomination.

Other Democratic primary contests are assured in the first and second district.

State Senator Thomas F. Johnson and Herman Y. Broomhall already are in the Democratic race in the first. Representative Edward T. Miller said he planned to file his certificate for reelection today. He will be the only Republican in the race so far.

William P. Bolton, the Democratic Representative from the second, has to beat William Boucher 3d for the nomination. Running on the Republican ticket is James Devereux, retired Marine general.

No contests have shown up in the sixth district. The Republicans have J. Glenn Beall seeking reelection and Russell Hartle, a retired Army general from Hagerstown, aspires for the Democratic nomination.

TV-Radio Plans Set For All-Star Grid Tilt

By C. E. Butterfield

NEW YORK (AP).—The pattern in pro football television of omitting local stations from network relays is becoming more and more fixed.

It started last year with the National League pro schedule and will be continued this fall in a renewed ABC-TV contract. Avowed purpose is to sidestep objections that have risen against local TV and the possible effect on gate receipts.

Red Grange

The newest case will be the telecast of the annual all-star football game scheduled for the night of August 11 in Chicago. Although Dumont will provide direct relay to 29 of its affiliates, the stations in Chicago and nearby Milwaukee won't have the game direct, even though the Chicago unit, WGN-TV, will be doing the network pickup.

Actually, WGN-TV, along with WTMJ-TV at Milwaukee and the non-direct relay station, WTCN-TV at Minneapolis, will not get in on the event until the following Sunday. That will be via an hour's film summary.

Radio broadcast, also a regular part of the event, again will be on MBS, with Harry Wismer and Red Grange at the microphone. In addition, the game will go short wave for overseas.

Participants will be the college all-stars and the Philadelphia Eagles, National League champions.

BIGGER pictures, lower prices.

That's the trend in new television models being introduced by the set makers.

A good example of lower prices is the 16-inch table model set. A year and a half ago, a model that sold for $495 was a low-priced sensation when introduced. Now several makes are selling for $200 or less.

The 10-inch size that was bought by the great majority of customers 18 months ago has been discontinued by all but a few manufacturres. The 12-inch screen that next became No. 1 in popularity now is being crowded out by larger sizes.

Two-thirds of the picture tubes now being made are 14 inches or larger.

Two manufacturers have brought out new models with real king-size pictures. General Electric is showing one that has a 24-inch screen and Dumont is displaying a model with a 30-inch screen.

Radio sets, incidentally, are continuing their strong comeback.

They are being made, and sold, at a far greater rate than a year ago despite television's spectacular gains.

Philco Corp. reports its sales of radio sets from June through September are expected to be more than double what they were a year ago.

Albert J. Rosenbraugh, radio sales manager, says the radio sets aren't all going to areas without television.

"We have noted," he declares, " a strong resurgence of demand for radios, including console radio-phonographs, in television areas."

Other reports indicate there's frequently a lot of radio listening in the home even when the television set is on, by members of the family who don't care for the video show being tuned in.

An Asbury Park, N. J., concern, Trad Television Corp., has started manufacture of coin-operated television sets for hotels and tourist courts—a half hour of television for a quarter . . . If you've wondered how much electricity a television set uses, here's an idea: RCA Victor's new 12½-inch table model takes 160 watts, or as much as one 100-watt light globe plus a 60-watter.

WE the People, which has been putting the same version of its Friday night program on radio and television simultaneously for two years, is trying separate programs in each medium. If it goes better that way, the plan will become regular.

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

'Career Diplomat' Gets Green Light

A member of the diplomatic corps now stationed in Washington tells this story about the days when he was Foreign Office personnel director back home.

Going through his files one day, he noted the birth date of his country's representative in a remote South American post.

"Good heavens," he thought, "the man is now 112 years old. We ought to ask him whether he wants to retire."

Whereupon he dispatched a letter of inquiry, and in a few days got back a reply that ran like this:

"Am I to understand from your letter that this position is not hereditary? I inherited it from my father of the same name, and he got it from my grandfather. For many years I have been looking forward to the day when my son would represent our great Nation here. Please advise."

P. S.: They let him keep the job.

SUGGESTION BOX

W. R. asks: "Now that Capital Transit has its fare hike, do you suppose they'll be able to afford some grease on the Dupont Underpass tracks, to eliminate that ghastly squeaking?"

DOUBLE TROUBLE

Midred Understein of 217 Normandy dr., Silver Spring, Md., will probably think twice before she lets her twins go to the movies by themselves again.

Norman and Norma, aged 5, were deposited at the Hiser Theater the other day, with full instructions regarding the time they were to be picked up.

But at the appointed time, Mrs. Understein could find no trace of her children — even after she had searched the theater, inside and out.

So she took her story to the police, who promptly put out an alarm, and then want home to await developments.

There she found Norman and Norma, quietly minding their own business.

"Thank goodness you're safe," she said, "but how did you get home?"

"We took a taxi," piped Norma. What's more. she stuck to her story in spite of everybody's insistence that the kids couldn't have taken a cab, because they had no money.

The mystery wasn't solved until the next day, when Charlie Ross, driver for the Montgomery Cab Co., dropped in.

"Would you like to pay me for bringing your children home?" he suggested. "When they hailed me, I asked whether their daddy had authorized them to take a cab and they told me not only their daddy had authorized it, their mommy had, too."

Mrs. Understein shucked out the fare, and made a mental note to have a heart-to-heart talk with the twins some day.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Pretty gray-and-white 1-year-old cat and her two 8-weeks-old male kittens." (Adams 8841.)

"Small package of concentrated entertainment otherwise known as an 8-week-old kitten; will deliver." (Georgia 2877.)

"Adult hamsters." (Wisconsin 5934.)

"One-year-old dog, part boxer." (Vienna 47-W.)

"Mother cat and two 10-week-old white kittens." (Shepherd 1061.)

"Two-year-old cocker, white with brown markings, needs home with fenced yard." (Michigan 6031.)

UMBRELLA FORECAST

Now if I dare to leave it home
The rain comes down to pelt me;
But let me lug it while I roam
The sun comes out to melt me.

THAT'S BETTER

Mrs. Emil Falkenstein of 11523 Grandview ave., Silver Spring, Md., went supermarketing Thursday.

Among other things, her order consisted of two 2-pound sacks of sugar, her usual purchase. "I'm sorry, madam," said the clerk at the check stand, "but we're allowing only one sack to a customer."

Mrs. Falkenstein replaced the two 2-pound sacks on the proper shelf and returned with one 5-pound sack. The clerk smiled and checked her order through without a murmur.

Hall to Honor Marshall

Berlin, July 21 (AP).—The West Berlin city government announced today plans to construct a new hall to be named for George C. Marshall, former United States Secretary of State and originator of the Marshall Plan. The hall will contain a permanent exhibit of Marshall Plan aid to Berlin and an auditorium seating 200.

Best Combat Officers Not in Korea

By Drew Pearson

The United States armed forces have some great combat officers, but there seems to be a reluctance to use more of them in Korea.

Walker

Probably one of the most competent combat officers in the Army is Gen. James A. Van Fleet, now returning from Greece. In that country, Van Fleet got better acquainted with guerrilla and mountain fighting than almost any man in the United States Army. However, he is not being used for Korea.

Our ground force commander in Korea, Gen. Walton Walker, better known as "Johnny" Walker, had considerable combat experience in World War II, part of it under General Patton. But, according to Col. Robert S. Allen, a member of Patton's staff, Walker was a methodical slugger but not noted for his speed—one of the greatest necessities in Korea.

Bob Allen, who was given a brilliant commendation by Patton, tells—partly in his book "Lucky Forward"—how General Walker's 20th Corps was ordered to take Trier, but reached the Moselle River and sat down. Walker's bridge equipment had got lost, and, instead of improvising some way to get across the river, he let his troops wait nine costly hours during which the Germans had time to rush up reinforcements.

Walker's Forces Moved

As a result of this slowdown, SHAEF demanded that the Tenth Armored Division under Walker be transferred back to SHAEF and kept in reserve; and Bob Allen graphically describes General Patton's session with Gen. Omar Bradley in which he lined up his generals and had them explain why they wanted to push ahead.

Patton even called the roll of his generals, and when he got to General Walker, a plump, pleasant little man, Patton stormed:

"You want to fight, don't you, Johnny?"

"Yes, sir; yes, sir," replied Johnny.

"Oh, Johnny is a fighting s-o-b," Patton said to General Bradley. "Aren't you a fighting s-o-b, Johnny?"

"Yes, sir; yes, sir," replied General Walker.

It should be noted, of course, that it was no disgrace to be bawled out by Georgie Patton.

'Dry' Support Puzzling

Oklahoma's Senator Elmer Thomas was amused, puzzled, but pleased when he heard that the United Dry leaders of Oklahoma had endorsed him for reelection. His amusement was doubtless due to the fact that he is well known on Capitol Hill as a two-handed drinker and connoisseur of good bourbon.

"What's it all about?" The Senator joked with Dyke Cullum, his broker, when news of Oklahoma Dry support reached him in Washington. "I don't know what these people want to back me for," he said. "There must be some catch in it."

Senator Thomas was supposed to return to Oklahoma to campaign on Monday, but on that day Broker Cullum went up to New York to buy soya bean oil, lard, and shortening oil which he figures will go up in price as a result of the war news.

Meanwhile, Joycette Jones, the pretty Indian princess who is secretary of Thomas's agriculture committee and a close friend of Dyke Cullum's, is counted on to swing the Indian vote in Oklahoma. To help bring out that vote, Thomas has cashed quite a few of his stocks and bonds lately, but Cullum seems confident that he can win all this back by taking a ride on the rising price of lard and other fats which always get scarce during the war.

Symington's Associate

Stuart Symington, top mobilizer for the domestic front, has picked Bob Smith, head of Pioneer Airlines in Texas, to be vice chairman of his National Security Resources Board.

In so doing, Symington has sidestepped a request from labor that a labor leader be vice chairman. This was the strategy Roosevelt followed in naming Sidney Hillman of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and William Knudsen of General Motors as cochairmen of the Office of Production Management.

In a session with labor leaders, Symington explained:

"The vice chairman of this outfit has got to be a second me. He has to represent me in pushing legislation on Capitol Hill; he has to know how I think. I've got to have a man who is close to me to fill that job."

Instead, Symington invited labor leaders to appoint one of their number either as his assistant or as head of one of his bureaus. He asked for the best man they could find, and promised that he would be an integral and important part of the Resources Board.

Incidentally, Symington came out of the meeting tremendously impressed at labor's backing of the Government and its opposition to communism.

"These men really know what it is to battle communism," he remarked to an associate afterward. "Walter Reuther and Jim Carey (mainsprings of the United Auto Workers and the International Electrical Workers Union) have even been shot at by Communists. They really know what this fight is about even better than businessmen whose opposition to communism is more theoretical. We're lucky to have men like them leading labor today."
